MILLIONS SPENT BY GOVERNMENT ON PROPAGANDA

Inquiry Demanded by Congressman.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19. — [Special.] — Representative J. Parnell Thomas [D., N. J.] today threatened to expose a scandal "damaging to the New Deal party." He demanded a congressional investigation of the administration's propaganda activities. It is estimated these are costing taxpayers upwards of 50 million dollars a year.

Congressman Thomas said that he had conducted a preliminary one-man investigation of his own through a questionnaire to government agencies. The replies, he said, constitute an administration confession of vast dissemination of New Deal propaganda prepared by government press agents. This is in contravention of the law of Oct. 12, 1913, forbidding employment of publicity agents. He threatened to make public much of the material now in his possession unless his demand for an investigation is met.

Hopkins Fails to Reply.

The congressman said that all departments and other government agencies had replied to his questionnaire except Harry Hopkins' WPA and two others.

A hint of the extent of the scandal, said Mr. Thomas, may be gleaned from the admissions of the bureaucrats at house appropriations committee hearings. These he proceeded to review.

"Our government," Mr. Thomas said, "is in this propaganda business to an astounding extent. It is so huge that it is already rivaling the notorious dictatorships of Germany and Italy and the communist government of Russia in the dissemination of governmental propaganda. We may ridicule and criticize other undemocratic governments for their art of bamboozling their citizenry, but in the last analysis the present New Deal in this country is doing the same thing with its own publicity machinery.

"It is attempting to warp the minds of every individual citizen in this country by one sided, highly colored press releases, fanfaring radio talks, jelly bean moving pictures, and insidious theatrical performances.

Breeds Class Hatred.

"By its propaganda dissemination it is breeding class hatred, religious animosity, and un-American activities. It is attempting to set up in this free country a perpetual New Deal and a perennial burocracy—a government by the President, of the burocrats, and for the pay roll patriots."

The appropriation committee hearings, said Mr. Thomas, disclose that the department of the interior has recently set up a unified publicity department called the division of information. The request was made for a total appropriation for this division of $58,860. Of this $50,900 is to be used for salaries. The division will have a staff of 21 persons. It will include the work now being carried on by the publications section of the office of the secretary of the interior, the division of motion pictures, and the office of information attached to the secretary's office. The cost of mimeographing and multigraphing in the department of the interior for 1937 was $54,190.

Million for Housing Publicity.

The publicity division of the Federal Housing administration is spending in 1938 and will spend in 1939, $100,000. An additional sum of $200,000 will be utilized for so-called educational work. In 1937 education and publicity in the federal housing administration cost $1,100,000. The publicity division employs seventeen persons.

Weekly releases for real estate or business pages are issued to 800 newspapers. A monthly magazine entitled "The Insured Mortgage Portfolio" has a circulation of 22,500 copies. It is approximately 25 pages long. A semi-monthly clip sheet is issued to 1,000 newspapers. In the last six months of 1937, the division has prepared articles for more than 100 editors of trade magazines and other publications.

Great Use of Radio.

Relative to radio activities in the fiscal year 1937, there were 328 network broadcasts embracing 82 hours of broadcast time. On independent stations 147,339 broadcasts have been

ANGLO-FRENCH PACT SEALED BY KING OF BRITAIN

Ruler Welcomed by Throngs in Paris.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Radiophoto on back page.)

PARIS, July 19.—King George VI. of Great Britain, speaking a few hours after a tumultuous ovation opened his state visit to this country, tonight sealed the military alliance of France and Britain for defense.

"It would now be impossible," said the monarch at a state banquet in his honor in the presidential palace, "to recall a period in which our relations were more intimate."

King George spoke French in delivering his address, which was considered a symbol of Britain's acknowledgment of the Anglo-French political and military understanding negotiated last April in London as an answer to the Rome-Berlin axis.

Inspired by Same Ideal.

"Long and close collaboration has succeeded in proving that we are inspired by the same ideal," the king said of the French and British. "Our peoples have the same attachment to democratic principles which are best suited to their natural genius, and we have the same belief in the benefits of individual liberty. We are proud of this political faith which we share with other great nations.

"At the same time there is nothing exclusive in the understanding between us: Our friendship is directed against no other power."

President Albert Lebrun of France, welcoming King George, had said the latter's visit "constitutes the highest and most precious testimony of the common will which fortifies each day the confident sympathy of the two nations and the close collaboration of their representatives."

Cabinet Meets Royal Guests.

Queen Elizabeth accompanied the British ruler on the journey, which will last three and one-half days, dramatizing the "democratic axis" for the man in the street. Its organizers think the visit may influence profoundly the destinies of Europe.

Premier Edouard Daladier and the whole cabinet of the third republic journeyed to Boulogne to receive the royal guests as they set foot on French soil this afternoon amid a salute from a squadron of the smartest and swiftest French cruisers and destroyers ranged in two lines for the royal British yacht Enchantress to pass between.

The ceremonial, and even more, the public attitude of the French toward the visit, expressed symbolically the French viewpoint. For instance, an unexpected touch in the state ceremony was furnished on the arrival at Boulogne simply by school children singing, in painfully memorized English, "God Save the King," the British anthem.

Paris Citizens Line Streets.

The officially recommended phonetic pronunciation, published last night, was printed thus: "Good saive aour grechieuss kinng. Longg laive acur nobeul kinng. Godd saive ze king."

No less impressed, an estimated 300,000 to 500,000 of Paris' residents turned out to give an exceptional popular welcome to the British sovereign when he disembarked from his train in the Bois de Boulogne station in the northwest corner of Paris at 4:58 p. m. [10:58 a. m. Chicago daylight time].

The size of the crowd and the presence of thousands of workers from the "red ring" of Paris suburbs showed the results of official efforts to surpass the demonstrations arranged by Premier Mussolini for Reichsfuehrer Hitler's visit to Rome, and by Hitler for Duce's recent visit to Berlin.

35,000 Troops Line Route.

The shouts of "Vive le Roi," however, were a disappointment because police took such fantastic precautions to protect the royal couple that most of the crowd did not see the king's car pass. There was a burst of cheers when the king and queen entered cars at the station, again at the Arc de Triomphe and occasionally as the cortège rolled down the Champs Elysées to the foreign ministry building on the Quai d'Orsay where the royal guests are lodged.

Thirty-five thousand soldiers lined the route on either side. Almost all branches of the army except the artillery were represented.

Behind a stout temporary fence that held the populace yards away from the curb roamed Paris' entire mobilized police force and plain clothes men. Ten thousand reserve officers watched entrances to buildings and the windows of apartments fronting on the royal route.

Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone Separate

Hollywood, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—Joan Crawford and her husband, Franchot Tone, movie stars, issued a joint statement tonight that they had come to a parting of ways. They announced that Tone was moving to separate quarters.

"We are parting on the most friendly terms," they said. "We both regret that our marriage had to terminate, but we feel it is better for us to part."

In the statement issued at M-G-M studio, where both are employed, they said the matter of divorce had not been discussed at length. They added that there would be no hurry about filing suit.

Married in 1935.

The couple married secretly in Englewood Cliffs, N. J., on Oct. 13, 1935, after reports had been circulated for more than a year that they were married and others that they would wed. Miss Crawford obtained a divorce from Douglas Fairbanks Jr. at Los Angeles on May 12, 1933.

Tone, who was born in Niagara Falls, N. Y., met Miss Crawford on a film set as they played together in "Today We Live," Franchot's first talking picture rôle.

Joan made her way to Hollywood in 1925 after working as a waitress, store clerk, and later a night club dancer. She danced the Charleston in Chicago, Kansas City, and on Broadway.

Born in San Antonio.

She was born Lucille Le Sueur in San Antonio, Tex., on March 23, 1908. It was in Kansas City that she won her first Charleston contest. She tried out with a Springfield, Mo., road show, but it closed. Then she went to Chicago, arriving there with only $2 and got a job with an Ernie Young revue.

When Joan came to Hollywood she was three inches shorter than her present height and weighed 135 pounds. She was made to reduce and the name Joan Crawford was selected in a publicity name contest. She recently signed a five year contract at M-G-M for a total of $1,500,000.

Box of Bones and Whisky Bottles Makes Up Mystery

A Hudson avenue police squad stormed into the basement at 1235 North Dearborn street yesterday to investigate a box of human bones. The squad noticed that several of them had been neatly sawed. At the bottom of the box were some whisky bottles. The proprietor of the rooming house said yes, some medical students had roomed there.

EIGHTH GRANDCHILD OF ROOSEVELTS IS SON OF FRANKLIN JR.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 19.—(AP)—A seven pound boy, described by his father as beautiful, was born at the Pennsylvania hospital today to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., wife of the President's third son.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt Jr.

The father told reporters mother and child were fine. He said he and his wife, the former Ethel du Pont, had not decided on a name for their first-born, the President's eighth grandchild.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her husband drove to the hospital yesterday from her parents' home near Wilmington, Del., where they were married a year ago.

WHEN AMERICA PRODUCES A NEW WORD WE USE IT

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is a prompt recorder of many new American words. This was shown yesterday when the fourth section of the Dictionary of American English was issued by the University of Chicago. The section is from "butterfly tea" to "chubby."

Among the words for which THE TRIBUNE was the earliest printed source were the following: Cafeteria [1896]; canvass, meaning the personal solicitation of votes prior to an election [1875]; capper, meaning a tout for a gambling house [1897]; car barn [1882]; carriage costume [1875]; catcher, meaning a device to catch mail bags from trains [1875], and Chinese lanterns [1865].

PICK-A-BACK WILL BEGIN HOP OVER ATLANTIC TODAY

SOUTHAMPTON, England, July 19.—(AP)—The Mercury and Maia, two units of Great Britain's pick-a-back plane, flew separately today to Foynes, Ireland, for the Mercury's take-off from the back of the Maia tomorrow on an Atlantic crossing to Botwood, Newfoundland.

The Mercury is light, fast and has a 4,000 mile cruising range. The heavier Maia has tremendous power to take the lighter craft into the air, where the two separate by a system of lever releases.

Orders Troops to Maytag Co. Strike in Iowa

Des Moines, Ia., July 19.—(AP)—Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel tonight ordered out a battalion of Iowa National Guardsmen and established martial law in Newton.

Adjt. Gen. Charles H. Grahl immediately began mobilization of 150 Des Moines guardsmen. They will arrive in Newton by tomorrow morning, the adjutant general said.

The governor's action in sending troops to the scene of the Maytag Washing Machine company's labor disturbances followed a conference with Mayor George Campbell, Sheriff Earl Shields and Judge Homer A. Fuller.

Close Plant Today.

The plant, reopened yesterday for the first time since May 9 when the C. I. O. union workers went out on strike because of a 10 per cent wage reduction, will be closed when the militia takes charge in Newton.

Mayor Campbell and Sheriff Shields told the governor they were fearful of "what might happen" after trucks hauling Maytag company parts had been stopped near Newton today and telephone wires had been cut.

"Somebody is going to get killed there," said Mayor Campbell.

Judge Fuller declined to sign an application for troops, but said he had cautioned Shields and Campbell not to "let anything I have said influence you."

Tells Need for Protection.

The judge, who has been presiding during the trial of contempt of court cases growing out of the ten-weeks old labor dispute at the Maytag plant, told the governor, however, that he needed protection for his court.

Twenty-one men were scheduled to appear before Judge Fuller at 2 p. m. tomorrow to face contempt of court citations.

WILLIE ESCAPES IN STRIPES BUT MINUS PERFUME

Miss R. J. Johnson was worried last night about her Willie. Recently Miss Johnson bought Willie as a pet for her boarding kennel at 112 East Chestnut street.

But at 1 p. m. yesterday Willie felt the call of the wild, crawled out of his pen, and took it on high, as they say. And, Miss Johnson told the police, she is afraid some one on the near north side, not knowing Willie intimately, may take a pot shot at him.

Willie is a gentleman skunk. He has been deodorized. But, the policemen remarked, who would risk waiting long enough to find out?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, July 19.—The United States government may have big things in store for Douglas G. Corrigan, the grinning California Irishman who flew from New York to Ireland "by mistake." That government wants to bring Corrigan back alive and has taken steps to see that he does not risk his neck again before he gets home.

Douglas G. Corrigan. [Assoc. Press Radiophoto.]

The news was received here tonight that the department of commerce in Washington, D. C., had suspended Corrigan's experimental aircraft certificate. The department's action, which grounds Corrigan's plane, was taken to prevent Corrigan from attempting a westward flight across the Atlantic, which, one American official said, would be "almost certain suicide."

Money Offers Pour In.

Corrigan today looked upon the world through rose colored glasses. He had thousands of new friends throughout the world, and particularly in Ireland; he had money in his pocket [he received $2,000 for a radio broadcast to the United States last night], and he was flooded with offers to make more money. Among the offers was one for a vaudeville contract.

However, Corrigan turned them all down for the present with the statement that he preferred to be "footloose while I am here and won't sign anything."

"The $2,000 will keep me in pocket money while I am here," he grinned.

Refreshed by a long sleep in the guest room of the United States legation, where he is a guest of American Minister John Cudahy, the happy flyer took the storm of praise which descended upon him with the same unassuming modesty with which he stepped out of the Corrigan Clipper plane yesterday and casually announced that he had "just got in from New York."

Praised by De Valera.

Among the visitors who called to congratulate him was Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, who patted the 31 year old adventurer on the back and praised him for the "mistake" he made which has turned the glare of publicity on Ireland.

Corrigan repeated to De Valera the story of how his compass went wrong after he had taken off from New York and led him to fly east instead of west until, to his amazement, he found he had flown 3,150 miles to Ireland. Corrigan thanked De Valera for Ireland's kindness to him.

The flyer this afternoon went to the department of internal affairs, where he had no difficulty in straightening out the difficulty of having

Lake county was promised an era of peace and order last night. The pledge was made by Sherif Lawrence A. Doolittle after deputies, using tear gas, routed 300 law defying strike pickets in North Chicago.

As a result of the action, the plant of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company was opened. It had been closed for seven weeks by decree of the C. I. O. union pickets. More than 150 employés, who had pleaded for a chance to work, returned at once to their jobs and more are expected today.

100 to Enforce Law.

"We are through babying law violators," said the sherif. "The pickets, who refused to obey an injunction of Circuit Judge Dady, will stay an eighth of a mile from the plant. We will have 100 men on duty to see that they do.

"Outsiders will not be permitted to come in here and molest men who have been guaranteed the right to work. Court orders will be obeyed. If outside troublemakers appear they will be thrown into jail and questioned later."

Expects 250 Today.

Edward B. Sherwin, president of the foundry company, announced that all employés would be welcomed back if they wanted to work. They must, however, accept a 10 per cent wage cut, he added. The announcement of this impending slash in pay precipitated the strike.

Sherwin said he expected 250 men to report this morning. He added, "They will be on the job from 7:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. As there is much preliminary work to do it will take several days to get the plant running."

The firm attitude of the sherif encouraged the workers. They left the plant late yesterday afternoon to find the picket lines deserted. There were no reports of threats from the strikers, who held a meeting last night and heard speeches urging them to stand fast. After the meeting about 75 pickets took up their positions beyond a deadline set by officials.

Stones Hurled at Deputies.

During the struggle outside the plant, pickets hurled stones at the police and deputies. Others picked up tear bombs and tossed them back. There were a few hand to hand clashes. No one was hurt seriously, however.

Mrs. Marian Jelovesek and six men, only one an employée of the company, were arrested. Two men were charged with inciting a riot. They are Stanley Morun, alias Moran, a rapist who served six years in Joliet penitentiary, and Isaca Sinsun, a Mexican who has never been naturalized. Morun was sentenced to a life term in 1926 for his crime, but the sentence was commuted to six years by Gov. Emmerson.

The others were all charged with disorderly conduct. One is Arthur Mills, 18, a son of Oakley Mills, a C. I. O. organizer from West Virginia.

Many women and a few children were in the picket lines in front of the plant when the sherif's force of sixty gathered behind the gates. Five foremen had been barred from the place a little earlier. In charge was Deputy Sherif Stanley Christian.

At 11:57 a. m. Deputy Frank Valenta shouted an order. "You have five minutes," he said, "to get back to 22d street and Morrow avenue [two blocks]. If you don't go we'll use force."

Greeted by Catcalls.

Jeers and catcalls came from the throng. Promptly at 12:02 the police forces moved out in three waves. They carried tear and nauseating gas grenades. On a building roof near the gate Harry Quandt handled a long range gas gun capable of hurling shells 550 yards. A southwest wind carried the gas toward the pickets, who were forced south and east.

Most of the pickets gave way slowly, but Morun, wearing a gas mask, fought. So did Sinsun. He used a wet cloth to seize grenades and return them. Some of the women bit and scratched. In the storm of stones several of the 700 spectators were struck.

Steadily the police forces moved forward. They used clubs only against the active battlers. Most of them had pistols, but there was no firing. Thirty minutes after the sig ial to advance was given, the pickets were back to the deadline.

Deputy Valenta was slightly gassed and Deputy Frank Cahagan was cut and scratched. Up to last night seven of the pickets reported they had been injured. Only Sinsun was a hospital case.

125 Gas Grenades Used.

Sherif Doolittle said about 125 gas grenades were used. No one, he said, would suffer permanent ill effects. He congratulated his men on their restraint and the workmanlike handling of the situation.

Before the march started, Robert Wirtz, strike leader for several weeks, was arrested. So was Francisco Lira. Both had been indicted Monday on charges of conspiracy and incitement. Wirtz also is under sentence of 120 days in jail for violating Judge Dady's injunction against intimidating workers. Neither had furnished bail of $2,500 last night.

From Elkhart, Ind., it was reported that Meyer Adelman, another imported C. I. O. agitator from Kentucky, who was indicated with Wirtz and eighteen others, was under arrest. He had gone there to urge a strike at a branch plant of the hardware company, but was seized by local officers and held for Waukegan authorities.

Governor Sends Conciliator.

Adelman had telegraphed Gov. Horner, asking that he keep Dolittle from acting until attempts to arbitrate had been made. The governor sent a state conciliator to North Chicago, but did not communicate with the sherif.

Another conciliator, this one from the federal department of labor, arrived in the afternoon. He is Harry E. Scheck. Scheck conferred with union heads and then made arrangements for a conference with them and Sherwin this afternoon. Both conciliators will be present at the meeting.

The strikers, members of a local of the Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron and Tin Workers [C. I. O. affiliate], have demanded no wage cuts, vacations with pay, and a written contract. Sherwin has contended that the plant cannot remain open unless the 10 per cent cut is taken.

FINDS HE'S ALIEN; LOSES U. S. JOB HE HELD 29 YEARS

David Carlson was out of a job last night after 29 years of service in the Chicago postoffice system, because he was mistaken in his belief that he was a citizen of the United States. He was dismissed as a clerk last Friday under the new regulation that postal employés must all be citizens.

Carlson, who is 51 years old, was brought to the United States by his parents from Sweden when he was 5 months old. He had always believed that he inherited citizenship from his father, who died when Carlson was 12 years old. But investigation disclosed that his father had taken out only first papers.

Carlson lives at 4104 Oakdale avenue. He is the father of four children. The eldest, a son 26 years old, was recently ordained a minister. Gustave Wenzel, assistant postmaster, said yesterday that only an act of congress could reinstate Carlson.

50 DIESEL BUSES TO BE PURCHASED BY BUS COMPANY

The Chicago Motor Coach company will soon place a $650,000 order for fifty new type diesel-powered buses, Benjamin Weintraub, vice president, said yesterday. The new vehicles will resemble in design the latest model 40 passenger single deck buses. They will have hydraulic transmissions that do away with gears. Speed is increased smoothly and automatically, Weintraub said.

The buses will be built at Pontiac, Mich., by Yellow Truck and Coach manufacturing company. Each will cost $13,000. Deliveries are scheduled to begin about Oct. 1.

Van Buren 8 Cent Stamp to Go on Sale August 11

Washington, D. C., July 19.—[Special.]—The postoffice department announced today that the new 8 cent Martin Van Buren postage stamp of the regular series will be printed in olive. It will conform in size and design to other new stamps. The stamp will be printed in sheets of one hundred. Sale will start Aug. 11.

TOWN TOO TOUGH TO DIE NOW TAGS ITSELF FOR SALE

Tombstone, Ariz., Can Be Had for $75,000.

Tombstone, Ariz., July 19. — [Special.]—For sixty-one years this boom settlement of the 1880 silver rush has called itself the Town That's Too Tough to Die. It was the dark and bloody ground of the silver days, and it outstripped Phoenix and Tucson in population.

At top: Tombstone marking graves of five outlaws in famous Boothill cemetery near Tombstone, Ariz. [indicated on map by arrow].

The heavy bellow of the frontier pistol sounded daily in its streets. Its people had a fierce pride in this shack town that nestles beneath the purple hills.

And even during the years that Tombstone has been a ghost town that spirit has persevered. It has been a town too tough to die—until today.

City Takes a Vote.

Now it appears that Tombstone not only is willing to die, but will accept pay for doing it. Walter H. Cole, editor of The Weekly Epitaph, took a poll of citizens and found that they are willing to sell out — lock, stock, and barrel—to any Hollywood film company that will plank down $75,000. Editor Cole so reported to Producer Harry Sherman, who is on location here. Sherman referred the offer to Paramount studios in Hollywood.

To most old settlers of the region the town's decision came as a great shock. But to one old time prospector, who stood today in front of the building that had housed the notorious Oriental saloon, the decision was no surprise.

Poetry Seals Its Doom.

"I seen it coming," he said. "There was lots of signs, but I was sure when everybody started writing poetry a couple of years ago."

He referred to six foot Hal Smith who took office as city marshal and wrote an ode to celebrate.

The old-timer shook his head as he recalled the days when Wyatt Earp and Bill Breakenridge were the law and order men of the town. In those days a newly elected official would celebrate by arresting road agents and having them hanged. In Boothill cemetery there still stands a marker bearing the names of five road agents hanged in one day on such an occasion.

HUNT FOR CLEWS IN POISON DEATH ON CITY PRAIRIE

An inquest into the death of Joseph Grobarek was continued yesterday to Aug. 4. Grobarek, who was 45 years old and lived at 2915 North Hamlin avenue, was found dead Sunday morning on a prairie off the 5600 block on Diversey parkway. Beside the body was a whisky bottle that had contained poison.

John Rooker, 2049 Howe street, who is employed at the Standard Cap and Steel corporation, where Gobarek was assistant purchasing agent, gave information regarding the dead man's home life to Deputy Coroner Zeno Kopecky at the inquest yesterday. This information, Capt. Al Mikes of the Cragin police will investigate thoroughly, he said last night.

'L' Passenger Arrested on Complaint of 3 Girls

John Parrot, 58 years old, 1221 Grove avenue, Oak Park, was arrested last night on complaint of three young women that he made indecent advances while riding on an elevated train. They notified the conductor, who found a special railroad agent at the Marshfield avenue station. While being taken to the police station Parrot broke away from the agent, Charles H. Lobert, who fired a shot in the air, halting him. Parrot is a widower.

Proposed Extension of Wacker Drive

Route of proposed extension of Wacker drive (which now ends at Lake street) to Cermak road near Archer avenue. Under the proposed plans a double deck extension would be built from Lake street to Harrison street, using the present Market street and Franklin street course. From the present terminal of Market street, just south of Congress street, the route would become a viaduct or elevated highway for a mile and a half. It would follow the line Franklin street would take if extended. The viaduct would go over railroad yards and slope down to ground level at Cermak road and Archer avenue.

HOMES FLOODED BY CLOUDBURST IN WAUKEGAN

Streets Impassable in Many Spots.

A rain that for thirty minutes reached cloudburst proportions late last night flooded hundreds of basements along the north shore and left several streets impassable in Waukegan and North Chicago. Water was standing more than four feet deep at some intersections.

The rain began about 10 p. m. and fell steadily. Shortly before 11 p. m. the downpour increased in the Waukegan-North Chicago areas and the streets soon were running like rivers.

Trucks and Cars Stalled.

Glen Rock avenue in Waukegan was impassable near its intersection with Lincoln avenue. Trucks and cars were stalled in Stanley avenue, North Chicago, near the intersection with Foss Park avenue. The water there was four and one-half feet deep.

Police of the two towns received reports that hundreds of basements had been flooded. And the Waukegan police had troubles of their own. Water was half a foot deep in the station garage. The basement of the police building, which the force shares with the fire department, was flooded.

Several householders reported that their gardens had been ruined. The downpour had beaten plants flat upon the ground and had broken them off.

Rain Extends to Evanston.

The rain was accompanied by a heavy electrical storm. Lightning and thunder and a light rain extended down along the north shore as far south as Evanston.

No weather bureau record of the rainfall could be obtained, but it was the heaviest in some years, residents agreed. The rain still was coming down early today.

GREECE SHAKEN BY HEAVY QUAKE; BUILDINGS FALL

LONDON, July 19.—(AP)—The Exchange telegraph reported from Athens tonight that an earthquake shook the city at 10 p. m. and caused a panic over a wide area.

The village of Neapalatia, 65 miles northwest of Athens, was partially destroyed and an undetermined number of persons killed. Many buildings were destroyed at the nearby villages of Oropus and Kakossalessi. Tatoi, where the royal palace is located, also was damaged.

The center of the shock was at Chalkis, on the island of Euboea, just east of the mainland, and along the Attica coast opposite the island. Chalkis is about 40 miles northeast of Athens.

DIES AFTER FALL IN HOME.

TWO EVICTIONS MAY SMOKE UP THE SOUTH SIDE

It was a busy day indeed yesterday for the wild life squad at the Burnside police station. First it was bees at Julius Sacko's home, 9026 Dobson avenue. Neighbors complained that the bees stung Mr. Sacko's geese which honked too nosily.

Mr. Sacko said "foosh," he didn't want the bees. They arrived unsolicited a year ago and took up their abode in the walls of his home. He, too, said Mr. Sacko, had been stung. Suggestions, he added, were welcome.

But the squad had to hurry off to 615 East 89th street. There John T. Gill and family were trying to cope with a hornets' nest on the porch. A shoe box filled with sugar failed to lure them away. And so today if you see clouds of smoke on the south side it will be Mr. Sacko and Mr. Gill trying to smoke out their unwelcome tenants.

FREES 5 BECAUSE LAW CAN'T VOUCH FOR BEER'S KICK

It looked like beer and tasted like beer. Was it intoxicating? The policemen didn't know. So Judge Eugene J. Holland yesterday dismissed charges against five tavern keepers and bartenders who were in the Municipal court charged with selling intoxicating liquor after closing hours.

He freed Alex Medill, who owns a tavern at 551 North Clark street, two of his bartenders; Harry Eager, owner of a tavern at 5100 Broadway, and Robert Flavin, who owns a place at 3217 Lake street. Judge Holland continued to July 29 a charge that Flavin sold liquor to a minor. The judge then rebuked the minor, William Richards, 16 years old, of 4546 South Spaulding avenue, for causing the tavern man to lose his license. William said he had drunk only root beer.

COST OF EXTENDING WACKER DRIVE SOUTH PUT AT 23 MILLIONS

Extension of Wacker drive from Lake street to Cermak road near Archer avenue would cost 23 million dollars, it was estimated yesterday. The plan has been proposed as a substitute for eastward extension of Wacker drive from Michigan avenue to Field boulevard, which would cost $2,990,000.

The estimate was reported to the council finance committee by James P. Boyle, president of the board of local improvements.

Of the total cost the city could seek only $6,435,000 as a PWA grant. This is because $8,700,000 of the $23,000,000 estimate is for purchase of a right of way.

Under the new plan, $15,770,000 would be needed to build a double deck extension of Wacker drive from Lake street to Harrison street. Such a course would follow the present Market street. Just south of Congress street, Market street ends, and to continue it, buildings that are in the way would have to be condemned.

From the end of this three-quarter mile improvement, the route would become a viaduct or elevated highway for a mile and a half. It would follow the line which Franklin street would take if extended, along the east bank of the Chicago river. The viaduct would go over railroad yards and slope down to ground level at Cermak road and Archer avenue.

RECOUNT IN 13TH SENATE DISTRICT COMPLETE TODAY

The recount of Democratic ballots cast in the 13th senatorial district in the April primary for State Representative John G. Ryan, candidate for renomination, and Adam S. Mioduski will be completed today. Ryan was declared the loser by 140 votes in the first canvass. Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski ordered the recount.

John S. Rusch, chief clerk for the board of election commissioners, said the results of the recount are not conclusive because nearly 1,100 votes have been challenged and must be submitted to the court before they can be counted for either candidate. In the 389 precincts which had been completed last evening, Ryan lost 351 votes while his opponent lost 342. Fourteen precincts remain to be counted today.

CHICAGO TO GET MODERN GUARD AVIATION BASE

City, Schools, State, and U. S. Co-operate.

A new National Guard air base equipped with every aviation facility is to be constructed at Chicago airport during the next few months. Ground is to be broken for the new base on Aug. 19, it was announced yesterday.

A new hangar, which will be one of the finest in the United States, was assured for Chicago by the interest of Mayor Kelly and James B. McCahey, president of the board of education. Legal requirements for construction of the new $370,000 headquarters building will be met as a result of their sponsorship.

Extends School Lease.

The mayor today will ask the city council to approve an amendment in the city's lease with the school board for the 588 acres now used as the city airport. The change, which was approved by the school board on Monday, will extend from 9 more years to 27 the term under which the city will enjoy the present rates of rental on the flying field.

This was necessary because the state armory board, which has pledged $204,000 toward the total cost of the new hangar, had refused to spend the money at Chicago unless a long term lease on the hangar plots could be obtained. A Public Works administration grant of $169,199 will provide the remainder of the funds needed to finish and partially equip the structure.

Promise $700,000 Equipment.

The federal government through the National Guard bureau at Washington has promised to install $700,000 worth of machinery, equipment, and paraphernalia to make it an ultra modern flying station. As soon as the building is ready the 108th observation squadron, 33d division, Illinois National Guard, is to receive thirteen new $50,000 planes to be housed there.

Lieut. Joseph A. Crum, chief engineer for the state armory board, said yesterday that the new hangar will have 37,000 square feet of area, with an entrance 200 feet wide by 300 feet high, large enough for the largest four engined bombers. The basement will have a garage for fifteen trucks and an indoor rifle and machine gun range.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt announced yesterday that the PWA has allocated another grant of $1,881,869 for completion of runways on Chicago airport.

CIRCUS ELEPHANTS CLASH WITH PICKETS; ONE MAN IS GORED

Janesville, Wis., July 19.—(AP)—There was more excitement outside than under the "big top" tonight when pickets and elephants clashed in a wild mêlée as the Al G. Barnes circus, a subsidiary of the closed Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey unit, ended a one day stand here.

Sherif James Croake said he was "chased a block" by one of the animals, and that an unidentified man was gored in the back by an elephant hook before a circus official complied with his order to "get the darned animals off the road."

The circus drove a pair of elephants through the street, the sherif said, in what he termed an effort to break up a picket line of an estimated 1,000 Janesville union members and sympathizers. He said the union later resumed picketing.

The Ringling Brothers circus, closed recently following a strike at Scranton, Pa., was reported to have sent several of its acts to the Al G. Barnes unit.

O'CONNELL LEADS FOR CONGRESS IN MONTANA VOTE

Helena, Mont., July 20 [Wednesday]. —(AP)—Representative Jerry J. O'Connell of Butte took a lead over his closest rival, Payne Templeton, Helena educator, for the Democratic nomination for congress in the First Montana district on the basis of scattered returns early today.

The vote in the first 120 precincts to report out of 413 was: O'Connell, 6,995, and Templeton, 5,832. Other candidates were far behind. Ninety-two precincts gave Dr. J. Thorkelson 1,248 for the Republican nomination, and Winfield R. Page was second with 1,198.

Rep. James E. O'Connor [Dem.] was leading D. D. Rolph, 4,974 to 1,965, in 94 out of 800 precincts in the Second district. In the Republican race W. C. Husband received 1,583 votes and T. S. Stockdal was second with 1,230 in 90 precincts.

ALDERMEN HEAR ATTORNEY LASH TRACTION LEVY

It's Scheme to Save "L," He Charges.

The city council committee on local transportation yesterday heard a bitter attack on the proposed ordinance to force the Chicago Surface Lines to pay for use of the city's streets.

The attack was made before the committee by Harry P. Weber, attorney for Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank, and Harvey B. Fleming, who are receivers for the south side lines.

Weber described as unintelligent and unreasonable a proposed ordinance that would replace the old traction franchise of 1907 which expired last Friday.

May Pass it Today.

At its meeting yesterday the committee hoped to get the new measure into shape for presentation to the council today. If the ordinance is passed the city will go into federal court and ask that the receivers be forced to accept it.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction over the surface lines in receivership, issued a memorandum Monday in which he declared he will tolerate no further delay in settlement of the traction muddle. He indicated that unless an agreement is reached by Sept. 26, he will order the lines sold at auction.

At yesterday's meeting, Weber gave the committee to understand that the surface lines will resist the new measure to the end.

Calls It Hybrid Measure.

"This proposed ordinance is a hybrid measure," he declared. "It is neither fair nor intelligent. It shows on its face evidence of haste in preparation. It contains ambiguities and contradictions. It seeks to impose unreasonable and unbearable burdens upon the properties.

"One of the reasons offered for jamming this ordinance through is to get traction out of politics. I have been closely in touch with traction for thirty-four years and never yet has there been a time when it was not a political football.

"Half of the members of this local transportation committee are playing politics in the matter of extending lines. When they shout public interest they are thinking in terms of their own political aggrandizement.

Raps "Attempt to Save 'L.'"

"We have tried to be helpful in the preparation of this ordinance, but most of our criticisms and suggestions have been disregarded, or bellowed out of the window. The present situation is the result of an effort to salvage a failing and bankrupt elevated lines system at the expense of the surface lines."

Weber then said that the receivers are entirely opposed to the theory that users of a public utility should pay compensation for the use of the city's streets for an ordinary purpose. He added that it would be impossible for the surface lines—under the present 7 cent fare—to pay the city 3 per cent of its revenue for this purpose.

HORAN IS READY FOR CONTEMPT HEARING TODAY

Bailif Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court said last night that he is ready to face the contempt charge brought last week by the judges because he refused to reinstate fifty-five deputies ousted prior to the April primary. The citation called for his appearance today.

"I will be represented by Attorney Francis X. Busch," said Horan. "My defense is that there is no work for the men and it would only be putting the taxpayers to an unnecessary burden to put those men back on my pay roll."

The judges contend that Horan discharged the deputies for political reasons. Under the law they have the right to reinstate any one fired by Horan. They said that when the city budget was being planned last year Horan insisted that he needed all the deputies for whom appropriation was made.

REGULARS OF 42D WARD PICK YOUNG G. O. P. DELEGATE

Attorney James P. Economos was appointed to represent the 9th congressional district at the state convention of the Young Republican organization of Illinois at a meeting last night of the 42d ward Regular Young Republican group. The appointment was announced by Arthur B. Dehmlow, state central committeeman for the district. The principal speakers were Charles S. Dewey, Republican congressional candidate; Charles J. Monohan, nominee for state senator from the 29th senatorial district, and Letcher Lusby, candidate for sanitary district trustee.

SANDRA MARTIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19.—(AP)—A sentence of ten years' silence concerning the private life of Simone Simon, petite French film actress, was imposed on Sandra Martin, the star's former secretary, when she was saved from a state prison term today by Superior Judge A. A. Scott.

Miss Martin, convicted on three counts of forging the name of her former employer, must serve nine months in the county jail, however.

"You may never sell your knowledge gained of the private life of your former employer," the judge said. "You were hired as a private secretary and any information and knowledge you may have gained concerning your former employer must be held inviolate."

PRINCESS LOSES HER $27,000 SUIT FOR LOST LOVE

PARIS, July 19.—(AP)—A French civil court today threw out a suit filed by the Russian Princess Nadia Cherbatov demanding 1,000,000 francs [about $27,000] damages and an allowance of 10,000 francs [$270] a month from Count Louis de Brantes for his breaking off of a love affair.

The judges ruled against the princess, saying she "knew life well, she was married, and she still held marriage bonds" when she met the count.

The court also overruled the defendant's counterrequest for custody of her daughter, and ordered a monthly allowance for the child raised from 1,500 francs [$40.50] to 3,000 francs [$81].

The suit was filed on June 28. The princess, now a dress model, admitted the count's contention that either party had a right to end the liaison, but insisted the count's wealth and her poverty and the abruptness of the end of their affair entitled her to more than the 1,500 francs monthly allowance.

Can Decide on Necessity of Illegal Operation.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 19.—One of London's foremost surgeons, Dr. Alack William Bourne, was acquitted at the end of a two day trial today of performing an illegal abortion. He had notified police so as to challenge the law's right to forbid him to operate.

The courtroom was packed with medical students and physicians who cheered as the jury freed the defendant.

Though the law does not state any exception to the ban on abortions, the operation has been permitted in the past if physicians thought that childbirth would endanger the mother's life.

Establishes Surgeons' Right.

Dr. Bourne, at the risk of a possible life sentence, established the surgeon's right to produce a miscarriage when he considered it desirable even though the prospective mother were healthy.

He operated on a girl, 15 years old, who was raped by soldiers. One was sentenced for assault to four years' penal servitude, another to four years for abetting the assault and a third for twenty-one months for attempted assault.

Dr. Bourne's defense was:

FIRST—That though the girl was normal and healthy she was suffering great mental anguish because the circumstances of pregnancy and birth might cause a nervous or mental breakdown.

SECOND—That if a surgeon must wait until convinced that a woman's life was endangered, it usually would be too late to save her.

Deliberate Forty Minutes.

Baron Horder, physician to King George VI. of England, was among the prominent medical men testifying that they would have made the same decision as Dr. Bourne.

After forty minutes' deliberation the jury returned a unanimous verdict of not guilty.

The first to rush to shake Dr. Bourne's hand was the unnamed girl who was the victim of the assault.

Dr. Bourne's case was weakened by the fact that the physician who first attended the girl opposed an abortion on the ground that it might "prevent the birth of a future prime minister."

Besides Lord Horder, however, William Gilliatt, famous obstetrician, and Dr. John Rees, physician and psychologist, backed up Dr. Bourne in the decision.

Acted to Get Clear Ruling.

A police surgeon and school physician connected with the case both advised the operation, and it was upon the request of the girl's own woman doctor that Bourne undertook it.

Dr. Bourne explained his motive was to get a clear ruling on the right to perform such operations.

The general opinion now is that it definitly is established that a reputable practicing physician has the right to perform such operations when he considers it desirable.

EAT TOADSTOOLS AT PICNIC; THREE SERIOUSLY ILL

Three persons were ill yesterday after eating poisonous toadstools gathered in the belief that they were edible mushrooms. Mrs. Angela Fricarra, 48 years old, of 3059 Sheffield avenue, was in County hospital in a critical condition. Phillip Chillen, 43 years old, of 5810 Bloomingdale road, and Steve LaRosa, 42 years old, of 1242 South Fairfield avenue, both were ill at their homes. The three were members of a mushroom gathering expedition in a wood near West Chicago Sunday.

E. JOHN BRANDEIS.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Claire Brandeis, daughter of a noted French surgeon, made plans today to return to Paris after having won alimony of $700 a month yesterday from her wealthy polo playing husband, E. John Brandeis.

Mrs. Brandeis, third wife of the playboy, had asked for $2,500 a month. She based her request, she said, on the fact he inherited more than $10,000,000 from his father, J. L. Brandeis, merchant of Omaha, Neb.

The $700 is a mere pittance, Mrs. Brandeis contended, in comparison with $500,000 that went to Brandeis' first wife, $1,250,000 he paid his second spouse, a few hundred thousand for Barbara, daughter by his first marriage, and numerous alimony payments, heart balm settlements and counsel fees.

Hole in Tax Token Saves Boy's Life as He Gulps It

Denver, Colo., July 19.—(AP)—William H. Pile, 15 years old, was saved by the hole in a tax token today. He was holding the token under his lip to curb a nosebleed when it slipped and lodged in his throat. Physicians said it blocked the passageway but he could breathe through the hole.

TIE UP ACCOUNTS OF W. P. BULL IN SIDLEY WILL QUIZ

Canadian Officials Press Tax Investigation.

TORONTO, Ont., July 19.—[Special.]—Canadian inheritance tax agents tied up the bank account of W. Perkins Bull today. Under the will of Mabelle Horlick Sidley, Racine, Wis., malted milk heiress, Bull is to receive one-third of her estate.

Tax authorities yesterday tied up accounts of Mrs. Sidley in several Toronto banks and trust companies and sealed her safety deposit boxes. The Canadian authorities frankly are trying to find out whether the government is entitled to a large share of Mrs. Sidley's estate by reason of her year's residence in the home of Bull, where she died July 6.

Bull was questioned for two hours today by treasury investigators who are making a general survey of the estate of his wife, who died in October, 1934. Papers for administration of the $130,000 estate were not filed until April, 1938.

Many Transactions Reported.

The bulk of Mrs. Sidley's property is believed to be located in Racine, Wis., but it also is reported many financial transactions were conducted through Toronto banks in the last year and large sums in cash were on deposit.

Details of Mrs. Sidley's financial transactions and information concerning the amount of money Bull received from her in the last year are expected to be revealed July 26 at the inquest into her death. More than thirty witnesses will be summoned to appear.

Others besides Bull to be called before the inquest will include members of his family, the household staf, and former employés, the physicians who conducted the autopsy that fixed the cause of death as a brain malady, and Ontario pathologists.

Son Expected at Inquest.

Mrs. Sidley's son, William Horlick Sidley of Racine, only heir to the estate and to whom only one third was left, also is expected at the inquest. The other third of the estate is divided among 46 individuals and charities and St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis.

Sidley Breach Suit Settled.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 19. — [Special.]—A proposed breach of promise suit against William Horlick Sidley of Racine last Jan. 7 resulted in a favorable out of court settlement Attorney John A. Dunlap, counsel for Joyce White, revealed here today. Summons in a second suit on behalf of Miss White was served on Sidley May 11.

According to the lawyer, Miss White, a former Milwaukee night club entertainer, asked $40,000 damages from Sidley.

The second action, which is still pending, was brought by Arthur White, father of Joyce, in her behalf.

CORRIGAN PLANE IS GROUNDED TO 'PREVENT SUICIDE'

U. S. Fears Flyer Will Try New Ocean Hop.

landed in Ireland without a passport or other papers which trans-Atlantic flyers are supposed to have.

On instructions of government officials, the customs authorities turned Corrigan's plane over to him. It had been in technical custody of the customs department, but this had been regarded only as a means to protect it from souvenir hunters. Corrigan himself is technically in detention, but his treatment at the hands of the government and public left little doubt that he is free to come and go as he pleases.

The airman visited Baldonnel airport during the day to have a look at his decrepit flying machine. He said he wants to take the plane back to the United States when he sails, but he wants to take a boat which will carry the ship without dismantling it.

THE SUSPENSION ORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—The department of commerce today suspended the experimental aircraft certificate of Douglas G. Corrigan, who flew the Atlantic in a nine year old plane.

The effect of suspending the certificate was to ground Corrigan's plane and effectually prevent any attempt at a westward flight from Dublin, which, one official said, would be "almost certain suicide."

The main reason for the suspension order, it was explained by officials, was to stop Corrigan from any more ocean flights in his antiquated craft. Corrigan, after landing in Dublin, said he would return home by boat. The commerce department's action does not affect Corrigan's transport pilot's license.

U. S. Envoy to Deliver Order.

In a letter to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. M. Johnson asked that the suspension order be delivered to Corrigan by the American minister at Dublin. He explained that the oceanic flight had violated the terms of the certificate, hich authorized any nonstop flying between New York and Los Angeles.

The suspension order, directed to Corrigan, was coldly official. It said: "You have violated terms of Experimental Aircraft Certificate issued you for Curtiss-Robin aircraft, bearing United States registration NX 9243, in violation of . . . the civil air regulations, by making trans-Atlantic flight July 17 and 18, 1938.

"Your experimental aircraft certificate for said aircraft is hereby suspended, effective immediately. Demand is made upon you and you are directed to deliver said certificate to the American minister at Dublin immediately. Within twenty days after receipt of this notice, you may file written request with the secretary of commerce for a public hearing of this suspension, as provided in section 92 of the civil air regulations."

Expect Light Punishment.

Although the maximum penalty the bureau of commerce can assess against Corrigan for flying the ocean without a permit is a $500 fine and loss of his pilot's license, it was indicated after a day of consideration of the case that the punishment to be meted out will not be unduly severe.

Corrigan will have to return his airplane to the United States quickly or be liable to prosecution under the national munitions control act, which requires that a permit be obtained from the national munitions control board of the state department before any airplane, military or civil, may be exported. Exportation of an airplane may be made either by boat or train or by flying it, it was pointed out.

The state department is taking no action in the Corrigan case because of his failure to provide himself with a passport before his flight to Ireland. State department officials said the pilot could be granted a passport while abroad.

DIES BY GAS IN HOME.

John A. Miller, 59 years old, was found dead in the kitchen of his home at 2134 South Pulaski road yesterday. All gas jets of a stove were open.

Speeds Stolen Auto

Kenneth Fleming after capture in stolen auto yesterday.

When an auto that seemed to be driving itself flashed past in Maywood yesterday Motorcycle Policeman Darrell Brown gave chase. The car turned into a driveway and stopped beside a house. From his perch on the three cushions beneath the driver's wheel Kenneth Fleming 12 years old, peeped up.

"I live here," he said.

"Then I'm going to tell your mother not to let you drive any more," the policeman said.

It wasn't Kenneth's home. He ran, but the policeman caught him. Kenneth said he ran away from his Chicago home several weeks ago and the family had moved when he went back. He felt so sad he stole the car. Abbey Blattberg, assistant state's attorney, recognized him as the boy who was wearing women's high heel pumps so he could reach the pedals when he was caught a year ago in a stolen truck.

NAME'S DOUGLAS, FOR FAIRBANKS—USED TO BE CLYDE

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—Douglas Corrigan, who flies east when he wants to fly west, has been traveling under an "assumed" name for fifteen years. His name isn't Douglas at all. It's Clyde.

The flyer was christened for his father, Clyde Corrigan, a railroad civil engineer, at Galveston, Tex., where he was born in 1907. When the boy became old enough to read newspapers and go to the movies he decided Clyde wasn't appropriate for a young man of his dreams and ambitions.

In 1923 Douglas Fairbanks was Corrigan's idol. The youth, of course, had not heard of Lindbergh, who later became his pattern for life. So with firmness the boy let it be known that henceforth he was "Douglas Corrigan." And Douglas it is today.

THE HONORABLE CORRIGANS FORM SOCIETY IN CITY

To organize the good old Irish surname burned in the clouds by Douglas G. Corrigan, its Chicago bearers yesterday formed the First Chapter of the Honorable Society of Corrigans. Their initial act was to send an invitation to the flyer to come eat corned beef hash with them. Their second was to send him an aerial map showing the route from New York to Chicago, "so that." wired Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan, chief of the clan, "you will not head your plane for our fair city and end up in Omsk, Siberia." The new society will meet at a luncheon tomorrow at the Hotel Sherman.

BIG SCRAMBLE ON TO RAISE MONEY FOR CORRIGAN

Aviation Leaders Act to Prevent Exploitation.

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—Douglas G. Corrigan, impromptu transatlantic pilot, will have no necessity to fly back to the United States.

Steamship companies announced offers of free transportation for him and his plane. Chamber of commerce and advertising clubs cabled him offering to defray his expenses by steamer. Collections were started by companies, civic bodies, and other public spirited groups, and the initial returns from a wide area indicated that the flyer may net enough to charter a palatial liner for his return if he is so minded and the funds reach him.

Seek to Prevent Exploitation.

Just such a contingency was anticipated today by the leaders of the aviation industry, who are keeping a weather eye on Corrigan to prevent his exploitation.

A tentative committee of five was drawn up by Frank A. Tichenor, friend of Mayor F. H. La Guardia and publisher of The Sportsman Pilot and Aero Digest, monthly magazines devoted to aeronautics.

Alarmed at the number of fund raising organizations, Tichenor said he would recruit the committee to see that all funds were turned over intact to Corrigan. He already has asked Guy W. Vaughan, president of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, which built the engine of the Corrigan plane; Don Brown, president of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft corporation; Reed Chambers of United States Aviation Underwriters, Inc., and Lowell Thomas, president of the Advertising Club of New York, to act with him on the committee.

Signs Contract for Tour.

It developed that Corrigan had anticipated a measure of the demand for his services before he began his adventure. At the offices of American Airlines it was learned that he signed a contract last week to make a tour of the fifty-seven cities at which the air mail and passenger planes of that company stop, to promote patronage for air transport.

United Airlines also announced that the pilot had offered to make a similar tour of its express and way stations and that his offer had been accepted.

The Advertising club of Newark, N. J., began a campaign to collect $25,000 for a new plane as a gift to Corrigan.

An amusement park—made a tentative offer of $25,000 if he will name his plane for the park.

Offered Interest in a Business.

Jean I. Eliscu, president of a New York textile firm, offered a half interest in his business if Corrigan would fly around the world at the company's expense.

Hal Roach Studios offered to star Corrigan in a movie.

Plans are afoot to welcome Corrigan home with a water pageant. Eugene F. Moran, president of the Moran Towing and Transportation company, proposed to Mayor La Guardia's committee on reception to distinguished guests that a fleet of tugboats and fireboats greet the young pilot when he returns.

Los Angeles Plans Welcome.

Los Angeles, July 19.—(AP)—Plans for a great civic celebration were started today to welcome Douglas Corrigan back to Los Angeles. Director Charles S. Crail Jr., of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, said he had cabled Corrigan at Dublin to make a date for the welcome.

Mayor Frank Shaw of Los Angeles cabled Corrigan:

"There is no mistake, my boy, all air roads lead to Los Angeles. We are tremendously proud of you, but please return the safest way, because aviation needs you."

The flyer's uncle, the Rev. S. Fraser Langford, said he had cabled his newphew $200 and his congratulations and admonished him to "keep your feet on the ground." The Rev. Mr. Langford also disclosed that Corrigan once had won a baby contest in Galveston, Tex., for beauty.

Pilots Contribute by Pound.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 19.—(AP)—Almost a ton of pilots contributed a penny a pound today toward purchase of a new airplane for Douglas [Nonstop] Corrigan. James Brazell, the nation's oldest pilot, stepped on the scales and contributed $1.95, which other pilots increased to $19.75. Commented Clyde Nuckols, airport manager, "There are a lot of big fellows in this flying game—if it keeps going tomorrow as it has today, perhaps we can mail him a plane to come home in."

[Acme Photo.]

Capt. Alexander Papana of Rumanian royal air force, and wife.

Norwalk, Conn., July 19.—[Special.]—Capt. Alexander Papana of the Rumanian air corps narrowly escaped death today when his bimotored monoplane crashed and was destroyed near here while he was attempting a forced landing.

Capt. Papana, known as one of the world's outstanding stunt flyers, was making a last flight preparatory to a takeoff this week on a scheduled nonstop trip from New York to Bucharest, Rumania. The big all-metal monoplane was demolished when it struck a stone wall along a large field into which the flyer apparently had hoped to put the machine. Papana escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

As news of the accident was received, the state department at Washington announced that Capt. Papana's overseas flight had been authorized.

BOY CYCLIST, 14, STRUCK BY AUTO; DIES OF INJURY

Pale, bruised, and shaking, Charles Krueger, 14 years old, appeared before his parents last night in their home at 919 West 31st place. He was wheeling his damaged bicycle.

Charles said he had been hit by an automobile at 33d street and Lituanica avenue. He showed $1 the motorist had given him to fix his bicycle.

While his parents bathed his wounds the youth complained of an aching head. A physician was summoned and found Charles had a skull fracture. He was taken to St. Anthony's hospital, where he died early today.

Waiting to board a street car, Mrs. Mary Duddles, 66 years old, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile yesterday at Elston and Berteau avenues. Mrs. Duddles, who lives at 4128 North Springfield avenue, died in the Belmont hospital. The automobile was driven by Mrs. Pearl Hatton, 23 years old, of 1434 Belmont avenue.

Policeman Frank Kozlak of Summit died yesterday in Holy Cross hospital. He was injured when his motorcycle and an automobile collided while he was pursuing a speeding driver on July 9. The collision occurred at Archer avenue and 59th street in the village. The motorcycle struck a car driven by Woody Hack of 7514 59th street, Summit. The speeder escaped.

A husky man, about 45, was found dead early today at 44th street and Pulaski road. Apparently he was the victim of a hit and run motorist. Police found no witnesses to the accident. On his right forearm was tattooed a heart and a cross.

Mauretta Mullane, 4 years old, 3144 Lexington street, was critically injured last night when she was struck by an automobile at Congress street and Sacramento boulevard. The driver was Nathan Goodman, 23, 1435 South Spaulding avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 445 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 343 were killed in Chicago, where 10,148 were injured in the period.

HANKOW HEAVILY BOMBED AS JAPS BEGIN 'BIG PUSH'

400 Casualties in Attack on River Cities.

SHANGHAI, July 20. — [Wednesday.]—(AP)—Japan's long awaited "big push" up the Yangtze river against Hankow apparently was under way today.

Terrific aerial bombardment yesterday of Hankow and nearby cities, intensified naval operations, and air raids on Chinese strongholds defending approaches to the provisional capital indicated the campaign had started a new phase.

Dispatches from Hankow quoted Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as saying the tri-cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang were prepared to withstand whatever onslaughts Japanese unleashed upon them. The Chinese commander in chief also was said to have declared:

Convent Endangered.

The campus of the American Church mission's Boone university was bombed in Japanese raids on the Hankow area. Police and relief workers estimated that casualties in yesterday's bombardment of the tri-cities would reach 400.

Four bombs dropped on the university campus, killing twenty Chinese who had sought shelter under an old wall. Other bombs came close to the convent of the American Catholic Sisters of Notre Dame. Most of the casualties were in Wuchang, where Boone university is located.

Hankow dispatches said Japanese apparently had finally cleared a usable channel through a boom blocking the Yangtze river at Matowchen, 175 miles downstream from Hankow. Forty-seven Japanese warships and small transports reached Hukow, twenty-five miles upstream from Matowchen. They steamed on toward Kiukiang, 135 miles downstream from Hankow, engaging Chinese shore positions in an artillery duel.

Held Up for Two Weeks.

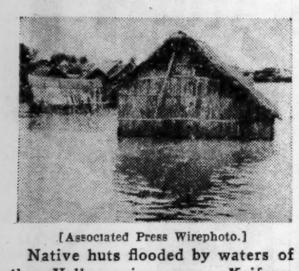
Japanese had been held up for two weeks by Chinese air attacks and accurate shelling from shore defenses. Now they were expected to drive in two directions—against Kiukiang as a stepping stone toward Hankow, and southwest through Lake Poyang against Nanchang, main Chinese air base. Yesterday Japanese flyers struck at Kiukiang to prepare a way for land and river assaults.

On the north central front, Japanese said their engineers had relieved a Yellow river flood menace to Kaifeng, Honan province capital, by destroying sections of the Lunghai railway embankment and permitting rising waters to pour into the surrounding countryside.



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

In South China, two Japanese warships shelled Tongka village, on Macao peninsula, across the Canton river from Hongkong. Chinese troops were prepared to repel a landing, but none was attempted.

About Shanghai itself Chinese guerrillas have kept up sporadic attacks. In industrial Pootung, across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai, Chinese asserted such attacks had cost perhaps 600 dead in the last four days, including 500 peasants killed accidentally or by Japanese on suspicion of guerrilla activities.

BRITISH IMPOSE GAG ON MESSAGES FROM PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, July 19.—(AP)—British authorities today announced the inauguration of censorship on all newspaper cables from the strifetorn Palestine. Cables will be censored between 8 a. m. and 11 p. m. and no dispatches will be passed between 11 p. m. and 8 a. m. The curfew which authorities had imposed to aid in quelling Arab-Jewish disorders was lifted today because there had been no new incidents in the last twenty-four hours. Police and troops, however, made swift raids in search of hidden arms both in the old and new city.

WOMAN DIES OF FALL.

Ottawa, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—Injuries suffered three weeks ago when she fell on the stairs of her home, caused the death today of Mrs. Alfred Carlson, 72 years old, a local resident.

Demand Withdrawal of Soviet Troops

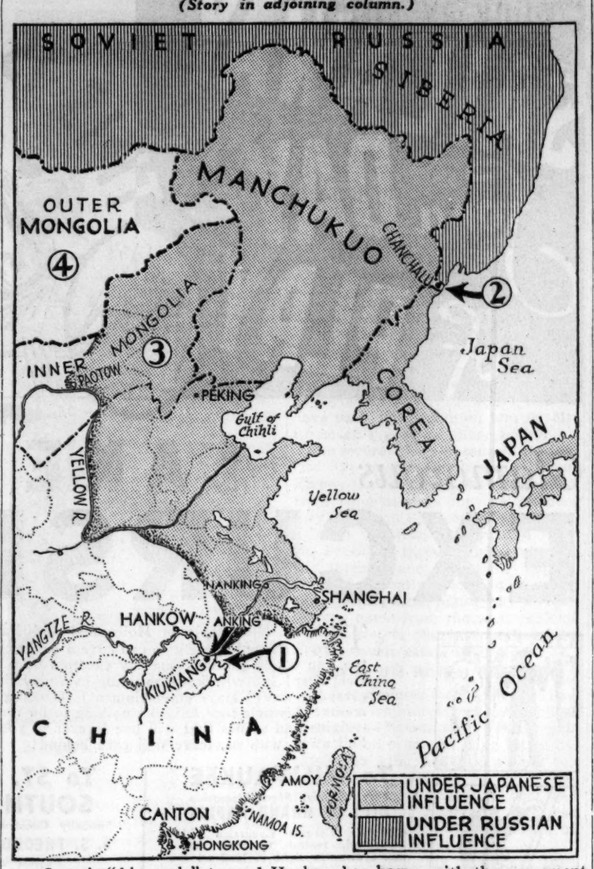
(Story in adjoining column.)



Japan's "big push" toward Hankow has begun with the movement of a fleet up the Yangtze river toward Kiukiang (1). The Hankow area was heavily bombed with 400 casualties inflicted. Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said "Manchuria and Corea soon are destined to become battlefields." Japan has demanded the withdrawal of soviet troops from the positions they took up on the Manchukuo-Corea border (2) after an incident of July 11. Japanese influence is strong in Inner Mongolia (3) and Russian influence is growing in Outer Mongolia (4) on the northwest frontier of China. Key indicates the extent of Japanese influence in China, including Japanese occupied territory.

JAPS WARN REDS: RECALL TROOPS OR WE WILL ACT

New Border Clash Stirs Wrath in Tokio.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 20 [Wednesday]. — A Japanese document which almost can be described as an ultimatum was handed the commander of the soviet Russian frontier patrol yesterday.

Today Tokio newspapers played up a new border incident in which Japanese gendarmes and Manchukuan police were fired on by soviet GPU [secret police] forces near Hulin, in eastern Manchukuo and far north of Vladivostok, Siberia. Two Japanese were wounded.

Request Evacuation.

Yesterday's note pointed out that "invasion of Manchukuo and construction of positions therein can, under no circumstances, be permitted." It requested the Russians "speedily to evacuate the area, otherwise Japanese forces definitly will take the necessary action. In this event the entire responsibility will have to be borne by soviet troops."

[Japan and Manchukuo claimed that Russian troops invaded Manchukuan territory near the intersection of the Siberian-Manchukuan-Corean borders on July 11. The occupied territory is not far from Changkufeng. Press reports in Japan have indicated increased activity among the Russian troops, and said a soviet air squadron reconnoitered the vicinity.]

Put Up Barbed Wire.

Reports today from the Corean border said that the Russians continued to take a challenging attitude, and were putting up barbed wire entanglements.

Foreign Minister Gen. Kazushige Ugaki yesterday discussed the question of border incidents with War Minister Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki. The two were reported to have agreed to postpone the defining of border lines at present, but to insist the soviet union withdraw its troops to their positions before recent incidents and offer compensation for slaying a Japanese soldier.

Meanwhile the Japanese military is on the spot. Its critics hold that the soviet actions clearly challenge Japan and the critics are reported demanding action.

Situation Aggravated.

Reviewing the situation the Tokio Asahi wrote in an editorial:

"Lawless armed operations of soviet troops following illegal invasion of Manchukuo rapidly are aggravating the situation. If the adventure were launched by the Kremlin to distract national unrest, because of the purge [of political and military leaders] from internal troubles, there will not be any means whereby Japan can prevent war.

'Whether we like it or not, we must make up our minds to be prepared to resort to armed force to cope with the crisis."

HITLER MAKES PEACE OFFER ON EVE OF KING'S VISIT TO PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 19.—It was asserted tonight in Paris, and morning papers will print the assertions, that the chief subject of the conversations among Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, and Premier Edouard Daladier and Foriegn Minister Georges Bonnet, of France will be a message from Reichsfueher Hitler to Halifax. It was delivered by Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, Hitler's confidential representative, just before Halifax left London for Paris in connection with the current visit of King George VI. of Great Britain in France.

London sources indicated that Hitler, through Wiedemann, offered to keep hands off Czechoslovakia if the Sudeten Germans living there were given reasonable terms in the forthcoming Czech minorities statute. He offered disarmament even if Russia should consent also to disarm, it was said.

Wiedemann, in Hitler's name, was said to have told Halifax that Germany strongly desires friendship with Britain.

Trotzky Movement Leader Vanishes; Fear Kidnaping

PARIS, July 19.—Attachés of the Trotzkyist workers' headquarters in Paris reported today that Rudolph Klement, secretary of the Trotzky international movement, disappeared a week ago. It was feared he was kidnaped and spirited into Spain. A typewriter letter over what appeared to be his legitimate signature and mailed at Perpignan, near the French-Spanish border, had been received at the Paris headquarters, the attachés said.

CZECH NAZI PARTY BLASTS HOPE FOR AN EARLY PEACE

Insists Negotiations Have Not Yet Begun.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 19.—Europe's most dangerous problem entered a new and more dangerous phase today when the Czechoslovak government and Konrad Henlein's Sudeten German [Nazi] party issued contradictory statements concerning the progress being made on drafting new minorities legislation for Czechoslovakia.

The points of view of the two parties are so widely separated and mutual misunderstanding so complete that diplomatic observers despaired of any solution being found which the Germans will accept. The Germans demand complete self-rule and restrictions on the powers of the central government at Prague.

Government Plan Ready.

The government statement announced that a plan for settling the minorities question had been approved by the government and could be laid before parliament next week. The government's plan is divided into three parts. They are:

FIRST — A so-called nationalities statute, which defines the rights of minorities and their relations to the state.

SECOND — Amendment of the language law.

THIRD — Administrative reform, which contains as many concessions to the principle of racial autonomy as the government will admit.

Premier Dr. Milan Hodza's newspaper, Slovensky Hlas, said that before the bills go to parliament they will be submitted to representatives of the different minorities and only after these conferences will the final text of the bills be established.

Nazis Blast Peace Hope.

Contrasting with this optimistic governmental view was a formal statement issued by the Sudeten German party. Protesting against the government's statement and the news issued in Prague by the semi-official press that "negotiations had entered their final phase," the Germans retorted that negotiations have not yet begun.

What so far has taken place have been informative conversations in which no one had indicated the attitude of the government to the demands of the Sudeten party, the Germans said.

"Furthermore," the Sudeten statement continued, "the Sudeten delegation, because of rumors which have circulated in regard to the progress of negotiations, has repeatedly warned the government against fixing any date for the convocation of parliament.

Denies "Two Sided Discussion."

"Conversations have not once led to a two sided discussion based on proposals of the two parties to the question. We are therefore in duty bound to give a warning against any belief in the alleged final phase of the negotiations because informative conversations have not yet led to any decision of any kind. In other words, not even the first phase of the negotiations has yet ended."

Amplifying the Sudeten party's official statement, Henlein's personal representative, Deputy Karl Hermann Frank, expressed fear that what the government press means by the "final phase of the negotiations" is that the various parties in Premier Hodza's parliamentary coalition have come to an agreement among themselves, and that they intend to pass the bills through parliament and present them to the Sudeten party as a gift beyond which they will concede nothing further.

Such a procedure, Frank said, would be unacceptable to the Germans.

British Cargo Ship Bombed; 60th Attack on Merchantmen

LONDON, July 19.—(AP)—Negotiations between Great Britain and Spain's rebels to end bombing of British ships in Spanish waters were threatened today by a new attack.

The British merchantman Standland was struck in Valencia harbor by a half-ton bomb which set her afire. The fire was quickly put out, and the crew and two non-intervention committee observers escaped unhurt. Eight Spanish workers were killed in the same attack as five planes poured explosives into the dock area.

The British foreign office, its patience nearly exhausted by sixty such raids, reserved judgment until it could learn whether the bombing was deliberate or part of a general rebel raid.

The attack was the first on British ships in Spanish ports for several weeks a lull having followed vigorous British protests to the rebels.

It was disclosed today that a reply still was awaited to the third British note to Generalissimo Francisco Franco, rebel leader, on the general subject of the safety of British shipping.

Sir Robert Hodgson, British representative in rebel Spain, returned with Franco's reply to the original British note on June 30.

Drive Against Stronghold.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], July 19.—(AP)—The mechanically superior Spanish rebels rolled down the Teruel highway toward the sea today and battered hastily constructed government barricades 34 miles northwest of Valencia.

The defense works at Viver straddle the rebels' path to Valencia. They are on Ragudo hill, less than two miles northwest of the town—the product of frenzied labor while Gen. José Miaja's "suicide squads" had waged a delaying warfare of retreat.

Less than 10 miles southeast of Viver two columns of Gen. Garcia Valino's rebel Navarrese troops moved slowly upon Segorbe where twisting mountain roads join the Teruel-Sagunto highway from both north and south. Miaja, commander-in-chief of all government forces, except those in Catalonia, was reported to have massed 150,000 men at Segorbe to prevent a flank attack which would isolate the defenders of Viver.

Barcelona Cathedral Bombed.

BARCELONA, July 19.—(AP) — The celebrated cathedral of Barcelona was struck by a rebel bomb during an air raid today. The bomb tore through the roof near the front of the cathedral and plunged to the floor east of the nave, carrying down an iron chandelier and a heap of stone. The interior of the cathedral had been stripped of ornaments since early in the war, when the iron doors were bolted.

AMERICAN JEWS BLAMED FOR RACE POLICY OF ITALY

ROME, July 19. — (AP) — Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor said today that American Jews together with those of France, Great Britain, and Russia were responsible for the Fascist race policy.

This policy, announced on July 14, declared Italians are Aryans and that Jews do not belong to the Italian race.

Gayda's comment in the newspaper Giornale d'Italia said:

"In the grim battle for conquest of empire, as today for the defense of its great Fascist conquests and its civil honor and great values of European civilization, Italy finds itself ever confronted by anti-Italian and anti-European activities of the Jewry of the great press of two worlds, of the great banks which dominate even statesmen and politicians. . . .

"The history of this battle does not involve Germany, but it involves instead France, Great Britain, the United States, and soviet Russia."

Informed circles saw a possibility that the Fascist race doctrin soon might pass from the academic to the practical stage with the adoption of laws restricting marriage between Italians and Jews.

Mexico Labor Head Claims Trotzky Plots Against Him

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—(AP)—Vicente Lombardo Toledano, who heads Mexico's confederation of workers, charged today that Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian bolshevik leader, was sponsoring a campaign against him and his organization.

THREE R'S IN CELLULOID

By CALEB

"HOW BETTER serve the state than teach the young?" asked Cicero of his fellow citizens in Rome long ago. Socrates earlier had drunk his bitter cup of hemlock because he insisted upon teaching the young only what he honestly believed to be the truth.

For centuries word of mouth continued as the chief method of transmitting knowledge and information. Printing changed the picture completely, and with it education advanced tremendously. Today another element is being built into the technique of imparting knowledge, of teaching the young—of serving the state.

The three R's are rapidly becoming articulate; they may be seen, heard, and demonstrated at one and the same time. In schools throughout the land motion pictures are coming rapidly into use to supplement the words and precepts of the teachers. The development already is a matter of considerable concern and importance to educational bodies, many of which have undertaken studies to determine how to use and control this new teaching tool.

Chicago, interestingly enough, plays a leading role in two phases of this new development. First of all, the great majority of motion picture sound projectors used in schools are manufactured in Chicago, this city being the largest producer of 16 millimeter sound-on-film projectors.

And secondly, Chicago's public schools have more than 500 projectors and a permanent film library of over 5,000 reels, and are under close observation by other school authorities interested in the advance of visual education.

The role of leadership in the field of education is not a new one for Chicago. Its universities have long since won international fame in teaching and intellectual leadership. They also are pioneering in visual education.

The growth of motion pictures as a teaching aid has been phenomenal. The number of films and machines in use throughout the country has doubled and trebled in the past few years.

Here we have a basic and far reaching influence in teaching the young. Ideas, beliefs and behavior patterns are powerfully swayed and influenced by this striking medium. It can be made a weapon of defense and growth for the state—or the opposite. The motion picture has enormous possibilities in all phases of education provided its use and application are directed by men of character and imagination.

MORGAN QUOTES RECORD TO BACK HIS TVA CHARGES

Amplifies Case Against 2 Former Colleagues.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., July 19.—[Special.]—Years of disruption in the TVA board were described by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman, in amplifying his story today before the congressional investigating committee.

Reading from records and memoranda, Dr. Morgan pieced together a picture in support of his charges of mismanagement, waste, and deceit. Through his narrative, ran the charge that his colleagues, Directors David Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, ganged up on him, froze him out, and overrode him on affairs in which he had been a specialist for thirty years.

Some of these he said were measures in which he was carrying out President Roosevelt's desires.

Production Cost Unknown.

One of the main points brought out in the committee's questioning of Dr. Morgan is that TVA does not know how much it costs to produce its kilowatts. The cost was to be a yardstick to determine fair rates for electricity sold by private power companies. The yardstick policy, opposed by Dr. Morgan, is a principal issue in the investigation.

When asked whether the basis of the TVA rates had ever been revealed, Dr. Morgan said: "No. At a meeting I once heard Mr. Lilienthal say they were little more than a lucky guess."

In his testimony, Dr. Morgan also renewed his attack on the power sale contracts to the Aluminum Company of America and other large corporations which, he charged, obtained favored treatment from the TVA in low rates.

Division of Functions Told.

Shortly after congress created TVA in May, 1933, Dr. Morgan testified, Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan got together and divided the functions of the board. "I wasn't asked to concur in these matters—I was told to," the former chairman added.

The division, Dr. Morgan said, placed Lilienthal in charge of legal, land purchase, and power activities; Harcourt Morgan in charge of agriculture, fertilizer, and publicity, and I was left with two functions—building Norris dam and adminstrative management."

The yardstick of measuring fair electricity rates, Dr. Morgan charged, was established willy-nilly by Lilienthal without troubling first to take it up with the trimuvirate. He read data to the effect that the resale rates for TVA power by communities buying it were given to newspapers before coming before the TVA board.

Dissatisfied With Rates.

"I learned about the rates from the newspapers," the former chairman said. "I was not satisfied. Lilienthal told me he had a board of specialists and they made a report."

"Were the rates pulled out of thin air?" asked Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.], a member of the committee.

"I have no first hand knowledge," Dr. Morgan replied, "but Tacoma, Wash., has had a plant in operation same forty years, one of the best managed in the country. Apparently they took the Tacoma rates."

Tacoma and TVA, however, are hardly comparable, Dr. Morgan remarked, saying the Tacoma plant has paid off most of its capital investment and has a low economical source of power.

Hammers Away On Cost.

In bringing out that TVA does not know the cost of producing its power, Representative Wolverton hammered away on the allocation of costs of the half billion dollar TVA experiment—how much should be charged to hydroelectric power, how much to navigation and flood relief.

The burden of his queries was: "How can TVA set up a yardstick before the allocation of costs is made and it is known whether the TVA rates are making or losing money?"

In criticizing the TVA contract with the Aluminum Company of America, providing bargain rates for 110,000 kilowatts, Dr. Morgan asserted: "We have put ourselves at the mercy of the Aluminum company for 15 years."

Wolverton drew out figures from which he estimated that if the rates are a possible 30 per cent too low, TVA stands to lose 5 million dollars in 15 years by this contract.

"Did you sign the Aluminum contract?" asked Senator Lynn J. Frazier [R., N. D.].

"I did not. I believe Harcourt Morgan signed it as vice chairman," Dr. Morgan replied.

The witness said 2 million dollars might have been saved by the TVA on the electric switchyard at Norris dam and that other millions might have been saved on transmission lines. These matters, he said, should be looked into by the investigating committee.

Dr. Morgan charged TVA with false publicity in regard to the Commonwealth and Southern corporation. This was in connection with the conferences between Lilienthal and Wendell Wilkie, head of the corporation.

Criticizes Farm Activities.

Under questioning by Francis Biddle, committee counsel, Dr. Morgan said he disapproved strongly of some of the agricultural activities undertaken by the TVA, listing two examples as dehydration of hay and legumes and development of a process for freezing and shipping strawberries.

"I couldn't find anything in the TVA act that justified our drying hay," he said. The other directors justified the strawberry growing and freezing project, he continued, by explaining the berry plants helped curb erosion and thus aided river navigation.

"To tie onto navigation a program against soil erosion is straining a point," he said. "Soil conservation is good, but you can't justify it on the basis of navigation."

Against Destroying Utilities.

On public ownership Dr. Morgan expounded a position which he implied was at variance with that of his colleagues. He spoke against the destruction of private utilities in order to build up a TVA system.

"The public," he said, "should decide if it is to have public ownership. Where private systems are taken over it should be at fair and reasonable terms; arbitration has limitations; condemnation is the last resort.

"The right of people to supply their own electric power is fundamental, but the public ought to be supplied with sound information. I think open records of cost are imperative. The public should not be deceived by propaganda."

Dr. Morgan probably will complete his testimony tomorrow, and Lilienthal is expected to follow him to the stand.

COOK COUNTY VOCAL ENTRIES END MONDAY FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

Marjorie Burgess.

Cook county vocalists!

If you are planning to enter the Cook county vocal contest of the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival you must have your signed entry blank in the office of the festival, room 1419, in Tribune Tower, by 6 o'clock Monday evening. No applications arriving after this time will be accepted. Blanks may be obtained either at the festival headquarters or at the TRIBUNE'S public service office at 1 South Dearborn street. presented, covering 28,160 hours. It is estimated that the total value of all of this radio time is $7,200,000. From July to December, 1937, 3,250 fifteen minute broadcasts were presented.

Up to June 30, 1937, eight motion picture reels were prepared, the average projection time of which was six minutes. It is estimated that these were shown a total of 350,000 times to a total audience of 94 million persons. Since July 1, 1937, two additional films have been prepared. Exhibits have been prepared for 867 home shows and 1,031 fairs.

HOLC Expenses Cited.

The public relations department of the Home Owners' Loan corporation in 1938 employed 15 persons, at an annual salary of $35,555. For 1939 they are asking for 15 employés, with a total payroll of $33,880.

In addition, the Home Owners' Loan corporation looks for an appropriation of $550,000 for printing and $96,110 for mimeographing and multigraphing work.

The press section of the Public Works administration employs 19 persons at a total salary of $49,620. The head of the division is Michael W. Straus, who receives a salary of $8,000 a year, and and assistant head is Aubrey S. Taylor, who receives a salary of $6,000 a year. The total cost of mimeographing and duplicating for the Public Works administration is $80,000 a year.

U. S. COMMITTEE BEGINS STUDY OF SWEDISH 'UTOPIA'

Hunts Secret of Peaceful Labor Conditions.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, July 19.—President Roosevelt's committee of investigators which is seeking the secret of peaceful relations between labor and employers reached Stockholm from England last night to begin four days of conferences with Swedish government officials, heads of workers' and employers' associations, and industrialists.

What the members of the committee thought of labor relations in England was not disclosed upon their arrival here, but it is understood that some of them were much impressed by the drastic legal control which the British government is able to exert over trade unions through the trade unions act passed in 1927 after a general strike in England the previous year.

Outlaws Sympathetic Strikes.

This act makes general strikes practically impossible in England by prohibiting sympathetic strikes, curtailing picketing, and limiting the uses to which unions may put their big chests of money.

Here in Sweden President Roosevelt's committee will find the reverse of the British conditions. The Swedish moderate Socialist government exercises practically no control over trade unions. Previous conservative governments refrained from passing any curbing legislation.

The committee will find that the Swedish government in recent years has had a tendency to intervene cautiously in labor disputes, but this happens only when a majority of the persons involved in the dispute request such intervention. In that case, settlement by conciliation becomes compulsory.

No Controling Legislation.

There is practically no other controling legislation outside of the rules and regulations of the labor council and the labor court. All matters are covered by collective contracts between workers and employers, with which the state has nothing to do.

Labor unions here are not like those in England. They have no juridical personality which makes them responsible before a court of law.

The Swedish social utopia philosophers probably will caution the American investigators that they do not believe here in hooking up economic recovery too much with social welfare legislation. The Swedes also are expected to caution the Americans about taking too literally all the accounts which have gotten about in Europe and America that Sweden's prosperity is the one bright spot in a craven economic world.

The committee was met by the Swedes with much pomp and will have a heavy program of wining and dining during their four days here.

SHIP SENDS S O S; RUNS AGROUND ON PHILIPPINE ISLE

MANILA, P. I., July 19.—(AP)—The British steamer City of Derby flashed a radio call for immediate assistance tonight. The vessel said it was aground on Salino Island, center of the Philippine group. The 6,246 ton ship, registered from London, carried no passengers. A tug was ordered from Manila to aid the Derby, which was bound for Manila from China ports, New York and Los Angeles.

U. S. Steamer in Collision.

LIVERPOOL, England, July 19.—(AP)—The Irish motor vessel Munster, which collided with the 5,600 ton American steamer West Cohas of New Orleans, fifteen miles north of Dublin, returned to the river Mersey today with damages in its starboard side. The Munster, bound from Liverpool to Dublin with 200 passengers, was accompanied by its sister ship, Meath. The West Cohas, from New Orleans for Liverpool, also arrived at the Mersey with its stem badly twisted.

EARLE TO CALL LEGISLATURE FOR CAMPAIGN QUIZ

Harrisburg, Pa., July 19.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's Democratic governor, George H. Earle, tonight announced he would call a special session of the legislature to deal with the primary-campaign charges that have brought many sensations in Keystone state politics for more than two months.

The chief executive, his party's nominee for the United States senate, and named with thirteen political associates in a demand for a grand jury investigation, wrote to Harvey Huffman, president of the senate, and Speaker Roy E. Furman of the house, that he would formally summon the legislature Thursday.

The meeting date is just two weeks before a Dauphin county [Harrisburg] grand jury is scheduled to start consideration of charges that Earle and his political associates "conspired" to "blackmail" firms doing business with the state, "extort" money for political committees and "coerce" state employés into supporting their candidates.

HISTORIC NAME HOPS SUDDENLY ACROSS A RIVER

A Good Neighbor Legend of Crum Elbow.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Highland-on-Hudson, N. Y., July 19. —[Special.]—Howland Spencer, who lives across the Hudson river from the estate of the President's mother at Hyde Park, N. Y., would like to have some one enlighten him on Mr. Roosevelt's good neighbor policy.

For several years Roosevelt has fancied the quaint Dutch name, Crum Elbow, that has been the designation from colonial days for the promontory on which Spencer lives.

Today Spencer is convinced that the President through the services of the interior and commerce departments has finally succeeded in upsetting geographical history by switching the name from the west bank of the Hudson to the east bank where the Roosevelt estate is located.

Feels as Did Biblical Characters.

In fact, Spencer feels somewhat like a modern counterpart of two biblical characters—Uriah, who was exposed in battle on orders of King David because the king had a fondness for Uriah's wife, Neth-Sheba, or of Naboth, who owned a vineyard that was desired by King Ahab, and who was stoned to death at the command of Ahab's wife, Jezebel.

"The name of my estate has been coveted," said Spencer. "It doesn't seem to matter that all the maps from Henry Hudson's day up to the present have 'Crum Elbow' marked on my side of the river and the name is registered at Albany, the state capital. In this case the weight of the federal government is being used to supersede the state of New York."

Changing Names

(Story in adjoining column.)

This map shows how the words "Crum Elbow," used to designate point on west bank of Hudson river since 1700, have been moved across the river by the federal government. For years President Roosevelt, whose estate is on the east bank, has admired the name.

importer, had been a friend of the Roosevelt family from boyhood days before the dispute over "Crum Elbow" arose. His place on the headland affords a good view across the river of the Roosevelt home, a mansion of colonial architecture with a grayish brown stuccoed façade.

But those days are over. Returning from Florida recently to put his estate in order, Spencer found fresh evidence that his birthright was being taken from him. Strolling along the river bank near his boathouse he noticed that three brass disks about the size of butter plates were imbedded in the rock and concrete foundations of the pier.

Disks Change Name.

The disks had been placed there by the commerce department's geodetic survey officials and referred to the point as "Spencer" rather than "Crum Elbow." The disks read that a $250 fine would be imposed on any one removing them.

Last fall the committee on geographical names in the interior department under Secretary Harold L. Ickes handed down a formal ruling without explanation that henceforth the Roosevelt side of the river should be called "Crum Elbow."

Spencer conducted the visitor along the river bank and pointed out the outline of the triangular bluff extending out in the shape of a bent elbow. The Roosevelt home is set back in a hollow or depression from the river. Incidentally, the east bank estate was once called "Crooks' Delight" because an Englishman named Crooks sold it to the Roosevelt family, but the name was later changed to Hyde Park.

In January just before the inauguration Roosevelt issued a statement to the press asking that in the future the Hyde Park estate be referred to as "Crum Elbow." Spencer exhibited his title deed going back to 1678 with the name for his estate. Subsequently, the President's mother declared publicly that the name of her place was "Hyde Park" and that "Crum Elbow" belonged to Spencer.

Since then the commerce and interior departments have enlisted bravely on the President's side.

Finds Gold Thimble Lost by Mother 70 Years Ago

Keokuk, Ia., July 19.—[Special.]—Seventy years ago, when she was a little girl, Mrs. Ella Mosely recalled today, a storm came up while her mother was sewing. Her mother ran from the house to take care of the chickens. She hurriedly removed a gold thimble from her finger and laid it on a cistern cover. The rain washed it into the cistern, which was searched in vain. Recently while visiting her old home Mrs. Mosely saw a glistening object on the ground. It was the long lost thimble, which apparently had been thrown out of the cistern with bottom dirt by the searchers seventy years ago.

DEWEY ORDERED TO NAME JUDGES IN GRAFT CASES

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey was directed in a formal order by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora today to name the judges whom James J. [Jimmy] Hines, powerful Tammany leader, is alleged to have bribed or intimidated in protecting the lucrative policy game racket in New York City.

Such an order had been asked in a motion for a bill of particulars on behalf of Hines, who with two other defendants will go on trial August 15 on charges arising from the policy racket.

Dewey made no comment on the decision. It was said that his office was not entirely dissatisfied, because while Pecora granted Hines nine of the items upon which he wanted details, he refused fourteen others requested by the political boss.

At a previous hearing Judge Pecora refused to grant Hines a separate trial from the other defendants, J. Richard [Dixie] Davis and Martin Weintraub, lawyers for the policy racketeers.

The Story of OD and AD and the 2 STORES

OD and AD wanted to go into business for themselves. They decided to open retail stores. But they had different ideas as to how they should get customers. This is the story of what happened.

How OD and AD Opened their Stores

OD believed that the way to get customers was to sell at low prices, and that the way to sell at low prices was to keep his expenses down. So he spent as little as possible in fixing up his store. He said he was not going to "waste" money on "trick lighting" and a "fancy front." He bought large quantities of a few lines of merchandise, because that way he got them cheaper.

Then he put an assortment of his goods into the windows, but because he had done so little to make his store attractive, few people noticed that it was a new store, and few came in to buy.

AD decided that the first thing he must do was to make his store attractive to customers. So he had it painted throughout in cheerful colors. He completely changed the windows and front, and he put in fixtures that flooded the whole store with light.

He chose merchandise well-known by name to the public, and bought smaller quantities of many lines, thus giving customers a greater selection. He arranged his stock in the store to make shopping convenient. He put in window displays of his most interesting merchandise—and changed them frequently.

Because his windows and his store were so attractive, many people stopped to look, and enough people came in to buy so that AD's goods sold quickly and he was soon ordering more of many items.

How OD and AD went after Customers

OD soon found that he could not get the customers he needed from those who passed by his store. So he worked late at night rigging up trick buzzers to make noises on his windows and a loud speaker to play phonograph records through the transom over the front door.

The noise was successful in attracting attention to his store. People would stop to see what all the fuss was about, but they wouldn't come in to buy. Od was disappointed to find that after all this trouble he was no better off than before.

AD decided that the more people he could tell about his merchandise, the more people would come to his store. So he put advertisements into newspapers read by many thousands of people every day. He knew that people were eager to get their newspapers to read the news. Therefore, his advertising was more likely to be seen in a paper people wanted to read. Also, the newspapers were delivered all over the city as soon as they were printed.

AD found that the more he advertised, the more people came to his store and the more goods he sold and the less it cost him to handle each sale. So he passed on the greater part of these savings in lower prices and better values to all his customers.

How OD Failed and AD Succeeded

OD found that so few people came to his store that his goods moved very slowly. He could buy very little new stock because his money was tied up. So he decided to have a sale.

He had big signs painted for the front of his store. He had circulars printed and sent boys out to put them into parked cars and distribute them at homes. But the few people who came saw so little they wanted that his sale was a failure. At last, he disposed of all his remaining stock to an out-of-town bargain store at less than half what he had paid for it.

OD had had a very unhappy experience, but because he had never advertised in the newspapers, few people in all the city ever knew that his store had opened or that it had closed.

AD found that with more and more people now coming to his store, his stocks moved very quickly. As a result, he was constantly able to have fresh, new merchandise for his customers. He concluded that since people bought newspapers to read the news, he should tell them the news about his merchandise and his store. As a result, AD's advertisements were read as eagerly as any other part of the newspaper. Soon every one in town knew that AD had the newest things.

AD did not make exaggerated statements in his advertising. He just made the truth interesting. Repeatedly AD had to enlarge his store, and employ more people to take care of his increasing business. And, although his expenses were now very much greater, he sold so much merchandise and turned his stocks so rapidly that his store was very successful and was known far and wide for the values it gave its customers.

AD Tells OD How Advertising Serves the Store and Its Customers

ONE DAY OD came to AD and applied for a position. He asked AD how he had built such a fine business and obtained so many customers.

AD said, "First, by making the store an attractive and convenient place to shop, and second, by having the merchandise customers want.

"But these are not sufficient without Advertising to tell the people about them. So we continuously publish interesting, informative, truthful news about our service and our merchandise. And we tell it in the way that reaches the largest possible number of people quickly—through newspaper advertising."

SALEN ACQUITTED IN SLOT MACHINE TRIAL; JAIL FOR 8

Judge Upholds Waukesha Conspiracy Charges.

Waukesha, Wis., July 19.—[Special.]—Former District Attorney Herman R. Salen was found not guilty late today by Judge Sherman E. Smalley of conspiracy to violate the gambling laws in connection with an alleged slot machine ring.

Herman R. Salen.

Eight other defendants were found guilty and each was sentenced to serve six months in the Milwaukee House of Correction. They are Joseph Martin, Delafield; Garland Buckeye, Chenqua; Otto Schroeder and Joseph Jacquest, Waukesha; Paul Newatski, New Berlin; Edward Woodruff, Pewaukee; Clarence Seider, Okauchee, and Herbert Voss, Sullivan.

Judge Smalley said there was no doubt in his mind that the eight defendants intended from the start to form an association to protect the interests of slot machine operators.

Gives Salen Benefit of Doubt.

"Mr. Salen knew these men, many of them for years, and he should have been wary," the judge continued. "However, I shall have to give Mr. Salen the benefit of reasonable doubt that he realized the true purpose of the organization and find him not guilty."

Conspiracy charges against Sherif Walter A. Liskowitz and Lester Wood, who originally were among the defendants brought to trial, were dismissed by Judge Smalley last Friday, finding that the state had failed to connect them with conspiracy.

Today Liskowitz was sentenced to the Milwaukee house of correction for six months following conviction on charges of malfeasance in office.

Convicted Week Ago.

Liskowitz was convicted by a jury last week, but Judge Smalley deferred sentence on that charge until the final outcome of the conspiracy trial.

A stay of ten days was granted Liskowitz to settle his affairs. Counsel announced an appeal to the Supreme court would be made immediately.

Speculation continues as to whether the office of sherif became vacant when the court finally accepted the guilty verdict against Liskowitz. Liskowitz indicated he will continue to hold office until the Supreme court has spoken the final word.

The conspiracy indictments on which the state proceeded charged the Waukesha County Automatic Merchandising association, formed by the defendents, was in reality a syndicate of slot machine operators organized to monopolize the business throughout the county.

HEAD OF PRISON FARM AND THREE GUARDS OUSTED

John Kickels, farm superintendent at the state prison honor farm, and three guards, were dismissed yesterday in connection with a fire which destroyed a dairy barn there on July 3.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen of Joliet penitentiary said that Kickels disobeyed orders by storing uncured nay in the barn, possibly causing spontaneous combustion. The guards should not have permitted convicts at Stateville prison to take fire apparatus outside the walls, he said, when trusties should have been used for this task.

Windsor on Visit in Italy While Brother Is in France

NAPLES, July 19.—(AP)—The visit of King George VI. of England to Paris found his brother and predecessor, the duke of Windsor, enjoying a quiet vacation in Italy today far from worries and honors of the throne. The duke and duchess spent another holiday with friends. In the evening they dined with Baron Gallotti at his villa where they chatted with the Princess Maria Jose di Piemonte and twenty Neopolitan nobles.

ROOSEVELT LUCK GIVES OUT; HOOKS ONLY SMALL FISH

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, en route to Panama, July 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt went after the big fish off Cape San Lucas today, but all he and his party caught were some little fellows and deeper coats of tan.

This was the first day since the fishing excursion started in Magdalena bay that the big fish have refused to nibble at the presidential bait.

Mr. Roosevelt's catch today included a striped pargo and a broomtailed grouper. The end of the latter's tail is toothed.

The Houston headed for Socorro Island, about 250 miles from Cape San Lucas, where the waters are seldom fished. Heavy swells set in as the Houston got under way for the new location. The temperature had risen to 85 degrees. Canvas was spread above the ship's deck.

HOSPITAL MEETS BOARD DEMANDS AND IS REOPENED

Closed more than a month, the West Side hospital, 1850 Harrison street, was reopened yesterday after its license was restored upon the recommendation of the board of health. Mayor Kelly revoked the license on June 16 when the board reported the hospital was not complying with provisions of the public health laws.

Yesterday a committee named by the board inspected the hospital and reported all requirements had been met. The hospital's staf of 100 immediately was summoned back to duty The first patient to be admitted was a man who underwent an emergency appendectomy, according to Dr. Howard Goodsmith, a trustee of the institution. The West Side hospital was founded about forty years ago.

CITIZEN RAIDERS SEIZE 37 ANTIOCH PINBALL GAMES

The Lake county citizens' committee which has set out to free the county of gambling seized thirty-seven pinball machines valued at $6,000 in a raid on a building in Antioch yesterday. The committee took into custody Russell Kuelman, who was found in the building. He posted bond of $2,000.

Charles E. Jack, who has been named special prosecutor by Lake county authorities to assist the citizens' group, said he has asked Daniel Hentges, chairman of the board of supervisors, to have the board appropriate $10,000 for the anti-gambling campaign.

GUARD STABBED, 2 FELONS HURT; ESCAPE FOILED

Bombs, Knives and Toy Guns Used in Plot.

Columbus, O., July 19.—[Special.]—Two convicts armed with dynamite bombs and wooden guns were frustrated today in an attempt to break out of the Ohio state prison. One was shot, the other was badly beaten, and a guard was severely stabbed.

The guard, Raymond T. Thornton, was slashed in the abdomen when he attempted to stop the felons as they marched to the front gate with Deputy Warden William Walker and two guards as hostages. A guard stationed at the gate shot one of the convicts, Clyde Staup, 28 years old, a robber. Other guards beat into submission Charles Menges, 28, a murderer serving a life term.

Prison officials believed a wholesale break was planned. After the two convicts had been subdued, guards found in a cell block seven objects that appeared to be more dynamite bombs. An investigation was being made to determine how prisoners got the blasting materials.

INDIANA POSSE SEIZES 2 JOLIET JAIL BREAKERS

Two men who escaped from the county jail at Joliet last Saturday night were captured near Hobart, Ind., yesterday. They are John Hritz, 25 years old, of Gary, under indictment for a tavern murder, and Leonard Latos, 19, of Joliet, held on a burglary charge.

Indiana state police and a posse of 50 found the fugitives, unarmed, riding in a stolen car along the Hobart-Gary road. The intensive search in that area was begun when gasoline station operators reported seeing the jail breakers.

Hritz told how they escaped from jail. "We nad a string in our cell," he said. "We let it down and a friend tied on a couple of saws. We cut our way out with them." He refused to name the kindly helper.

Seize Park Truck Driver as Bank Robber Fugitive

Walter Smith, 1361 Hubbard street, a truck driver employed by the Chicago park district, was arrested yesterday on a charge of being a fugitive who took part in a bank robbery at Burr Oak, Mich., Jan. 15, 1934. Three of four bandits who robbed the bank are now serving prison terms.

WARNS TAX CASE WITNESSES WHO AVOID THE TRUTH

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, in charge of sales tax fraud cases, yesterday issued a warning to witnesses who attempt to assist defendants accused of defrauding the state. His statement was made after the continuance to Aug. 9 of sales tax charges against Rocco de Stefano, president of the United Liquor Stores, Inc., and Pasquale Trella, general manager.

They are accused of conspiracy to defraud the state of $14,000 in sales taxes. Their defense is that the sales in question were wholesale, not retail, and therefore not subject to the tax.

"Witnesses who make affidavits or testify in the cases should be sure they are telling the truth," said Coghlan. "If caught in untruths they may be prosecuted with the defendants they sought to aid."

Slaying of Merchant Held Murder by Coroner's Jury

A verdict of murder was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday into the death of Peter Antonopoulos, 50 years old, proprietor of a food store at 1629 West Madison street. He was fatally shot in his store last June 20. The jury recommended that the police apprehend Harry Gianopulos, 1747 West Adams street, who was named as the slayer by two witnesses.

PLANS TO TEST LIQUOR BOARD'S POLICE POWERS

Collinsville, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—State Senator James O. Monroe said today he would start legal action in Alton tomorrow to test the authority of the Illinois state liquor control commission, which threatens to close 375 Madison county taverns because the owners are operating slot machines.

"I am sure the legislature did not intend to make the commission the conservators of the peace," he said. "So far as I know the machinery of law and order of Madison county is adequate for all requirements of the peace and well-being of the citizens."

"Read the Liquor Law."

Bloomington, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the Illinois liquor control commission, today advised State Senator James O. Monroe of Collinsville to read the liquor law before he attempts to defend Madison county slot machine operators against a threat of losing their licenses.

Smith said the Madison county tavern keepers were cited on complaint of citizens who said county officials failed to enforce the law.

KILLED BY MINE CAR.

POLICE SIFT GANG ASSOCIATIONS OF MURDER VICTIM

John O'Brien Inquest Is Delayed.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Harold Smith, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary; Buford Vaughner, larceny, sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary; Leonard Lange, burglary, sentenced to two years in the county jail; Edward Huchro, assault to rob, sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Robert Wendt and Martin LaValley, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years each in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Sabath.

An inquest into the murder of John O'Brien, owner of a tavern at 501 Rush street, was continued yesterday while police investigated his former association with some of the city's leading racketeers and gangsters. O'Brien, 25 years old, was shot five times Sunday night in front of 747 Wellington avenue.

Yesterday Lieut. William Drury of the Town Hall station recalled the arrest of O'Brien in 1932 in a richly furnished suite in a loop office building. He declared he was an office boy for the occupants of the suite, who included several notorious underworld figures, Lieut. Drury said.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station pointed out that the killing of O'Brien was of the gang type, the murderers acting with no apparent fear of being identified or captured.

Cited for Practicing Law Without a License

Gee L. Harris, 30 North La Salle street, was cited yesterday to show why he should not be held in contempt of court for practicing law without a license. He was arrested by bailifs in the Renters' court when he stepped forward to represent a client in an eviction proceeding. The Chicago Bar association had complained that Harris has been representing numerous clients illegally. A hearing was set for July 22.

DR. MORGAN AND THE PURGE.

Dr. Arthur Morgan, formerly head of the TVA, is the central figure of the congressional investigation of this authority's affairs by a congressional committee. Dr. Morgan, although the accuser, has been made the accused. Found guilty of contumacy by Mr. Roosevelt, he was fired. The TVA is recognized by Socialists as the great Socialist enterprise of the United States government. Mr. Norman Thomas, head of the American Socialist party, says it is all of that. Although communistic according to the Lenin formula that electricity plus soviet control means communism, it has not as yet gone the last mile. Transfer the hearing from Knoxville, Tenn., to Moscow, put the purge prosecutor Vyshinsky in charge, and the examination of Dr. Morgan proceeds, as follows:

Vyshinsky: Accused Morgan, when did your traitorist, wrecking activities begin?

Morgan: When I voted for McKinley. Later I capitulated, but now I know that I never subconsciously departed from the line of party opposition, ideological deviation and, I confess, Citizen Procurator, treason to the soviet power. I voted for Hoover.

Vyshinsky: So, accused Morgan, at that time you were engaged in subversive wrecking, illegal, anti-party wrecking, espionage, and counter revolutionary activities. Never mind your ideologies and deviations. We want the facts. You were guilty of contumacy.

Morgan: I confess it. I wish to lay bare my whole treasonable life, my record of traitorous, seditious crimes. I will now proceed to tell the full story of my traitorous career.

Vyshinsky: Keep history out of it, accused Morgan. We are not interested in history. We are interested in your villainous life.

Morgan: I confess that in 1933 and '34 I met the accused Wallace at the Washington monument and he gave me a letter from the Trotzkyite Tugwell outlining wrecking activities in the collectivized farms. We were to kill 6 million little pigs and arouse the indignation of the people against the authorities. We killed the little pigs in accordance with these directives. I confess also that in wrecking activities with the weather bureau we caused drouth and dust storms, resulting in the destruction of millions of heads of cattle and sheep. These directives also came from the bloc of rights headed by . . . I will give these names to the court at its session in camera. In 1941, in London, I met Jesse Jones of the soviet RFC at St. James's palace. He was very angry and whispered that the wrecking activities in the cotton and corn production lacked intelligence and energy. I was at that time a member of the British, Japanese, and German intelligence departments. The Fascist countries were waiting for the wrecking of our agricultural plan in order to attack. We then reallotted all the cotton production to the New England states and the corn acreage to the Pacific coast.

Vyshinsky: Accused Morgan, you are lying about the date, or have you forgotten again? Was this in 1941 or 1945? You do not like the questions I put to you. It is no doubt shameful for you to relate these traitorous and wrecking activities of yours. If you do not remember, say so. The court is not interested in your philosophy. It wants the facts.

Morgan: It may have been in 1945. It may have been on the sidewalk in front of the treasury building, and it may have been Mr. Morgenthau and not Mr. Jones. I don't remember, but our treasonable wrecking plan was to wreck the coal industry through the prices fixed by the bituminous coal commission, shutting down mines in Illinois and making the masses believe that the soviet authorities were responsible for extortionate prices of fuel. That is part of my criminal past which now confronts me. I confess fully in order that my example may be a warning. In 1904, acting upon directives received from Wendell Wilkie of the bloc of rights, centrists, and Trotzkyites, the TVA furnished electric razors to all the women in Tennessee, Alabama, and Georgia, and hair curlers to all the men. This was intended to cause a mass uprising of the people. In 1908 we organized terrorist acts and, knowing that Mr. Ickes was subject to violent attacks of temper which were dangerous, we tapped his wires and stole his waste paper baskets, intending to hasten his end. We spread perfume in the offices of Thomas Corcoran and Jerome Frank. It was a perfume they didn't like and it was likely to aggravate their bronchial pneumonia. In accordance with directives received from Mr. Garner of the parallel center of rightists, we encouraged Senator Berry to claim compensation for a marble property in submerged areas, knowing that this would promote popular discontent with the soviet authority of the United States.

Vyshinsky: So you confess this? You confess that you have been a Republican since you were four years old. You confess that you have been a paid spy of Germany, Mexico, and Canada. You confess that you have betrayed the soviet power of the United States, that you have engaged in terrorist acts, that you have ruined the railroads, withdrawn lands from cultivation, flooded arable acres to make navigation where there were no ships, that you have conspired with wealthy farmers, that you have shut off relief supplies, that you used the surplus commodity funds to ruin the small retailers, that you caused sitdown strikes and closed industries, that you have bought silver to help unfriendly Fascist powers, that you had plotted to give Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and California to Mexico, and New England, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Minnesota to Canada. That is your shameful record. Do you confess it?

Morgan: I do. I confess it all.

President of the Court: The court will now recess for twenty minutes.

MR. CORRIGAN GOES TO DUBLIN.

Douglas G. Corrigan, the air's lone ranger, has done about the only thing for American aviation that could follow the Hughes flight without being an anticlimax. Almost out of the midst of the celebration over that carefully planned, scientifically conducted globe-circling flight, Corrigan takes off, headed for California so far as the authorities knew, and the next day landed in Dublin. He had just enough gasoline to get across. His other provisions were fig bars, chocolates, and some water.

On first impression it seemed to be a reckless, lucky, ill prepared and ill considered dash at an adventure which would have been condemned as extraordinarily foolhardy if it had failed but would bring renown to the performer if he lived through it. Second thoughts will give it more value than that. Unquestionably it was a risky thing, not to be imitated by foolish young fellows who may be led to think that crossing the Atlantic is hardly more than a day's flying.

Apparently Corrigan, like Lindbergh before him, had everything essential to his undertaking. As a skilled technician he knew his plane, having rebuilt its engine and being thoroughly familiar with its performance. He was a skilled and experienced flyer and he was a good enough navigator with whatever instruments he had to take off from Floyd Bennett field in New York and put his so-called crate down on Baldonnel airport, outside of Dublin, without getting lost. He went from one airport to the other and although his fuel was nearly exhausted he had enough for the flight he intended to make.

He had favoring weather conditions. The plane may have needed a wire fastening to keep the door shut, but it wasn't a crate, and he, having made a non-stop flight from California to New York in it several days before he took off for Ireland, knew that it wasn't. The attempt might have been foolhardy for anybody who did not know what Corrigan did, who did not have his experience and confidence, and that touch of something which, as revealed in Lindbergh, marks the man particularly chosen for the air.

The young flyer might have disappeared forever in the Atlantic ocean and his story have been used merely to illustrate the foolishness of ill considered, reckless flights without suitable preparation or understanding of the hazards. For most persons such a warning holds good. For Corrigan there is a place now in the record of conspicuous aviation achievements.

Hughes proved how technical perfection and careful planning can make the crossing of the seas and the circling of the globe safe and well within calculations as a means of transport. Corrigan's flight may have been extremely useful, being successful, as a means of taming the Atlantic in the imagination of the persons who will be tempted to use the new trans-Atlantic transport when it is in operation.

The first passengers will be adventurous people and they will prepare the way in over the seas flight just as adventurous passengers years ago brought the commercial lines into the general use they now have. The first thing new methods of transportation have to overcome is the sense of novel hazard which generally prevails. Corrigan made it seem just an ordinary jaunt to set out from New York and say hello to the Irish customs officers at Baldonnel.

WEED TIME.

The zero hour is approaching for sufferers from hay fever. Ordinarily, according to expert opinion, the ragweed in this latitude pollenates about Aug. 10. This year, because of rapid growth, the plants will probably mature earlier.

That means that little time remains for weed destruction if it is to relieve the victims of the disease. Last year a state-wide campaign of weed eradication was inaugurated with some success. Various agencies of the state, including its departments of agriculture and health, coöperated. The local authorities in many sections of the state did their part. This year, as a result of better organization, still more should be accomplished.

But the governments cannot succeed without the voluntary help of farmers and other landowners. The citizen who recognizes that the ownership of property imposes a duty to use it in a fashion to injure no one else will see that the weeds on his land are kept under control. Hay fever is no minor inconvenience. It causes intense discomfort to tens of thousands of people in Illinois every year. It greatly reduces their ability to work and earn their livings. Any who can afford to do so flee the state and remain away until frost, but the great majority have no escape. Property owners who do not destroy the weeds on their land are guilty of adding to the distress of the victims.

A DOG'S LIFE.

[Newark Evening News.]

Disillusionment spreads. Alf Landon hints that out west men are not the men they once were. A Tammany leader pleads for reform. Jack Garner doesn't want to run again. WPA produces figures to show it employs relief clients. And now comes testimony taken by the American Veterinary Medical association that city dogs live longer than country dogs.

There's been no shock like it since we first read that tenement children were healthier than the gals and boys born down on the farm.

Imagine apartment sheltered pekes, Bostons and spaniels who live on canned food and whose exercise is limited to chewing up a sock or to a sedate walk at dusk being healthier than the collie, setter, and airedale who roam broad acres, spend hours in the sunshine and live on a diet of ham bones and old boots. But that's what the man said. And it's the sunshine, ham bones, and boots apparently that cut the life span of the country dog. Too much sun isn't healthy for Sambo, says the expert who spread this disillusioning news. He also suffers from "dietary maladjustments." How do you like that?

Maybe the expert's right. Maybe city dogs, barring dog catchers, buses, and too many baths [they're bad], do live longer. But we are willing to bet this illusion busting fellow a fancy can of chopped meat, eggs, and Russian dressing that country dogs have more fun.

I saw the moon once, gnarled in an oak.

Open Letter to Mr. Walker Everett of South Bend, Ind.

Of course, Mr. Everett, Hoosiers are a separate race—the best people on earth. Have you ever been in southern Indiana where the persimmons, the paw paws, the stars of dogwood, the muddy, lazy White river, and the drawl of the inhabitants assert that the region is south? Have you been in Terre Haute, that bustling miniature melting pot of the friendliest nationalities from Europe, to mention only the Germans and Hungarians?

The very spirit of indiana's sons is friendly. Note only James Whitcomb Riley, Gene Debs, George Ade, Tom Marshall, Booth Tarkington, Gen. Lew Wallace (the old fuss budget).

No, you won't be greeted with the Rotwanis handclasp in Indiana, for the real people there have nothing to sell and have retained the integrity of an earlier day. But once you deserve their friendship, you have it forever. Indiana is a doubtful state only in politics.

But why go on? You probably haven't been anywhere but South Bend. And South Bend isn't Indiana.

Orpah.

Willem Van Hoogstraten, latest of the Ravinia conductors, listened to Jerome Morass play the score of his Frankie and Johnny (he done her wrong) ballet after the Ravinia concert, then went swimming at midnight on Tom Fisher's and Ruth Page's Winnetka beach. He says his daughter (and Ella Ney's) is an excellent music critic. She started as a youngster when she asked her mother, "Mother, does daddy follow the men in the orchestra or do they follow him?" Van Hoogstraten says he has been wondering ever since.

The Benny Goodman concert scheduled for Aug. 3 at Ravinia, right in the midst of the Ormandy series (Ormandy will conduct an all-Wagner program the following evening) has people pretty confused. Among the Ravinia calls for reservations: "Enclosed find money for three tickets to the Jack Benny concert." "When is Cab Calloway to conduct at Ravinia?"

REFLECTION.

There is an ode in every swaying tree,
And as for sonnets, every flower incites them.
And always there is some dam fool who writes them.

ADD MEMORIES OF A NEWSPAPER REPORTER: Queen Marie, tall, beautiful, indefatigable (she gave the press the hardest workout of any distinguished visitor to come to America). At 10 a. m. coming out of her breakfast room at the Lake Shore drive hotel with outstretched hand, chewing toast like a commuter dashing for a train—to grant an audience (silly thing to call it in America). . . . Swimming in the Lake Shore Athletic club pool at 11 o'clock, her little black spaniel running alongside. . . . Telling eager listeners at luncheon time "Every country has to have a face. The prince of Wales is England's (this was 1926); Mussolini is Italy's; I'm Rumania's . . ." . . . Trailing through the Field museum. . . . Attending a gala performance of Aida.

Her autographed photograph still stands on the tables of Chicago friends—Mrs. Walter R. Kirk's and the Charles S. Dewey's among them. Mr. Dewey, now candidate for congress from the 9th district, who probably was the most decorated man at the Blairs' dinner for the Swedish crown prince (the invitations read full dress and decorations), has a Rumanian order among his many medals, awarded for financial advice he gave that country, as well as Poland and neighboring countries.

PIMPLES AND BOILS ABOUT THE FACE.

THERE probably is no type of infection more dreaded by the physician than the appearance of a boil or carbuncle about the face. A lesion of this character occurring on the chin, lips, cheek or about the nose should have attached to it for the guidance of the owner a huge placard reading: "Danger! Hands off! Do not touch!" One can rough handle dynamite with far greater security than he can squeeze or compress one of these unwelcome visitors.

As a rule, the skin in this region is thin and lies in intimate contact with the underlying tissues. Furthermore, the return blood conduits—the veins—do not possess valves, and hence they communicate directly—through rather sizable channels—with one of the huge vessels within the skull. Thus bacteria or pus with but little trauma [injury] can be thrown into one of the principal circulation pathways of the brain, with resulting inflammation which, in turn, may lead to the formation of a clot.

Another reason why the "do not touch" sign should be displayed is that plugs [thrombi] may form within the capillaries draining the infected area. These minute obstructions are impregnated, as a rule, with organisms and, if they break loose or are driven into the circulation by pressure, they may spread contagion to the bloodstream and hence to remote parts of the system.

At the outset the causative microbes usually find their way into a hair follicle, and this emphasizes the necessity of exercising special precautions to keep the skin of the face clean. There is nothing so efficacious as soap and water. Thereafter, a sterile face cream applied gently is helpful. Women, particularly, should be careful to use toilet preparations which are pure—the product of a reputable manufacturer—as vigorous massage will sometimes crowd polluted material deeply within a follicle.

Let us assume that a boil has developed. What can be done? There is a growing conviction held by many physicians that opening the mass surgically before it is "ripe" greatly increases the chance of a fatal issue. Hence conservative management is advised, at least temporarily. An eminent authority who has had extensive experience with boils and carbuncles insists that these disorders should in the beginning be covered with warm, wet dressings.

Gauze pads are wrung out of a hot solution of salt or boric acid and placed over the lesion. The whole is then covered with a dry pack, while heat from an infra-red lamp keeps the wrappings warm. From time to time the layers which rest on the skin are renewed so that moist heat reaches the inflamed parts constantly. Naturally, the dressing should be neither too tight nor too heavy. The patient should be instructed to drink large quantities of fluid. This has the effect of increasing the activity of the kidneys, thus eliminating toxins.

There may come a time when an incision not only will release confined pus but will relieve tension, and when that period arrives the plan is excellent. Drainage may be assisted by the introduction of gauze impregnated with sterile vaseline. Even then the hot packs and heat should be continued until evacuation seems complete.

Some authors advocate the prompt use of pure, undiluted phenol [carbolic acid], which is applied directly to the center of the swelling, but without force. It is asserted that it aids drainage and destroys enough bacteria to permit the general resistance to overcome the remainder. While this regimen is recommended for boils or carbuncles in less dangerous localities, experience has shown that wet compresses plus heat are safer for those on the face.

We will need to hear of only one case resulting in disaster to learn that "do not squeeze or pick at a pimple about the face" is a sound rule to observe.

BOXER BREAKS RIB.

J. N. writes: Some time ago I engaged in a boxing contest and got a hard blow on my right side. I have had an X-ray taken, which showed one broken rib. Lately in damp weather or whenever I have a slight cold I develop pain in this side. Is this dangerous?

REPLY.

For quite a while following such a fracture some soreness or occasional twinges may be felt. If the distress persists, however, a careful examination should be made, to determine the cause. It may be that some trouble entirely apart from your boxing bout has appeared in the meantime, with resulting discomfort in the area injured originally.

ELECTRIC NEEDLE BEST.

M. B. D. writes: Is it true that depilatory creams are dangerous to use on the upper lip? Is it better to tweeze the hairs?

REPLY.

Removal of superfluous hairs by means of the electric needle, in the hands of a skilled operator, is the recommended procedure. Most chemical depilatories depend upon yellow barium sulfide, which will dissolve the hairs. None of this material should enter the mouth or be swallowed.

The growth will reappear in time following either chemical or mechanical [tweezing] eradication.

IS NOSE DEFORMED?

Mrs. L. P. writes: Is there any part of the country that could be recommended for a person who has difficulty in breathing, due to a clogged nose?

REPLY.

You probably suffer from some deformity of the bones within the nose [septum and turbinates], which blocks the passage of air. In many instances a nose specialist can relieve the obstruction by means of a minor operation.

A dry atmosphere [climate] will assist in reducing the swelling of the nasal mucous membranes.

SKILLED HELP NEEDED.

L. S. D. writes: What would cause a 17 year old girl to have terrible pains in the hips and across the lower spine during menstruation?

REPLY.

Probably some condition which can be corrected easily. A skilled gynecologist should be consulted.

NOT A CHANCE.

M. J. writes: Could removal of tonsils by electricity cause sterility in a woman?

REPLY.

Not a chance. The method, however, is not recommended, as bits of infection may remain.

SENATOR THOMAS DEFENDED.

Libertyville, Ill., July 18.—On July 15 you had an editorial on the renomination in Oklahoma of Senator Elmer Thomas. It was entitled "The Capture of the Democratic Party." In it you made considerable reference to the C. I. O., the communists, etc., in what would appear to be an effort to discredit Senator Thomas as being aligned in some way with those organizations. I believe this implication is absolutely false and inexcusable. It is true that Senator Thomas, during the last year or so, has been a pretty good supporter of the President. The writer, who has never been a believer in or supporter of the New Deal, does not approve some of the President's proposals which the senator has supported.

Senator Thomas nevertheless is sincere and a man of principle [whether you agree with his principles or not]. This fact, coupled with the fact that he is not the rabble rouser type of politician, caused his nomination in this last primary election to be regarded as quite doubtful prior to the holding of the election.

However, the most significant features of Senator Thomas' career are in connection with matters which the President neither proposed nor supported. If the senator were to have his way congress would resume its constitutional duty of creating and regulating the value of our money, and this would provide a bulwark against communism, Fascism, Nazlism, and the like such as nothing else can do. This is something which the record of this administration shows that the President is not in favor of, notwithstanding the fact that he went into office vowing to "drive the money changers from the temple." Presumably because of Senator Thomas' advocacy of an honest and constitutional money system you have seen fit to refer to him as "a monetary freak." W. A. O.

THE CHECKER AND HIS JOB.

Chicago, June 14.—In answer to your correspondent who wonders whom all these men checking trafic report to: We report each morning to our supervisor, a capable, educated man and a gentleman, who knows how to handle his job and his men.

We are checked in by our timekeeper in the morning, twice during the day, and checked out in the evening.

Instead of eight men to a corner there are never more than five; on some corners only three.

Try checking a busy corner on a hot day with 2,000 cars passing in an hour. I do not mean passing all four ways—just one way—and you will find the job is no snap.

Your wisecrack about checking files and bricks leads me to suggest counting half wits and wise guys. You surely would be counted in.

A CHECKER AND PROUD OF IT.

POPULAR IF NOT ELEGANT.

Chicago, July 16.—Who says our city isn't in the vanguard of any new movement?

Chicago's New Century committee expects 125,000 swing lovers at Soldiers' field on Aug. 23. The committee plans a big swingfest that night.

Well, swing may not be elegant but it's darned popular. Check the attendance records at the field that night and defamers of swing may get a surprise!

DO PEOPLE FORGET THE LAKE?

Chicago, July 18.—Illinois Colony club members enjoyed recently an outing to Milwaukee on the boat City of Grand Rapids. The day was so restful, delightful, and interesting that I feel there are many people wanting a day's trip who have forgotten our wonderful Lake Michigan and the many trips it offers to people living in Chicago. We took a picnic lunch and hot coffee can be purchased at small cost on the boat. There was dancing, singing, card playing, and various forms of entertainment to amuse everybody. So forget the overcrowded small lakes and the rivers with mosquitoes and really give yourself a treat. MRS. B. MORAN.

FATHER OF FLYER HUGHES.

Wilmette, Ill., July 15.—Your cartoon, "Glory for All," was very fine. I would like to add one more person to the list and that is the father of World Flyer Hughes, who seems to have had the pioneering spirit and the rugged individualism with which to make the fortune which made the flight possible and to have been able to bequeath both the fortune and the pioneer spirit and intelligence to his son.

We are proud of one more chapter in the American epic. HOUSEWIFE.

A WIFE'S DAY IS DUE.

Rossville, Ga., July 16.—In America and in other countries, as you know, there are holidays for various occasions, days set aside in honor of national heroes, in observance of Christmas, Easter, Mother's day, Father's day, etc.

I have been wondering why a day has not been dedicated in honor of the wife, the yesterday's bride of the man, who has shown her willingness to share with him in all his changing fortunes, and who has held his success and happiness above everything else.

Somehow I feel that too long have we delayed in honoring her.

LAKE COUNTY CITIZENS ARISE.

Waukegan, Ill., July 18.—The Lake county raid against slot machines, conducted by a group of citizens without the aid of county officials was a welcome event, contrary to the sheriff's statement that the people demanded vice to draw in resorters.

This racket, including slot machines, is conducted by the worst hoodlums Chicago has ever produced. They dare not show their faces in Cook county. New taverns are opened every week just as a front for slot machines preying on the gullible men, women and children, especially the tourists. A. C. B.

GARNISHMENT.

Chicago, July 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a traveling man; I have been drawing $30 a week out of which I have to support my wife and two children and pay my road expenses. I have been garnisheed.

1. Am I exempt anything over $20 a week salary for myself, wife, and family; for road and expenses?

2. If so, must my employer make separate checks, showing one is for expenses, the other salary?

3. My employer doesn't want to go to court so is sending me only $20 for which I cannot be garnisheed. This can't go on. What is the law in regard to this situation? A. J. M.

1. No, in the sense that under no circumstances would your garnishment exemption exceed $20 per week.

2. The Illinois garnishment act says "when such employé receives no definite or agreed wage or salary, but is compensated for his services by commission or profit allowances, such allowances shall be exempt from garnishment to an amount of $20 per week." We see no point in separating the checks, but he should treat $20 of your net commissions as exempt.

3. This is all that you can ask. We assume that your question arises under Illinois law. If you wish to contest the matter you should employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SALES TAX.

Chicago, July 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We have enough taxes, and especially the sales tax should be straightened out, as they have it in some of the states. Here is an example, charging cents on a 40 cent purchase made at a chain grocery. Please let me know the exact amount they are allowed to take. It will be exactly 1 cent for a 33 cent purchase and next 1 cent for a 7 cent purchase. It may be possible to charge for each nickel purchase 1 cent. Would that be legal? A. C.

The Illnois statute has nothing to do with the retailer passing the tax on to his purchaser. The only way that he can pass the tax on is as an additional price, and he is, in general, permitted to add anything to the price that he pleases.

TO BREAK WILL.

Chicago, July 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you advise me concerning Indiana laws? If a man remarries, has two sons by former marriage and no children by present marriage and has made a will leaving his estate to his present wife, can his two sons by former marriage break this will? J. M.

Not unless they can prove undue influence or lack of mental capacity, which does not seem likely.

The Eighth Annual Herald Tribune Forum

America's Conference of Leaders
Presenting Divergent Points of View on Current Problems—October 25, 26 and 27

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT is made in response to requests from many parts of the country for the dates of the 1938 New York Herald Tribune Forum. It will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, on Tuesday, October 25th, and Wednesday, October 26th, and in the Business Administration Building at the World's Fair, Thursday, October 27th.

Organized by a newspaper, attended by delegated leaders, and overheard by the public, it is like no other forum, like no other event in this nation. America's Forum on Current Problems will bring the big minds of this day to picture the America of tomorrow.

To any thinking citizen, it is a matter of immediate interest to look forward—through informed minds—to determine the outlines of that tomorrow. For America's weight in tomorrow's world will increase . . . her men and women of arts and of letters, science and philosophy, education and government, business and industry and labor and economics — all her leaders will be, in great measure, leaders of tomorrow's world.

What that world will be like physically, the New York World's Fair will indicate. What it will be in terms of human relations, the distinguished men and women who lend their minds to this Forum will delineate.

The Forum's audience is no less important than its speakers. Its immediate audience will come from every state in the Union . . . its members will be delegated by their local organizations to attend and report back. Its members are themselves leaders—chosen for their active interest in solving America's Current Problems . . .

Because no hall is big enough to hold its potential audience, attendance at the Herald Tribune's Annual Forum is necessarily by invitation. For the hundreds of thousands who wish to follow its proceedings closely, the Herald Tribune will—as in past years—report them in entirety in its edition of Sunday, October 30th; the press of the nation will carry reports of many of its speeches, and a national radio audience will listen in on many of its discussions.

With seven years of history behind it, the Eighth Annual Forum on Current Problems will present to America this fall a considered discussion of America's place in the world of tomorrow.

CLASSROOM ONE OF HOLY PLACES, COE HEAD AVERS

Calls College Champion of Truth and Freedom.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cedar Rapids, Ia., July 19.—[Special.]—"The holy places of our democracy are pulpit and classroom. There the championship of truth and freedom should pervail without interference by governmental agencies."

So declares President Harry Morehouse Gage, president of Coe college and chairman of the commission on higher education of the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, the voluntary standardizing agency of education in the middle west, in a recent report to the trustees of his college.

While the independent, church-related colleges vary, as the leaves of a tree or human faces vary, they have their roots in the Christian concept of the spirit of man, and their sunlight in the American concept of free church and free school.

Sees Federal Control Danger.

It would be hard to conceive of America as dying through its colleges. These become increasingly, as they are harassed by dangers of state and federal control, sources of refreshment of the ideas and ideals out of which our civilization grew. They are fighting ground for these ideas, the most powerful forces of the world.

Long ago the founders of Coe, which grew out of a Presbyterian missionary ideal in 1851, and a little mud and brick church on the banks of the Cedar river, foresaw something of the cloud that is passing over the world today when they wrote into the incorporation that the first allegiance of the college was to be the Christian church and then the constitution of the United States.

"Our symbol today," says Dr. Gage, "is the open Bible in the chapel and the American flag flying outside."

Points Danger Signals.

As chairman of the North Central agency Dr. Gage occupies a sort of watch tower of higher education. He is in a position to see trends and danger signals. He points out some of these to his trustees as follows:

"In very recent years the coercive power of government in the field of education has become increasingly evident. This is noticeable first in the field of taxation. Taxation of individuals has, of course, destroyed at least a part of the power of individuals to give to colleges.

"Exemptions from taxation are being progressively withdrawn. The question is a live one in such states as South Dakota, Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana, and in some measure is a threat to the existence or success of independent non-tax supported colleges everywhere.

Opposes Federal Subsidies.

"The intrusion of government into the field now occupied by privately supported educational institutions is noticeable when government subsidies of education are considered, and their nature, too, may well cause some alarm. The President's advisory committee on education, Floyd W. Reeves, chairman, recently made its report. In that report the committee recommended federal subsidies to both publicly and privately supported educational institutions. In a public hearing in Washington the chairman of the committee admitted that federal subsidies to education ultimately will mean federal control.

"Strangely enough there are some indications that the federal government is preparing to set itself up as a standardizing or accrediting agency for colleges and universities. The government reorganization bill which recently failed of enactment provided the framework for complete federal control of education. All college presidents have in recent years noticed the increasing zeal of the federal government to get information concerning individual institutions.

Money Leads to Control.

"In viewing the present relations of the federal government to education two things seem evident: First, it is clear that money power in education means control.

"Second, it is equally clear that if the federal government should proceed to classify, standardize, and accredit colleges, the control of education would become both imperious and complete. It is, however, hardly conceivable that the people will allow these incipient movements to come to a full measure of development.

"The measure and nature of the control of education by the church is, of course, an important question, but fortunately is not one to cause anxiety. The church stands firmly for truth and freedom: Truth coming from any source whatever, and freedom which knows no bounds save those which have been set by the truth.

In that conviction the church is opposed to control of education by the state and should courageously, and to the point of sacrifice and for the sake of our democracy and the perpetuation of our Christian tradition, vigorously exercise its right, reaffirmed by the Supreme court of the United States about twenty years ago in the Oregon and Nebraska cases, to continue its work in the field of education."

Coe college, which has a total enrollment of about 830, including its evening classes, music department, and summer session, with an educational budget of about $250,000 a year and an endowment of $2,000,00, is constantly bursting its bounds physically and spreading beyond its eight city blocks. On plans drawn by the late Ernest Graham, Chicago architect and great friend of the college, it is gradually building a new campus. Its latest improvement is a $200,000 dormitory, rooms of which have all been taken in advance.

Gets Baby Back

Mrs. Victoria Meinberg with her baby.

A baby girl was returned to her mother yesterday with the consent of the foster parents. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki set aside an adoption decree signed July 1 which gave the infant to William and Elizabeth Tinder of Monmouth, Ill.

The mother, Mrs. Victoria Meinberg, 23 years old, 1246 Bosworth avenue, told the court that she did not know what she was doing when she signed the adoption papers. The child was born only two days before and she was still under the influence of an anesthetic, Mrs. Meinberg said.

She contended that her husband, Edward, whom she is suing for separate maintenance, had arranged the adoption because he was not making enough money to support two children. Their other child is Arlene, 15 months old. The Tinders, hearing all this, said they would willingly return the baby to its mother.

DR. PAUL RADER'S DEATH MOURNED BY CHICAGOANS

Evangelist Labored in City 30 Years.

Dr. Paul Rader who died yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal., after a long illness was a noted evangelist in Chicago for nearly thirty years and a pioneer radio preacher. In 1914 he left a Congregational church in Boston, Mass., to become pastor of the Moody Memorial church, Clark street and North avenue.

Paul Rader.

The Moody congregation brought about his resignation in 1921 because they contended he was devoting too much time to outside interests. His accusers pointed to his leadership as president of the Christian and Missionary alliance. Dr. Rader's friends, including Albert M. Johnson, executive of an insurance company, then erected a tabernacle for the evangelist at Barry avenue and Halsted street.

In 1933 Dr. Rader left Chicago for Fort Wayne, Ind., where he had another tabernacle.

Rader's early claim to fame arose from a football career at the University of Denver. Later he was athletic director at Hamline university, St. Paul, Minn.

In many respects he followed the methods of the Rev. William A. [Billy] Sunday, who was also aided in his evangelistic career by athletic prominence in baseball.

Native of Colorado.

Paul Rader was born in Denver, Colo., Aug. 24, 1879. He was the son of the Rev. Daniel E. Rader, home missionary of the Methodist church. His wife, Mary Caughran Rader, and three daughters, Mrs. Pauline Griffin, Mrs. C. O. Miller and Miss Harriet Rader, survive.

Funeral services will be held Friday in Los Angeles. Assisting will be three Chicagoans: The Rev. Clarence H. Erickson, pastor of the Chicago Gospel tabernacle; the Rev. Lance B. Latham, pastor of the North Side Gospel center, and Mel Dunlop. Burial will be in Glendale, Cal.

PEASANTS WEEP AT PALACE BIER OF QUEEN MARIE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 19.—(AP)—Thousands of weeping peasants entered the royal palace of Pelesch at Sinaia today to file past the catafalque of the dowager Queen Marie. She was dressed in a white velvet dress with Chantilly lace.

Letters opened today and written by Queen Marie in 1933 contained a request that dark lilac be the official color of mourning for her. She wrote that it was her favorite color.

The queen, who died yesterday at the age of 62, also requested in the letters that her heart be buried at Balcic, her favorite resort on the Black sea. The rest of her body will be placed in the palace of Kurtea de Argesch beside that of her husband, King Ferdinand.

POET MALLOCH LEAVES WIDOW ESTATE OF $45,000

Douglas Malloch, writer and poet, left a $45,000 estate, according to his will admitted to probate yesterday. The estate will be placed in trust for his widow, Helen. In the event of her remarriage or death it is to be divided equally among three children, Mrs. Dorothy M. Swan, Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. Jean M. Bohnsack, and Donald H. Malloch, both of 6137 North Hoyne avenue. Malloch, whose home was at 1532 Thome avenue, died July 2 at the age of 61.

BUSTER BROWN OF STAGE FAME DIES IN POVERTY

Funeral services for Herbert Rice, the famous, wide-eyed Buster Brown of three decades ago, will be held tomorrow morning, with expenses of burial borne by the Actors Fund of America.

Rice, a midget 50 inches tall, was 54. He died Sunday night at the County hospital after a brief illness. During the last five years he had lived with a friend, Albert Kuebler, in a rooming house at 18 East Grand avenue, but his fame once was widespread.

That was in the days when Buster Brown and his big white bulldog were the mythical heroes of the day. Buster started in a comic strip, and Rice took him to the stage, the name later being used for many commercial purposes. During A Century of Progress exposition Rice was in the Midget village. Later, dressed as a policeman, he served as a "bouncer" at a near north side cabaret.

Burial will be in Wunders cemetery.

JOHN M. SCHAACK, GRAIN TRADER SINCE 1897, DIES

John M. Schaack, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade since 1897, died yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel, where he had lived for several years. He was ill four months.

Mr. Schaack, who was 67 years old, was one of the brokers for the late James A. Patten in the wheat "corner" engineered in 1908. Shortly after that event, Mr. Schaack lost his sight. His blindness was induced by the strain under which he was placed during the Patten market operations, his friends said.

Despite his blindness, Mr. Schaack maintained his interest in the grain business in recent years, owning an interest in the firm of Bartlett, Frazier company. Surviving are his widow, Catherine; a son, John J., also a member of the Board of Trade, and three brothers, Clarence G., Edward J., and Harry C., all members of the grain exchange. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

INSULL INQUIRY CLOSED; BURIAL PERMIT GRANTED

PARIS, July 19.—(AP)—Completing an investigation which convinced them there was nothing suspicious in the sudden death of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, police gave permission today for embalming the body. Insull collapsed with a heart attack in a Paris subway station Saturday and was pronounced dead upon arrival at a nearby hospital. The body will be placed in the American cathedral tomorrow, when the American's widow will fix the date for a funeral in London, Insull's birthplace.

Dr. Emanuel Friend.

Dr. Emanuel Friend, senior attending surgeon of the Michael Reese hospital, died yesterday of a heart attack in his suite in the Hotel Windermere, 1652 East 56th street. His body was discovered by a hotel employé. He was 68 years old.

Dr. Friend was a graduate of Rush Medical college and did post-graduate work in Vienna, Berlin and Paris. He was the author of numerous scientific articles. With Dr. E. J. Senn, he edited the fourth edition of Dr. Nicholas Senn's "Principles of Surgery." He was assistant to Dr. Senn for many years.

He was a member of the American Medical association, Chicago Surgical and Chicago Medical societies, and German Medical society, and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Arthur D. Mackie.

Arthur D. Mackie of Springfield, vice president of the Central Illinois Light company, died of a heart attack yesterday in the North Shore Health resort in Winnetka, where he was recovering from arthritis. He was 62 years old. Mr. Mackie was a national counselor of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a former president of the Illinois Utilities association. He had been vice president of his company for 24 years. His widow and a son survive. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the First Presbyterian church in Springfield.

Eldress Anna Case.

Albany, N. Y., July 19.—[Special.]—Eldress Anna Case, who had been responsible for the affairs of the Shaker colony in the town of Colonie for 26 years, died yesterday at the age of 83. Her death leaves the responsibilities of the large farm on the shoulders of three aged women—sisters Frieda Sipple, Grace and Mary F. Daum, the only survivors of the colony, which has been in existence for 162 years. A year ago there were eight members, but one by one they have died during the year.

John F. McCarthy.

John F. McCarthy, 54 years old, an executive of the Sinclair Refining company, died yesterday at his home in Milwaukee, Wis. Mr. McCarthy formerly lived in Chicago. He had been connected with the company for twenty years. Surviving are his widow, Alinda; four sons, and one daughter. Funeral services will be held Friday in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Bertha Mielke.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha Mielke, 72 years old, will be held tomorrow at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Trebes in Harvard, where she died Monday. Mrs. Mielke, a native of Germany, had lived in Harvard for many years.

Mrs. Debbie C. Lovewell.

Funeral services for Mrs. Debbie Caldwell Lovewell, a resident of Englewood for more than 60 years, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Englewood Baptist church at 415 West 62d place. Mrs. Lovewell, the widow of Dr. Charles H. Lovewell, died Sunday in Seattle, Wash. She was 88 years old. The family home at 6058 Wentworth avenue, is one of the landmarks of Englewood. She leaves four sons, Maj. Charles H. and Ralph E. of Los Angeles; Maurice N., senior assistant engineer of the Chicago park district, and Frank of Boston, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Pennis of Chicago.

Frank Erwin Brandt.

Rock Island, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—Frank Erwin Brandt, 66 years old, associate editor of the Rock Island Argus, known as a civic leader and radio commentator, died at his home here today after an illness of three months. Mr. Brandt was born in Hamilton, O., and started newspaper work in his home town. Later, he was educated in theology and served as an Episcopal rector for twenty years. He returned to newspaper work in Chicago and he came to the Argus here sixteen years ago. He is survived by his widow and three children.

Theodore Stoner.

Theodore Stoner, secretary and treasurer of the Stoner Manufacturing corporation in Aurora, died yesterday in St. Joseph Mercy hospital in Aurora. He was widely known as an amateur flyer. Stoner was founder and president of the Aurora chapter of the National Aeronautical association. He returned a week ago from a flight to Detroit when he was stricken with acute appendicitis. His widow, Ruth, was notified in Switzerland, where she was vacationing. Stoner was 33 years old. His home was at 818 New York street, Aurora.

DENTISTS EXTOL DR. JOHNSON AS FUNERAL IS HELD

Dr. C. Willard Camalier, president of the American Dental association, yesterday paid tribute to the work of Dr. Charles Nelson Johnson as funeral services were held at the Church of the Atonement, 5749 Kenmore avenue.

"Dentistry has lost in Dr. Johnson one of the pioneers of modern dentistry," Dr. Camalier said in Washington, D. C. "He was not only an excellent dentist but a splendid editor and a great humanitarian."

Dr. Johnson died at his home, 6118 Sheridan road, on Sunday. He was 78 years old. Since 1925 he had been editor of the Journal of the American Dental association. He was formerly president of this association, as well as of the state and city dental societies.

Yachts to Sail Mackinac Race Next Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

At 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon the first of the yachts entered in the thirty-first annual Chicago to Mackinac Island race will be on their way, accompanied, every one hopes, by better sailing conditions than prevailed last year.

The storms of the week-end of the Mackinac race last July caused anxiety, especially among the wives and families the sailors left behind. Thirty-three out of the forty-two yachts that started either were forced to put into port or to accept tows, thereby becoming disqualified.

So the crowd that will gather at Belmont harbor on Saturday to speed the crews of about fifty yachts on the longest fresh water sailing event in the world will be wishing for brisk breezes, but not gales. The starting gun will boom for the universal class at 2 o'clock, and the cruising and racing divisions will start at 2:30 and 3 o'clock.

The Revenge, the 59 foot cutter of the Chicago Yacht club that came through the storms to win last year's race in the racing division, and the Rubaiyat, winner in the cruising division, will be among the starters Saturday. Blair Walliser owns the Revenge, which participated in its first Mackinac Island race last year. Nathaniel Rubinkam, past commodore of the Columbia Yacht club, is the owner of the Rubaiyat, which was one of two Chicago yachts entered in the Newport-Bermuda race last month.

Some of the crew that sailed in the race to Bermuda will be on board the Rubaiyat with Mr. Rubinkam. They include his brother, Henry Rubinkam; Lockwood Pirie; Lynn A. Williams Jr., whose father's boat, the "late" Elizabeth, won the Mackinac race several times, and possibly Harry Nye. Leeds Mitchell Jr., who was one of the Newport-Bermuda crew, can't get away for the Mackinac race.

Henry Babson's Yawl Is Entered.

The Maruffa, Henry Babson's handsome 67 foot yawl that was forced to finish last year's race under power, will be a contender again this year. Sailing with Mr. Babson will be William Faurot Jr., Frederick Spencer, and Joseph A. Moller. Frederick Wacker's boat, The Warrier, which last year was blown off the lake when it was leading the fleet, will have as crew Philip Hill, Robert Haynie, H. L. Hendrickson, Dick Graff, and Bill Sprague. Philip H. Mallen, Philip Jr., Kenneth Cotton Brown, and Henry Hobbs will sail with Logan T. McMenemy in his Adventure.

About ten yachts from Milwaukee, two from Detroit, and one from Toledo are included in the entry list. John D. Snite's Bagheera, and the Siren, owned by Frank H. Baxter of Grand Rapids, Mich., are other yachts entered.

Following the race it is customary for most of the yachts to spend a week or more cruising in northern waters, a pleasant and relaxing end to the 331 statute mile run. Mr. Babson hasn't decided if he will remain to cruise on the Maruffa because he and Mrs. Babson have made tentative plans for a trip to Sweden, and he may exchange the Great Lakes for the Atlantic ocean late next week.

The weekly races at the Chicago Yacht club are suspended until the yachts and their crews return, because so many who race there once or twice a week will be taking cruises of their own. Mr. and Mrs. William B. Goltra will not see the start of the Mackinac race, for they will be on their way to Milwaukee to join their Tumlaren and start for a two weeks' sailing trip. Mr. and Mrs. Goltra and the junior Theodore W. Robinsons are joint owners of the boat. The Robinsons have not been sailing in her this summer because they have been away enjoying an ocean liner in the Atlantic. The Goltras sailed the Tumlaren to Milwaukee last week, encountering stormy weather en route that delayed them several hours. While they are away they will spend a day or two with Miss Frances Jeffery in Fish Creek, Wis., and stop at Charlevoix, Mich., time permitting.

Second Son Born to Louis Swifts.

Samuel is the name Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr. [Libby Chase] have given to their second son, who was born yesterday at home in Wheaton. The Swifts' elder boy, Louis F. Swift III., was 2 in April. They are grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase of Lake Forest.

A new hat . . . small, frivolous and as feminine as lipstick. It's made of a flattering bow of pink moire ribbon and a fluffy bit of ostrich plume in a violet blue color. Designed for dress parade and cocktail parties it's the hat of the hour. Similar models will be unpacked in the early fall showing.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Summer shopping notes:

With your white pocketbooks you'll want bright, light weight, cool looking compacts. We are very much enamored of some we saw the other day—all in light colored enamels with floral designs. Not very expensive, either, and far more suitable with summer dresses and white bags than the heavy or dressy compacts carried in winter. These make slick little gifts for the summer birthday celebrants.

We must remind you again of those "floral waters." The price is staggeringly low; one bottle lasts for weeks and for a little bit more you can have an atomizer. These have some of the loveliest perfumes you can find and the concentration of the perfume is quite strong. The scent lasts for hours.

These are splendid thoughts for invalids. They have a thousand and one uses for any one, but are a particular godsend for the sick. They can be sprayed around a stuffy room, used for cooling rubs, and can even be tossed into the water in which the patient's hands and face are bathed. Few things will bring as much comfort to a sick person as a bottle of this particular type of perfumed toilet water.

For men: A deodorant powder, made by a firm that also makes excellent colognes that suit the peculiar requirements of the stronger sex. The container is the kind men like and the product is one they can all use profitably, especially if you go in for summer sports. Men who balk at using creams or lotions might be made susceptible to the idea of using a deodorant if you put powder within their reach. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Free Ice Fund Gifts Total $12 for Day; Help Infants, Elderly

Twelve dollars in gifts were received by the free ice fund yesterday to offset the scores of pleas that come in daily during July. They were:

|---|---|
| Subpena No. 692149 | $ 1.10 |
| Miss Anna S. Palmer | 1.00 |
| Anonymous | 10.00 |
| | $ 12.10 |
| Previously acknowledged | 164.88 |
| | $176.98 |

It costs but $1 to keep a baby's milk cool for one week, and somewhat less than that to cool and preserve fruit and vegetables for the diet of diabetics or cardiac patients. Many requests daily are for ice for ice packs for aged persons convalescing in their small, ill ventilated flats. All contributions should be addressed to Tribune Charities, Inc., care of THE TRIBUNE, and each one will be gratefully acknowledged.

House Dresses Have Snap of Sports Frocks

BY RHEA SEEGER.

So much has been done for the house dress problem that the present showings rather stagger an unprepared shopper. Snap, youthfulness, and fresh, crisp details make the new house dresses good competition for the best of the clothes going around under such labels as simple spectator sports frocks or daytime dresses. This doesn't necessarily mean they're creations with frills but they're certainly far removed from the utilitarian models of a few years back.

Clean, sharp small checks in all sorts of bright colors make some eye filling outfits that could easily double for street wear. Stunning stripes, with the stripes used by experts in contrast formation, could just as easily take top honors in any showing of sports outfits. Plaids are so plentiful you think the world had gone completely Scotch. Thin cottons are as numerous as the kind that can be worn without benefit of underslip and that's something in these days of minimum underlayers.

The dresses you can buy for the very small sum of two dollars can't be equaled for gay charm and decorative snap. See the thin dotted beauties [not dotted swiss] that have a row of white buttons down the front, perky upturned sleeves, and a fitted princess streamline. These come in black, brown, and two shades of red, all trimmed with white fancy edging. They look three times the price.

Prints are all small in design, so that even size 40 doesn't spread. Vertical rows of fine tucks directly down the center do grand jobs of slenderizing all sizes. None of these house dresses are over-trimmed. All are slim, exceedingly decorative, and tub like the much advertised hanky. All are made of color-fast, pre-shrunk material and not a single model has anything to remind you of the long gone pluggy house models that gave the average shopper the jitters. See them and rejoice . . . over style, color, and price.

Fashion photograph. . . . Nothing more than a bow of grosgrain ribbon and a towering fluff of ostrich plume make this newest hat. It shows what's ahead for millinery collectors. It's frivolous, devastatingly feminine, dizzy, but new. Similar concoctions are being unpacked every day, and by early fall every one will own at least one.

Norwegian Official Urges Frankness in International Affairs

A plea for honesty and frankness between nations was made before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations yesterday by Carl Joachim Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament. He declared such a policy would insure peace.

"Trust in God, faith in fellow men and the Golden Rule in all domestic and foreign dealings will truly solve world problems and avert bloodshed," Mr. Hambro said. "Foreign as well as domestic politics are an expression of the mentality and morality of the world."

Good Morning!

If you like merriment with your murders "Fast Company" ought to go down pretty well.

The story develops somewhat after the manner of "The Thin Man," with a happily married couple [à la Myrna Loy and William Powell] having a gay time solving a murder mystery.

The chief murderee is a dealer in books. Joel Sloane, another dealer, whose hobby is tracing stolen volumes, and Garda, his wife and secretary, take upon their capable and determined shoulders the task of finding the killer, inspired by the desire to prove innocent the man suspected by the police.

More of the tale I mustn't divulge. Many complications develop. Not too many, however, to prevent the picture from being laudably brief.

Action, under intelligent direction, is reasonably suspenseful. Dialog's not bad, though there are moments when its humor is a little forced. A general air of engaging bonhomie I found intriguing.

Miss Rice, looking most unlike Miss Rice for some reason or other—I suspect the hair dress—and Mr. Douglas team nicely. Claire Dodd is sweet and sinister. Louis Calhern, grown heavy, proves an ominous bad man, and Nat Pendleton does a "bit" neatly.

While there's nothing outstanding about "Fast Company," it still stacks up as a satisfactory summertime show.

Coach House Theater at Oconomowoc Opens; Capacity Audience

Oconomowoc, Wis., July 19.—[Special.]—The Coach House theater on the Oconomowoc lake estate of Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine of Chicago opened tonight with the première of the play, "Princes Ltd." A capacity audience attended.

The play, by Everett Glass, deals with the efforts of two job hunting college graduates to crash social circles by posing as a Georgian prince and his valet. These rôles were played successfully by Carl Greyson, known to his Milwaukee friends as Carl Grossenbach, and Seymour Howard. Others in the cast were Kay Kennedy, Marguerite Stokes, Helena Ray, Samuel Zimmerman, Charlotte Harris, Marguerite Husting, Jada Leland, James Dexter, Emily Goehst, David H. Yeddeau, Robert Gumm, Jane Bradley, Nari Drevjen.

Miss Kennedy, who played the romantic lead, was a member of the Robert Henderson players at Ann Arbor. She has been doing radio and dramatic work in Chicago. Miss Ray also has been doing radio work in Chicago. Miss Bradley, a Milwaukee debutante of last season, has studied at the Finch school, New York.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Mirror.

Hollywood, Cal., July 19.—For nine months your reporter has heckled and berated Grauman's Chinese theater for covering up the footprints of the late Marie Dressler with a box office. I said that it was the sorriest blunder that had ever been committed in Hollywood. Readers of this column throughout the country bombarded the theater with letters, and others who came to Hollywood on visits called on the manager and told him that they resented the insult to the fine star.

Sid Grauman yields to pressure.

Well, it took nine months, but yesterday workmen started packing up the box office and removing the slab on which are Marie Dressler's footprints. The slab will be on exhibition for a week, there will be ceremonies in the theater lobby with L. B. Mayer and Sid Grauman officiating, and then the slab will be installed in a special lobby position so that all movie fans can see it.

To tell the truth, I'm delighted. Canadian born Marie Dressler, who clicked in the movies after a series of heartbreaking setbacks and discouragements and then went on to contribute vitally to the history of films, is worthy of laudation.

But in a larger sense, I was battling for all of the great entertainers of every generation. They are pretty swell people, and those of us who go on living should protect them from low punches after they've passed along.

That's why I continued to yell "foul" as loudly as possible. To all of you who picked up the cry and reëchoed it in letters and protests, thanks a million. Grauman's Chinese is to be applauded for admitting its error and rectifying it.

At the House of Murphy the Gus Kahns beaming as son Donald celebrates his 10th birthday. . . . Henry Fonda, Blossom Seeley, Benny Fields, and Bob Murphy lead the guests in the "Happy Birthday" serenade. . . . Never been in a restaurant or night club when at least one cake wasn't carried in. Quite natural, too, because birthday celebrants always go to hot spots for the party.

Hedy La Marr, new glamor girl of films, taking pictures of the Marquee, on which her name is spelled out in lights. She is sending them to her mother. . . . Jack Durant stops the show at Victor Hugo's. Amazing how he has improved in the last twelvemonth. . . . A baby boy, Jimmy, at the C. J. McKinneys. . . . He's the Detroit auto tycoon: The mother was Ethel Norris of New York stage. . . . Betty Brady, Hope Hampton, and Randy Scott posing for the photogs.

Nine hundred dogs, ranging from Gypsy Rose Lee's hairless Mexican dog, which eats ¼ pound of meat a day, to Joe E. Brown's Great Dane, which gobbles four pounds a day, are fed by Ger Sunde's canine restaurant. Charlie Chaplin, Dorothy Lamour, Kay Francis, Dick Powell, George Murphy, Richard Barthelmess, Jean Arthur, are a few of the cinema dog owners who subscribe to the unusual restaurant. Girl drivers make daily deliveries to the house of the celebs.

Sunde is a Chicagoan and his business has grown now to the point where he needs three chefs. He has regular menus for his barking customers, changes them daily and even gives them white fish on Friday. The prices range from 63 cents a week to $11 a week for the big dogs. Our Scotty gets fed for 91 cents a week, plus 3 cents war tax. Sunde is the only man I know who went to the dogs successfully.

"Fine antics for a man of my age," sourly comments Groucho Marx when a friend shows up on the stage where Director Bill Seiter is making "Room Service" with Groucho, Harpo, and Chico. Groucho, with the black moustache stenciled on, is trying to persuade the harried hotel manager that Harpo is ailing, that Chico is a legitimate doctor, and that Lucille Ball is a graduate nurse.

The idea being that the hotel manager wants to evict his nonpaying guests, a broken down vaudeville troupe, and his nonpaying guests don't want to be evicted.

"He has a tape worm," explains Groucho.

"Yesterday his hair wasn't red," says the manager, pointing to Harpo.

"He has a red tapeworm," explains Chico.

"He looks ten years older than the fellow who was here yesterday," says the manager suspiciously.

"The room service in this hotel would age anybody overnight," says Groucho.

Despite their screwball antics on set and off, there are no comics in the business who time their thrusts so shrewdly as the Marxians. The three of them synchronize as smoothly as a Swiss watch. Studying them in action yesterday, I was amazed at the manner in which Groucho underplays his scenes. When he turns his head to fasten his eyes, in anger or astonishment, on the hotel manager, he doesn't give it what the performers call a double take. He underplays everything. Most of the topnotchers do; act naturally instead of exaggerating gestures and tones.

As has been reported previously in this space, Harpo does not speak and his harp is out. So is Chico's piano. "Personally," explains Groucho, "I think the lowest form of human endeavor is the playing of a harp. Chico's chicanery on a piano also can be added to the half-world of repulsive arts. This is the first picture I have enjoyed in some years. If I had my way we'd never use the harp or piano again. Despite optimistic reports about the picture, I'm certain that it will send RKO into 77-B, and it serves them right for engaging us."

There is an amendment to the statement that Harpo will not speak. He moans once, hiccoughs once. "The only thing that can save Harpo is technicolor," says Groucho, "and that will kill him for keeps."

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, elderly rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness, and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold herself aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship in Mexico. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals. Isobel and Arnold Vernon fall in love. He tries to buy his freedom from Claire. When she refuses he threatens to make a new will disinheriting her.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

A HURRICANE.

THE TENTH DAY.

The ship was steaming north now through the Caribbean sea. There was a surprising change in the weather. There were squalls of wind—distinctly chill—and the sea was choppy. The sky was ragged with torn clouds. Most of the passengers were disappointed by the change, but to Mrs. Panting it was an incentive to more energy.

"An excellent day for the steeplechase, don't you think, Mr. Flagg?" she inquired at the breakfast table.

Mr. Flagg absentmindedly agreed with her. Mrs. Panting set about the organization of the steeplechase during the morning. This time she did not pursue Mena. She wanted only the prettiest girls so that the auction for them would be high and everybody would bet on them. In the afternoon they would be escorted to the starting point by their "owners," wear their colors, and by the cast of the dice be moved around the deck.

Thanks to her driving indomitable energy, the girls' steeplechase took the passengers' minds off the unpleasantness of the blustering afternoon. Neil bid for Anne, and after a bad start she won the race for him.

After the steeplechase was over the decks were quickly deserted for the more agreeable atmosphere of the public rooms. Mrs. Panting saw that Mr. Vernon had left his book on his deck chair—an intriguing looking book with an orange cover. She always liked to know what people were reading—it gave you a line on their minds.

She picked up the book, glanced into it, looked around to see if any one were about. There was no one. She tucked the book under her arm, went aft to the staircase by the notions shop and walked all the way down to D deck. No one saw her disappear with her prize.

The day closed early, dark under its low ceiling of cloud, and by dinner time there was a plaintive howling in the wind. A voice through the loud speaker announced during dinner that afterward there would be dancing in the veranda café and a new motion picture shown in the drawing room.

The seats filled rapidly after that, the lights went out and the picture started. The wind swooped on the ship with a shrill roar and she entered the hurricane as if she had been sucked into it. She keeled over to starboard, over—over, as if she would never stop, the floor rising at an acute angle, the loose furniture sliding inexorably downhill into the splintering heap on the starboard wall of the saloon, carrying the helpless passengers with it. There were dismayed shouts and one sharp feminine scream.

The ship hung sickeningly on its hideous position for what seemed a long minute—righted itself slowly and keeled over to port. The furniture and the struggling passengers rolled with it. The lights went up and stewards, unable to keep their balance, tried to extricate those caught under sofas and chairs.

Water poured in from the foyers, lashing over the carpets and pouring down the stairs. Many hands got the storm doors closed. Wild seas crashed over the deck, tearing at the saloon windows. The wind screamed like all hell let loose.

There were whimpers now from the children and a few terrified groans. Isobel emerged from a pile of broken furniture. She saw that the piano was bolted to the musicians' platform. She crawled to it and clung to it, one hand pressing down on a sharp pain in her ribs.

The deck stewards were quick to rally from the shock of appalling suddenness of the tempest. Already they were scrambling through the long room at either side with ropes for the passengers to cling to. Aided by the ropes they were removing the furniture from the bruised victims under it and wedging them into safe corners.

It was possible then to sit on things and cling to them. Chief Officer Fred Ainslee came through clinging precariously to the rope while his feet slid from under him as the ship slowly and sickeningly tilted. "Keep your places," he shouted in a stentorian voice, "nobody must try to leave this room."

"That's tyranny," remarked Isobel, "what about my rendezvous on the boat deck? I never break my word."

The chief officer had a soft spot for passengers who kept cheerful under difficulties. "By all means, Miss Butler, if you can get a door open, but if your word gets through safely everything else will be broken."

"I think one of my ribs is now," she said.

He slid to her over the tilting floor and felt the place that was stabbing her. "Might be a crack," he said, "but more likely a severe bruise."

"Many people hurt?" she asked.

"Don't speak of it," he whispered while the ship hung perilously on the verge of turning turtle. "But we have some severe casualties among the crew—unprepared for it—that first roll was so sudden——"

He went then, drawing himself out by the rope that went through into the smoking room.

Isobel sat up and looked round in the brief pause while the ship fought to retain her equilibrium. All the children and younger set were in the room, drawn there by the promise of the pictures. They were clinging tensely to the sofas they huddled in—to the rope—to the hooks for the curtains screwed into the walls—to anything that would afford a handhold. They were quiet, but they looked hideously afraid—as did most of the older ones. It would take very little to start a panic.

Anne was not there—she would be with Neil in the veranda café. Mena was not there. Alex was not there—he didn't care for pictures. Neither was Arnold. Isobel knew where he was. She had come up to the drawing room to see if Claire was going to be there for an hour or two before she went down to him. She wondered desperately about his heart. What would this nerve-racking motion be doing to him? She set out to crawl across the steep incline of the floor to the foyer.

There the drawing room steward stopped her. "You'd be killed, miss. You can't try to go down the stairs——"

"But I must——"

"I can't let you pass. That's orders——"

He helped her to the nearest sofa. Mrs. Panting was sitting on it clinging fiercely to the rope, her feet braced against the floor. Isobel saw that for once her organizing genius had failed her. She was in an agony of terror. "Buck up," said Isobel, "sailors don't scare."

One of the children said to her: "Miss Butler, do you think we're going down?"

She laughed gleefully—"Of course not. It has to be lots worse than this to sink a ship. A ship never goes down till it stands on its nose—you know it dives nose foremost——"

The tense look went out of the children's faces.

The ship was moving again, righting herself—coming up. Isobel's heart steadied—"there," she said, "didn't I tell you so?"

Rending, tearing, splitting sounds outside culminated in a mighty crash. The ship trembled from stem to stern—rocked, started keeling over again. "God," thought Isobel, "what's happening to poor Arnold?"

A big eyed child said hoarsely, "Miss Butler, what's drowning like? Is it terrible?"

"No, it's lovely. No bumps, you know—all soft cozy water. I knew a life guard in California. He said people simply hated him for saving their lives. They wanted to get right back in the ocean again——"

The children were giggling now.

Then, raising her voice, "Come on, kids, we're going to sing for all the people. They're getting bored just sitting around. What do you know?"

No Chaperon? Try Praising His Chivalry

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

It is up to the girl more than ever today. There no longer are any chaperons. Crowded living quarters send a girl out on lonely rides far from the protection of the family atmosphere. Very often she lives alone. How can she avoid the kisses and caresses she does not want, the cheap kisses that leave her feeling exploited?

"The boys won't take you out," the very young girl cries, "unless you let them kiss you."

"I ordered him out of the apartment and slammed the door in his face," an indignant older girl reports and then confesses forlornly, "but he never came to see me again."

A slap on the face is childish and old-fashioned. Perhaps the boys and men have been spoiled by the liberties other girls permitted them in their feminine efforts to be popular.

Perhaps at heart the men are really fine fellows if you know how to handle them. There is no use making them angry.

A compliment can serve as a chaperon. The girl who wants to head off unpleasing advances can tell the man or boy that he is different. She enjoys so much going out with a man who is chivalrous. He is so intelligent, she enjoys talking to him. It is such a relief to meet a man with whom she doesn't have to neck to escape boredom.

Before the evening is over the man will be swelling with chivalry and intelligence. He'll protect the girl, instead of insulting her, and have a grand time doing it, too. She'll make him feel himself such a fine, splendid fellow he'll come back again and again to enjoy the rôle.

And then it's up to the girl herself to be entertaining. Perhaps the man will find it a relief to meet a girl so lively he isn't forced from boredom into cheap lovemaking.

When the car parks in a lonely spot it is up to the girl to find an arresting topic. Indiscriminate petting often is mere mental laziness. After the boy and girl have grown to know and appreciate each other their lovemaking no longer will be cheap.

TODAY'S QUILT

Prosperity.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Prosperity" is an old and rather simple pieced block created around 1875 during a time when depressions were uncommon and prosperity was not "just around the corner." This was a favorite "everyday" quilt and was made in blue, white, and blue printed material. The white squares in the corner were done in half inch cross bar quilting, and the pattern was created in outline. These pieced blocks are set together with four inch bands of white material between them, but the bands are not quilted. When finished the design measures 16½ inches square, and only twenty are required for a coverlet.

Perspiration a Splendid Aid for the Skin

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Sun baths not only give you a bisque tan and useful vitamins, but the heat of mid-summer also can rid your system of poisons by making you perspire.

There is an old saying that a healthy man perspires every day. It doesn't mention the ladies. But every woman would be benefited by a perspiration bath. It would not only make her healthier, but her skin would be more beautiful.

All the complexion remedies are useless if your system is overburdened with impurities. Clogged pores and inactive sweat and skin glands often are the cause of a bad complexion. Acidity may cause that rash. Exposure to the sun's days will open your pores and sweat out your troublesome inner enemies.

Wear as few clothes as possible, but be sure to have a hat to keep your head from getting too hot. Let the sun do its work. Several glasses of water or a cup or two of hot tea will encourage the perspiration. When rivers of moisture are glistening all over you, top off with a brisk shower and, perhaps, an alcohol rub.

Of course, you must be sure your skin is past burning and that you don't stay out too long.

When you don fresh clothes and your summer makeup—not forgetting a deodorant—and step out into society, you will feel marvelous.

The Housewife

To the list of transparent, waterproof items—umbrellas, raincoats, and zipper bags for foods—there is now added a clever little apron. First of all, it's light weight—you hardly know you are wearing it. Second, it's completely waterproof, so if you spill the biscuit batter or the jelly, no matter. It's easily cleaned by wiping it with a damp cloth. And third, it is transparent so it doesn't conceal your new dress, nor does it clash with its colors, as it is colorless.

er at the wedding of Peter G. Moon and Miss Martha Carr last April, entertained at cocktails at the Ambassador hotel yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Moon and her sister, Miss Katherine Carr, and Robert Henze of Innsbruck, Austria. Miss Carr and Mr. Henze will be married on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Moon are entertaining at cocktails on Friday for her sister and Mr. Henze. The party will be a housewarming for the Moons' apartment.

Miss Florence Hermes is giving a dinner-dance at the Saddle and Cycle club tonight for Miss Narcissa Thorne and Charles L. Peet of St. Paul, who also are to be married on Saturday.

Miss Ethel Husband entertained at cocktails at the Ambassador yesterday to say farewell to some of her friends. She is going to Boston, New York, and Nantucket for the rest of the summer.

The various boards of Northwestern University Settlement will meet at the Libertyville home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Leverone at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. After a steak dinner cooked on the picnic grounds, there will be folk dances by performers of the settlement.

Art Institute Will Hold Summer Preview.

The Art institute has installed a big fan to serve the east wing galleries and summer visitors find art study more comfortable than ever before. The institute is giving a preview of its summer exhibitions next Tuesday in the ten rooms of the wing.

One room is devoted to sculpture in several media by Sylvia Shaw Judson [Mrs. Clay Judson]. Although Mrs. Judson's work has been widely exhibited and has won a number of prizes, this will be the first one-man showing of her work at the institute.

The sculpture will be opened to the public on the 28th, the same day that "Art for the Public by Chicago Artists," the WPA show, will be opened. On Tuesday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock there will be talks by artists represented in the latter show, illustrating art techniques, materials, and processes.

James Simpsons Leave for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson left yesterday for a month's trip to England, Germany and France.

Mr. and Mrs. William Boyden will return the end of this month from a vacation at Cimarron, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Adams and their baby son, Peter, and Mrs. Adams' daughter, Miss Joan Roby, who were visiting Mrs. Adams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lynde, left for their home at Manhasset, N. Y., on Sunday. Miss Eleanor Janney accompanied them and will remain in the east visiting for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynde will motor east the end of this week. They expect to be gone for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Bray of Glencoe and their daughter, Barbara, are motoring to Quebec. On their way they will stop in Toronto and they will return home in four weeks by way of the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Erret Van Nice, who are in Quebec, are expected at home on Sunday.

Among those at the Arlington race track yesterday afternoon were the dancers, Veloz and Yolanda, who had a horse in a race. Miss Nancy Leigh Bowes was with Mrs. Jerome P. Bowes. Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr., who hardly misses a day at the races, was there with Miss Margot Reid. Among others present were, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Mrs. John H. Hamline, and Mrs. William Collins Jr.

All Letters to Sally Must Be Mailed Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

"Better late than never" is one old saying that just doesn't work—at least as far as parties are concerned, boys and girls.

Tomorrow morning I'm going to read all the mail and select the fifty boys and fifty girls who are to be my guests at the game between the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox on Thursday, July 28. If your letter isn't on my desk it can't possibly be considered. If you want to see that game you'd better get busy today.

All I want to know is why you'd like to be one of the winners—why you like the Sox, which players are your favorites, and anything else you think will convince me that you really should be invited. Tell me anything you like—but write your own letter and don't worry about misspelled words or crooked lines. Don't forget to include your full name, address, and age.

Those are the only requirements we have for eligible letters, and they're simple enough for any boy or girl.

The names of the winners will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, so if you expect to find your name in that list you'll have to get that letter mailed today, without fail.

Historical Society to Stay Open All Day on Saturdays

The Chicago Historical society will remain open all day on Saturdays for the remainder of the summer. Director L. Hubbard Shattuck said that attendance has greatly increased since the Charles H. Pike print room was opened several weeks ago. More than 300 prints of American cities during the last three centuries are included in the collection of Mr. Pike, president of the society.

For Summer and Autumn

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKET DRESS.

Now that midsummer is here, we must look regretfully forward to autumn. Not so regretfully, perhaps, because that means a new season and new clothes. The model we're offering in our pattern today is one you can wear this summer and all the early days of fall, that is, if you make it of silk. In cottons it will see you beautifully through the rest of the summer. This jacket frock takes to scalloping for its principal trim. This detail is found on the buttoned closing of the dress bodice, and trims the hip length jacket. The frock has a V neckline, a snug waist, and a gored skirt. The jacket is collarless, has simple long sleeves, and hangs full and flatteringly from the shoulders.

If you want strictly a summer dress, make this outfit of cottons or wash silks. You might dress up neckline with a bow and some frilly edging.

Style No. 2877 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of edging for the dress. The jacket requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Any one who looks upon the opening lead as a sort of burden, to be gotten rid of as quickly as possible, misses out in one of the most important and most fascinating sides of the game. I have repeatedly said, and now say again, that the success, or failure, of most "close" contracts hangs in the balance of the opening lead. Depending on the situation, the objective of the opening lead must vary widely. Sometimes the correct objective is the immediate establishment of a trick but, at other times, it is possible for the leader to take a very long view and visualize the course that the later play will probably take.

It was West's imaginative [and sound] opening lead in the following hand that brought his side a top score.

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 club | 1 diamond |
| Pass | 1 spade | Pass | 1 no trump |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

I am reporting the bidding as it occurred at one table, which does not mean that I approve it. East obviously was a player who preferred to open with one club whenever in doubt as to the proper bid. It is difficult to see anything wrong with a one diamond opening.

If West had been the type of player who woodenly opens partner's suit regardless of other considerations, South's contract would have returned an excellent match-point score. No fewer than four spade tricks, one heart, one diamond, and one club would have been made, with the possibility of an extra club trick. West, however, had different ideas. He was sure that he never again would take the lead except with the diamond king and, to him, it seemed very important that his two leads [the opening lead and the probable later lead through the diamond king] could be used to better advantage than to knock out the stoppers of what was probably a short club suit in partner's hand. Hearts had not been bid by any player, and it was entirely reasonable to suppose that the top heart honors were distributed around the table. Whether East held the heart king or the heart ace, the suit unquestionably could be started better by West, with the J-10-9, than by East. It was almost inconceivable that a lead of the heart jack could cost anything and, since that was true, it automatically became an excellent opening.

That was West's reasoning, but his heart jack lead succeeded beyond his fondest hope. Dummy's entry to the spade suit went in one fell swoop! Declarer tried to retain the entry by finessing with the queen, but East killed that card and promptly returned a heart, West forcing out the ace. East then held up his spade ace until declarer's spades were exhausted, and that made the dummy as dead as a door nail. By guessing the spade situation, declarer cashed two spade tricks, but these were augmented only by one heart, one diamond, and one club, which left him two tricks short of his contract.

Obviously, North-South could have done much better at a one spade contract. But the fact remains that it was West's imaginative opening lead that capitalized the situation for his pair.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Here is a hot meal with an icy conclusion of the type which seems very satisfactory, indeed, to business folks at the end of a tiring day. The ingredients for the meal may be picked up on the way home from work, and require little effort in preparation.

BUSINESS WOMAN'S SHORT CUT DINNER
Individual Meat Loaves
Hot Potato Salad
Buttered Fresh Beets
Corn on the Cob
Baking Powder Biscuits [Prepared Mix]
Cantaloupe Halves Filled with Lemon Sherbet [Commercial]
Iced Coffee

Individual Meat Loaves.

[Serves three.]

¾ pound ground beef
Salt, pepper
½ small onion, chopped
½ cup bread crums
¼ cup cooked or canned tomatoes

Season meat well with salt and pepper [use about three-quarters teaspoon salt] and add onion, crums, and tomatoes. Press the mixture into greased muffin pans and bake at 350 degrees, moderate oven, until done, about 30 minutes.

Bulk sausage may be used for such meat loaves, too. Make them the same way, but go light on salt and pepper, as sausage already is seasoned.

Hot potato salad may be made in dozens of variations. Sour cream dressing composed of half cooked salad dressing and half sour cream is excellent with it. The dressing should be heated before it is combined with potatoes. Cook the potatoes in boiling salted water in their skins if time isn't limited. Then peel and slice them into a hot bowl, add dressing, minced onion, and a little chopped parsley or green pepper. If time is short, potatoes may be diced before cooking in salted water. If they are cut up before cooking they are likely to become mashed when mixed with dressing, but this in no way affects the flavor of the salad, of course.

I think that I have mentioned recently the fact that beets may be peeled and cut up before cooking with no loss in appearance or food value, and a great saving in time. A small amount of water is added when they are cooked in this way, and it is allowed almost to evaporate, so that the beets reabsorb the color which has gone into the cooking water. They needn't be drained at all, but may be seasoned and buttered in the cooking pan as soon as they are tender.

No longer than 10 minutes should be allowed for cooking corn on the cob. Cook it covered, and salt the water so that the corn won't need salt at the table.

Showy Tricks Are Out When Kopp Conducts

BY EDWARD BARRY.

When Leo Kopp conducted the Chicago Opera orchestra last night in the nineteenth of the free Grant park concerts he did more than provide a pleasant evening of summer music. For those who are interested in such things the program offered an additional dividend, a demonstration of the qualities of a good interpreter.

In Strauss' "Don Juan" and Tschaikowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" were none of the maddening stoppings and startings, the mechanical strivings for effect, which can so easily turn a performance of music into nothing more nor less than a revelation of the amount of hokum which has crept into the practice of this honorable art. Neither were there any head tossings nor rapt expressions nor gratuitous calisthenics.

In these two great pieces Mr. Kopp proved again and again that sympathy for the music will result in all the nuance that anybody needs. And every nuance—whether it be of color or tempo or dynamics or all three—is genuine rather than fraudulent because it is not an effect for its own sake but has sprung directly from the conductor's desire to convey to his listeners the content of the music. This, one may declare pontifically, is the most important lesson that an interpreter can learn.

Because of the honesty of the performance and the simplicity of the conductor's demeanor the music became tremendously moving and exciting. Even those of us who thought that we could never again get all churned up just because the violas happen to sneak in with the "Romeo and Juliet" love theme at the proper moment found last evening that much of the sophistication in which we prided ourselves peels off like cheap veneer in the face of such a performance.

Mr. Kopp presented two soloists in the course of the program. Esther Goodwin, contralto, sang "O Don Fatale" from Verdi's "Don Carlos" with good tone quality and live, incisive style. Maude-Key Shelton, soprano, offered "Ritorna Vincitor" from the same composer's "Aida," succeeding in phrashing so eloquently and coloring so aptly that the warring emotions of the distraught slave girl were convincingly embodied in her performance.

Long View in Child Rearing Will Pay Best

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Writers like to use illustrations in order to make a point. It is a good idea, because concrete instances are graphic and do illuminate an idea, provided they're good ones. I have one in mind that I may have given you, but it's such a fitting one I'm going to repeat it.

"Do you see those brass railings?" said an architect to me one day as we stood in front of a new building. "They have to be polished all the time, you know. Well, it would have been cheaper for the owners in the end if they had had those railings heavily plated with real gold, though it would have cost a great deal in the beginning."

For some reason the remark brought to my mind something I overheard one mother say, not long ago to another, "O, you take so much trouble with your children—you spend so much time on them," and the reply, "Well, I'll guarantee you'll spend more time on yours' later on."

Analogies are rather weak things to depend on in order to make a point; as a rule they don't really fit. But somehow, the wise treatment of little children seemed to me in that moment to be much like the gold railings on the beautiful new building, and unwise treatment or neglect like the brass ones.

The mother who is willing to invest heavily of her time, her intelligence, and her responsiveness when her children are little is like the owner who is willing to go to the expense of having gold railings on his building. He prevents tarnish and trouble later on, just as the mother prevents behavior difficulties, lack of confidence, and even estrangement by being willing to take trouble in the beginning.

The other mother, who thinks children should just grow, who wants to be about her own affairs, who won't stop in the midst of cooking or reading to smooth things out for a young son or daugher, who won't take time from sewing or "visiting" to get up and share in the triumph of a sand castle, or a block roadway, or a dolly that's just been tucked in is going to spend lots more time on them later when her children are older and she finds them fractious and wonders why she can't get close to them. Her brass railing takes up much more of her time and strength and concern later on, though it seemed to save her time in the beginning.

Rome Approves Beatification of Chicago Nun

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, who died in 1917, yesterday was approved for beatification, a step toward sainthood in the Catholic church. The approval was granted by the congregation of rites meeting at Castel Gondolfo, papal summer residence, in the presence of Pope Pius XI.

The first steps toward the beatification were taken in 1933 at Columbus hospital, 2548 Lake View avenue. Most of Mother Cabrini's work was accomplished in the United States, where she founded 46 hospitals, as well as homes and schools. She will be the first citizen of the United States to be beatified.

The Vatican news service announced that only one minor step is necessary prior to the impressive service of beatification which will be held in St. Peter's cathedral in Rome on Nov. 13. The approval of the congregation of rites was based on two recoveries from illness which were found to be authentic miracles.

All the important testimony concerning the miracles was taken in Chicago. These concerned the recoveries of Sister Delpina Grazioli, a Seattle nun who was believed to be dying in 1929, when Mother Cabrini was invoked, and the preservation of the life of Peter Smith, then an infant, 18 years ago in New York. It was testified that Mother Cabrini appeared at the sick bed of the Seattle nun in a vision and that a few days later the nun was restored to health.

The infant Peter Smith had his eyes burned a few moments after his birth with a solution of nitrate of silver. He was blinded. Pneumonia also developed and he ran a temperature of 109 degrees. Prayers were offered to Mother Cabrini. The next day the eyes of the baby were restored and he was soon cured of pneumonia.

Twelve years later the boy was in Chicago testifying in Mother Cabrini's behalf. Now at 18 years of age he is studying for the priesthood. Following the adjournment of the Chicago tribunal, its members went to West Park, N. Y., where Mother Cabrini's body was exhumed and examined for any unusual signs of preservation. This corroborative evidence was forwarded to Rome with the other miracular evidence.

Hearings then proceeded in Rome and at Sant Angelo, Italy, where Mother Cabrini was born on July 15, 1850. She was the youngest of 13 children, a frail child. It was told at Sant Angelo that at her birth a flight of white doves alighted on the Cabrini home. As a child she was miraculously saved from drowning, it was said.

FAVOR NEW RULE TO AID RELIEFERS WHO GO TO WORK

Resume Dole Quickly if They Lose Jobs.

If a relief client obtains a job in private industry and loses it after a short time he should have an official certificate entitling him to return immediately to the relief rôles.

This is one of the ten recommendations for changes in the administration of relief in Chicago which were made public yesterday by the Illinois Council on Public Assistance and Employment. A week ago the report of the council, which is composed of business men, was submitted to Gov. Horner.

Confer on New Proposals.

Yesterday's announcement was made after a conference attended by Mayor Kelly, Leo M. Lyons, director of the Chicago Relief administration; Walter Gregory, chairman of the council, and Stanley P. Farwell, its secretary.

Lack of security in the event of an unexpected layoff often has been given as the reason reliefers prefer to accept a public dole rather than a private job. If they are assured that relief will be resumed if private employment fails, many experts believe the relief rôles would be lightened.

Lyons said plans already are afoot to place in effect two other important proposals made by the council. They are for a reorganization of the executive structure of the CRA and establishment of a central bureau for relief applications.

The first recommendation would divide the CRA into seven divisions—relief, business, general accounting, statistical, special service, commodity distribution, and personnel. Each division head would be responsible directly to Lyons.

Qualities of Relief Director.

The relief head, the report stated, should be "a man who is not only keenly aware of the social service obligations of the community to relief clients, but who is also capable of directing supervision of the district offices with businesslike efficiency."

Other recommendations were:

Instalation in all district offices of the changes made in the Canal office where case workers' loads were reduced and all cases were investigated intensively.

Closer coöperation between the social service and the property and insurance departments to base eligibility for relief on economic need alone.

Division of relief cases into four categories to simplify treatment, and establishment of a department to prosecute nonsupport cases.

IT'LL BE A QUIET MONDAY IN CITY; COURTESY BEGINS

When you wake up Monday morning into a silent, hornless Chicago, don't be too amazed. It will betoken merely the beginning of a week of strange events.

This is the week when taxicab drivers, instead of snarling their customary epithets at laggard motorists, will sidle up alongside to utter a winning: "I beg your pardon, sir, but do you realize you are an impediment to trafic?"

Other unusual happenings will occur. The gentleman who knocks your fifth rib out of joint that he may get on the street car first will gallantly offer to buy you an ice cream soda. Motorists will thrust out an arm to signify they are turning, parking, or unparking. And no one will honk a horn unnecessarily.

This all is to be part of Courtesy week, sponsored by the Keep Chicago Safe committee. It is intended to reduce trafic fatalities, but its sponsors hope for other results, too.

WPA TO LET MEN EARN PAY LOST AT GUARD CAMP

Relief workers on WPA who attend the National Guard camps this summer will be allowed to make up the pay they lose while off the job. In past years they were not allowed to work double time when they returned.

The announcement of the change in policy was made yesterday by Charles E. Miner, Illinois WPA administrator.

Privates in the guard earn about a dollar a day for the two week encampment. This, in recent years, has prevented some WPA workers from attending camp because their army pay was so much less than the $27.50 in WPA pay that they could get by staying home.

FIRES SWEEP NEW FORESTS IN NORTHWEST

Seattle, Wash., July 19.—(AP)—Forest fires ate into a Canadian resort settlement and roared across new Pacific northwest timberlands today despite the dogged efforts of 6,000 fighters.

The 10,000 acre Campbell Lake conflagration on Vancouver Island encircled Forbes Landing and then leaped into buildings of the village, in the heart of the island's hunting, fishing, and logging area. No loss of life was reported.

From British Columbia to Oregon, and from the Pacific coast line to western Montana an estimated 600 fires were burning, some of them out of control. The burned and burning area totaled about 63,000 acres.

WANTS PWA SCHOOL GRANT.

Rockford, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—PWA funds are being sought by Cherry Valley for construction of a school auditorium-gymnasium. The village will vote Saturday on a $14,000 bond issue to supplement a $14,500 PWA grant.

SPECIAL SESSION FOR SPENDING IN INDIANA OPENED

Indianapolis, Ind., July 19.—[Special.]—A special midsummer session of the Indiana legislature convened today. Gov. M. Clifford Townsend recommended appropriation of $5,400,934 from a state treasury surplus of $24,500,000. This was for the purpose of stimulating business through spending on PWA projects. Chief among these is creating additional housing facilities at state institutions.

The money will be added to $4,706,060 in new allotments from the PWA, plus $710,000 from the revenue of four state educational institutions, to provide a fund of $10,816,994 for public work projects. It is one of the greatest construction spending programs ever dreamed of in this state.

The governor also recommended that legislators appropriate $2,000,000 annually to reimburse counties where welfare costs are beyond their ability to pay. He also urged amending the state motor vehicle windshield gadget law.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a group picture of C. I. O. pickets jailed in Waukegan, printed in Tuesday's final editions, J. J. Brownlee of the C. I. O. was identified as Nick Marcinkus, one of the defendants. Brownlee was in court representing Van A. Bittner, union official.

LIQUOR DRIVER JAILED AFTER HE REPORTS HOLDUP

Sergt. Charles Moore did not like the way Benjamin Wulbert, 32 years old, 2703 North Clark street, reported the story of a robbery last night. Wulbert, driver for a liquor store at 4251 Drexel boulevard, reported that two Negroes boarded his truck on the south side. They made him drive to Gary, Wulbert said, where they opened the truck safe and took $40, but did not touch a case of liquor. After Sergt. Moore questioned him for a while Wulbert admitted he had lost the $40 playing the horse races. He was locked up in jail.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Honor for a Cow.

A LITTLE more attention than usual is being given Marilea's Pauline, one of the young Guernseys in the purebred herd at the Du Page county farm, since her name was mentioned among the 3 year olds in a recent issue of the Guernsey Breeders' Journal.

Marilea's Pauline, No. 410535, ranks at the top of the list in class E, including 3 to 3½ year old cows, in approved advanced registry records of production for the year reported—from June 1 to June 15 this year. The average yearly figures reported for that period by the American Guernsey Cattle club put Marilea's Pauline first in her class for having produced 12,484.5 pounds of milk containing 680.1 pounds of butterfat. The butterfat test averaged 5.4 per cent. This cow is only a little more than 3 years old.

Milked 1,095 Times.

In producing the record Marilea's Pauline was milked 1,095 times during the year. The milk was drawn by hand. More than 1,000 pounds of milk with more than 56½ pounds of butterfat was produced on the average each month.

With the hope that Marilea's Pauline will do even better next time, herdsmen are giving her special attention. She has an electric fan to keep her cool on hot days. A radio receiving set is kept in one end of the barn so the cow hears her favorite music. If a fly tries to buzz into her compartment it usually is electrocuted by electrically charged screens installed on the doors. Pyrethrum spray material is used regularly to catch stray flies that get through the doorway. Cool water gurgles around her muzzle every time she sticks her mouth into an automatic drinking cup.

Marilea's Pauline is a member of the herd of about forty purebred Guernseys kept at the farm. Usually almost half the herd is producing milk. Records of production are kept throughout the year on all the cows that are milked. Scales are kept back of the stanchions and after each milking the milk is weighed.

Records kept on seventeen of the cows show that during May they produced an average of 911.8 pounds of milk containing an average of 46.70 pounds of butterfat. Marilea's average monthly butterfat record exceeded the herd's May average by about 10 pounds.

Fight Diseases.

The danger of diseases being carried into the herd has made it necessary for the manager of the Guernseys at the farm to discontinue the practice of allowing visitors to go through the dairy barn. Veterinarians say that one of the most common ways of spreading disease germs among dairy cattle is for persons to go from infected herds to noninfected herds. They carry the germs on their shoes.

Tuberculosis and Bang's disease, that causes abortion in cattle, have taken such heavy tolls in recent years that dairy farmers are forced to use extra precautions to prevent the infection of their herds. In some cases caretakers use special boots or shoes in working around the dairy barns. Some herdsmen keep a federally approved disinfectant in shallow pans near the entrances of the barn and require that every person entering the door walk through the pan. This practice of disinfecting the soles of shoes before visitors or herdsmen enter the barn is helping prevent the spread of dairy cattle diseases.

SAMMY HOPES TO REPEAT HIS 1937 SUCCESS

Sweeney Holds Lead in National Poll.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Mention Washington Redskins to the first hundred people you meet in Chicago and ninety-nine will answer, "Sammy Baugh." The one hundredth might say "All-Star game at Soldiers' field" before he brought Baugh's name into his conversation.

All of them, however, would think of Sammy Baugh's pass in the All-Star game last year which whipped the Green Bay Packers, 6 to 0, and it would be quite natural then to remember that Baugh, now a member of the championship professional team, will play for Washington against the All-American collegians in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31.

Until Sammy Baugh arrived in Chicago a year ago to compete for a place on the All-Star team—he wasn't elected to a starting position by the fans of the country—he was well known only in the southwest, where he had starred at Texas Christian. Baugh soon convinced the coaches of his ability as a passer, a kicker, and a runner. More important personally to Sammy, he convinced his fellow members on the squad that he was all player and a gentleman. The boys elected Sammy captain of the team.

Sam Felt Honored.

"That was the greatest honor I ever received," Baugh said afterward, "to have these boys name me their leader."

After that game last year, when Baugh threw a touchdown pass to Gaynell Tinsley and the All-Stars scored their first victory in the four games with the professionals, Sammy went on to become the sensation of the National league.

The New York Giants soon learned about Sammy. In the first New York game in Washington Baugh completed eleven passes in sixteen attempts. In the game in New York, which decided the eastern professional championship, Baugh completed eleven passes in fifteen attempts, which gave him an all-time record of eighty-one completed passes for the season. That afternoon 58,285 watched Washington overwhelm the Giants, 49 to 14.

The Bears Remember Him.

One week later Chicago watched Baugh and his mates defeat the Chicago Bears, 28 to 21, for the league championship.

All of which may read as if this year's game will be no contest with Baugh throwing passes for the Redskins, who also will have a line that piled up 262 yards by pushing against the Giants while holding their eastern rivals to fifteen yards. But All-Star fans already know that no college group can be taken too lightly.

In 1934, the first year of the series sponsored annually by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., Bronko Nagurski of the Bears was presumed to be able to rip the All-Star line apart. That game, you remember, ended in a scoreless tie.

The following year the Bears again were held to a scoreless tie in the first half, but won, 5 to 0, when Jack Manders placekicked and, during the second half rainstorm, an All-Star kick was blocked for a safety. But in 1936, when the Detroit Lions, led by Earl [Dutch] Clark, now Detroit coach, were supposed to be entirely too fast and tricky, the All-Stars tied the Lions, 7 to 7.

All-Stars Halt Passes.

Last year Green Bay learned the same lesson. The Packers had the ZEKE BONURA has confided to friends that he expects to be a member of the Cubs soon, if he can be waived out of the American league in one of those gentlemen's agreement arrangements, possible even after the trading deadline is in effect. . . . If not soon, it will happen eventually, Bonura says. . . . Back in Chicago, the city he loves, he thinks he again would be a .300 hitter and the habitual driver-in of more than 100 runs per season, as of old. . . . It is said in other quarters that right now it would be no trouble to get Zeke out of the American league. . . . Eric Blind, 230 pound assistant starter at Arlington Park, rode for Col. Edward R. Bradley a few years ago. . . . In 1926 Blind, who then tipped the scales at 110 pounds, was aboard Bagenbaggage when the Bradley colt raced second to his stablemate, Bubbling Over, in the Kentucky Derby. . . . Blind had several offers to play professional football but turned them down to stay in racing. . . . Walter Keller of the Illinois Athletic club says Howard Hughes works just as hard on his golf game as he does at aviation. . . . "I've seen him practice for hours at a time hitting golf balls at Lakeside Golf club, just outside Hollywood," Keller informs this department.

Manager Jimmy Dykes was given a suite on the ground floor in the Sox hotel in Washington and when he asked if the assignment had been made as an anti-leaping precaution, the room clerk admitted he had not known about the improvement in the Sox when he designated the quarters. . . . Mal Elward, head football coach, and Eth Baugh, alumni secretary, traveled 4,775 miles in May and June addressing Purdue clubs. . . . Their first tour in May carried them 1,600 miles through Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio. . . . They covered 675 miles in Indiana early in June and later traveled 2,500 miles through Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York, and the New England states. . . . A radio station in Hattiesburg, Miss., is arranging a reënactment of the famous John L. Sullivan-Jake Kilrain fight of 1889 on the original site, Richburg, late next month. . . . Claudia Eckert will not return from her around the world tour in time to compete in this year's National A. A. U. swimming and diving meet.

Minkley's 73 Leads Chicago Open Trials

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Arnold Minkley of Big Oaks, a fortyish gent who used to rassle and play minor league baseball, yesterday led all shooters in the special qualifying round for the second annual Chicago Open golf tournament beginning Friday morning at the Olympia Fields Country club.

Mr. Minkley batted and half-Nelsoned his way around the eighteen holes of the No. 1 course at Olympia Fields for a 39—34—73, one over par. His card enabled him to finish two shots in front of the field and lead the fifty low scorers in yesterday's special event.

Westward-Ho Wins.

Included with yesterday's qualifying round, limited to amateurs with a handicap of five strokes or more, was a special event for the A. W. Hale trophy, set up by the president of the Chicago District Golf association for the low gross foursome total in the round. Heading these quartets was that from Westward-Ho, which had an aggregate of 304, against Olympia Fields' 305. Players with handicaps of four or less were permitted to join in this competition.

Members of the Westward-Ho team were Earle Wilde, son of the club pro and 1937 western junior medalist, who had 36—33—69; Art Doering, Stanford university, 37—34—71; Fred Wagner, club champion, 36—41—78, and Bill Koch, 46—40—86. Wilde hammered out 15 pars and three birdies, the last of which came at the 498 yard 18th, where he planted a 5 iron just off the green and then chipped up to four feet and holed out for a four.

Olympia Fields' second place foursome consisted of John Lehman, former western amateur title holder, 38—35—73; Dr. J. Earl Harris, former club champion, 36—37—73; Tom Sheehan Jr., Notre Dame captain, 41—38—79, and Bill Williams, present club title holder, 40—40—80.

Two strokes back of Minkley was Carl Jankowski of Oak Hills, with a 75 that gave him a one shot edge on Peter Raap, former Medinah champion.

Forty eight of yesterday's field, listed at five strokes or more, shot 85 or better. Ten others, all of whom finished with 86's, played off for the last two places in the bracket. The winners, each with par fours on the

Tunica Does a Corrigan at Arlington.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There was some gloom and a lot of sunshine in certain quarters at Arlington Park yesterday. The gloomy countenances belonged to the owners of a number of candidates for Saturday's $30,000 Classic stakes.

Their charges had been beaten by the selling plater Tunica in the Lake Villa purse at a mile, resulting in a discouraging Classic outlook for such 3 year olds as Fairflax, an invader from Canada; Blind Eagle, and Dorothy Rock, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark; Billy O'Toole's Wise Barrister, and the Louisiana Derby winner, Wise Fox.

They were all soundly trounced, but Tunica, which has run to be claimed for as little as $1,000, had to turn on lots of speed to do it. He ran the mile in 1:36 4-5.

Up the Creek Makes Good.

The sunshine was evident over at Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way farm stable because Mrs. Mars had uncovered during the afternoon what appeared to be her best 2 year old. The youngster's name is Up the Creek. He is a son of Bull Dog-Wild Waters, the latter a daughter of Wildair.

He came from behind in the style of a champion to score the most impressive victory of any Arlington Futurity eligible this year. His time of 1:04 3-5 for the 5½ furlongs was spectacular. The performance is sure to send Mrs. Mars' colt to the post in the $50,000 Futurity on July 30 as the favorite, unless something happens to Up the Creek in the meantime.

John Marsch's Futurity hope, Lightspur, was second. He had bounced into the lead at the head of the stretch and looked to be a sure winner. When Up the Creek started his drive, however, Lightspur weakened and dropped back in the final strides. Heel In, a stable companion of Up the Creek, finished third.

Busy Man Is Fourth.

Busy Man went romping home fourth and Mrs. John Hertz's $25,000 colt, Gala Hour, was fifth. The latter is a splendid looking son of Sir Gallahad III-One Hour. He showed speed in spots, but Jocky Lester Balaski took no chances with him when he got into close quarters on the turn. His race was much better than his

Cincinnati Mayor Backs Nebel for All-Star Center

Arch Ward, Sports Editor of THE TRIBUNE, yesterday received the following letter from Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati:

"Our city has always been interested in athletic activities and we would feel proud to place a representative of Cincinnati on the 1938 Chicago Tribune All-Star football squad.

"We offer as our candidate Fred Nebel, twice chosen All-Ohio and center, captain of the 1937 Xavier university football team coached by Clem Crowe.

"All Cincinnati joins in expressing confidence in the qualifications of our candidate. I understand that an extensive campaign is under way to assure Nebel's election to the All-Star squad."

Tackles—Franco, Fordham, and Woltman, Purdue.
Guards—Zarnas, Ohio State, and Midler, Minnesota.
Center—Nebel, Xavier.
Quarter back—Puplis, Notre Dame.
Half backs—Frank, Yale, and White, Colorado.
Full back—McDonald, Ohio State.

Tamulis Scatters Eight Hits.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Brooklyn's sometimes daffy Dodgers yesterday showed no respect for the Cubs' winning streak which had reached seven games. The Dodgers had a string of their own to protect and their protection was so ample that they moved to their sixth consecutive truimph, 8 to 3.

The Dodgers, who are getting into the habit of saving all their daffy conduct for home consumption, accomplished their purpose in simple fashion. They just blasted Larry French for three runs in the first inning, gave him similar treatment in the fourth, and finished him off with two runs in the fifth. It was French's thirteenth defeat. After he surrendered the pitching was handled by Jack Russell and his exhibition was delightful but useless.

Homer Does Trick.

The Cubs added another afternoon of sorry hitting to a long record of such performances. Vito Tamulis, the southpaw who served several unsuccessful stretches in the American league, handled them so well that for seven innings they boasted only four hits. One of these was Frank Demaree's fourth homer of the year and two of the others, authored by Stan Hack and Augie Galan, occurred in the fourth for the second Cub run. In the last two innings the Cubs piled up an amazing total of four more hits, getting one run out of the mess because of an error.

French's first inning was a gleeful affair for the Dodgers because Cookie Lavagetto hit a homer. The bad feature of the homer was that two men were on bases at the time. There were no homers in the fourth, but there were three singles and a double. There also was a single off Larry before he received the ouster order in the fifth. One of the singles he yielded in the fourth was by Tamulis, driving in two runs, and the same fellow created further nuisance when he singled again in the fifth, driving in one of the men French had left on bases for Russell to handle.

Trouble Starts Early.

French's unhappiness began when Rosen opened the game with a scratch single to Herman and went to second on the latter's low throw. Hudson walked, but French placed himself in more comfortable circumstances by retiring Stainback and Camilli on pop fouls to Hartnett. Then Larry got himself into difficulties by letting Lavagetto run the count to 3 and 2. The next pitch was the customary cripple and Lavagetto plastered it into the left field bleacher for three runs.

The hitting wasn't so lengthy when French was nailed for three more runs in the fourth, but there was more of it. Lavagetto led off with a single to right, Durocher flied out, but Koy doubled to left. Shea was complimented with an intentional pass, filling the bases. Instead of being the goat of this procedure, Tamulis bounced a single over Collins' head, scoring Lavagetto and Koy. In a run down play on Rosen's roller Shea was out. Hudson then singled to send Tamulis home.

Cubs Break Through.

The Cubs broke into the party by making a run on their first hit off Tamulis. It was Demaree's fourth home run into the left field bleacher at the start of the third. Another Cub managed to find his way around to the plate in the fourth. Hack singled to left and was forced on Hart-

WASHINGTON PK. TO OFFER FANS $30,000 CONTEST

Pick Seven Winners and Get $1,000.

President Walter L. Gregory of the Washington Park Jockey club, yesterday announced $30,000 in cash would be distributed among the patrons of the south side track during its 30 day meeting, which opens Aug. 1. Distribution is based upon ability to handicap horses and pick winners.

It is not a mutuel pool and entails no added expense to the participants. There will be a guaranteed daily minimum pool of $1,000 with a possible payoff of $5,000 on Saturdays and a grand total that may total $10,000 on the final day of the meeting.

Pick Seven Winners.

The official name for the feature is the Patrons' Handicapping Contest. On week days the contestants are asked to name the winners of the first seven races. Any person who succeeds will be given the $1,000 prize. Should more than one succeed, they will share the pool. In the event that no one is successful the day's pool is added to the $1,000 award the following day.

$5,000 On Saturdays.

Should no one win the award through Friday the pool then will total $6,000. On Saturday $5,000 of this amount will be distributed to the patron or patrons who have selected the most winners in the first seven races. The remaining $1,000 of the $6,000 will be added to the final award on Saturday, Sept. 3.

An official blank will be printed in the track's program. Any person at the track is eligible to compete with the exception of employes, owners, trainers and jockies.

Jocky Willie Garner drew a ten day suspension at Arlington Park yesterday after he had carried Visigoth wide on the turn into the stretch in the sixth race. Garner also rode Bow and Arrow, which finished third.

Jocky Eddie Arcaro is coming from Rockingham Park to ride Hal Price Headley's Menow in the Classic stakes. Jocky George Woolf will fly from California tonight to have a leg up on The Chief in the Classic.

Lightspur was the favorite. Up the Creek paid $9.20.

In the race for Classic eligibles, Fairfax, Wise Fox, Blind Eagle, and Cross Keys did most of the early running. When the stretch run was started, Tunica got into full stride and put on the rally which brought him home in front.

Get Tuneups Today.

Two more candidates for the Classic will get their final tuneups for the $30,000 stake in the mile and eighth sixth race today. They are Co-Sport and Kings Heir. They are to go against older horses.

Eddie Dobkin, Chicago commissioner, did not wait for this race to announce his pay or play future odds on the outcome of the Classic. He quoted the following odds:

| | Win. | Place. | Show. |
|---|---|---|---|
| *Stagehand | 7-5 | 3-5 | 1-4 |
| *The Chief | 7-5 | 3-5 | 1-4 |
| Menow | 4-1 | 2-1 | 1-1 |
| Bull Lea | 7-10 | 1-2 | 8-5 |
| Crafts | 10-1 | 5-1 | 3-1 |
| Thanksgiving | 12-1 | 6-1 | 3-1 |
| Nedayr | 12-1 | 6-1 | 3-1 |
| Mythical King | 15-1 | 8-1 | 4-1 |
| Co-Sport | 15-1 | 8-1 | 4-1 |
| Blind Eagle | 25-1 | 10-1 | 5-1 |
| Fairfax | 30-1 | 20-1 | 10-1 |
| Wise Fox | 40-1 | 25-1 | 15-1 |
| King's Heir | 50-1 | 30-1 | 20-1 |

*Maxwell Howard entry.

The most brilliant training move of the day was turned in by Warren Wright's Bull Lea. The son of Bull Dog blazed five furlongs in one minute and came out of the drill in splendid condition.

Eastern Horses Coming.

Racing Secretary Charley McLennan received word that Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, Hal Price Headley's Menow, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Nedayr, and Mrs. Parker Corning's Thanksgiving will be shipped from New York today to fill their engagements in the Classic.

Arlington Park officials reported last night that the reservations indicate the Classic crowd will be the largest of the year in Chicago. They predicted that the Fourth of July attendance mark of 40,000 will be topped.

Coroner's Jury Declares Boxer's Death Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of Peter Cribari, 17 years old, 1108 South California avenue, an amateur boxer who dropped dead June 27 while engaged in a bout with Ram Maher, 16 years old, 6344 South Seeley avenue, in Davis Square, South Marshfield avenue and West 55th street.

The jury acted after hearing the report of Dr. S. S. Snider, coroner's physician, that Cribari died of an acute heart failure brought on by exertion.

Chitwood Signs to Drive in Hammond Races Sunday

Joie Chitwood, Indian driver, yesterday signed to compete in the standard car races on the banked Hammond speedway Saturday afternoon. All previous winners of feature events at Hammond will be in the lineup for the seven race program.

GIRLS PLAY FAST PITCHING.

The Chicago Down Draft Girls and Frank's Beauties will match soft ball skill in a fast pitching game tonight on Shewbridge field.

WILD PIGEON, racing in good form and having speed from start, was under a snug hold for almost five-eighths, took command with a rush and won with speed in reserve. MALEMAN drew out gradually, saved ground after about three-eighths and readily submitted to the winner, yet held on well to the final sixteenth where he weakened.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

LADY FLASHT, sent up gradually on the extreme outside, took command after leaving the turn, opened up a commanding advantage when entering the stretch and held sway thereafter. LADY ELGIN, rushed to the lead on the inside but was taken under restraint as the winner raced around her on the turn, stood a drive gamely the final three-sixteenths but did not menace LADY FLASH.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700 second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

UP THE CREEK, away in a tangle and raced wide throughout bettered his position gradually and closing with determination under strong hand riding got up in the final stride. LIGHTSPUR, away to the early lead under a light hold, came around HEEL IN when entering the stretch and under vigorous hand riding stood increased pressure gamely the last sixteenth but was not good enough.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

†Mrs. E. Denemark entry.

Time, :23, :46, 1:10 3-5, 1:36 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Tunica, $31.60 straight, $9.40 place, $5.80 show; Fairfax, $4.80 place, $3.40 show; Wise Barrister, $3.80 show. Winner trained by C. Norman. Went to post at 4:09. Off at once.

TUNICA, away poorly and badly outrun for three-quarters, began to improve position when getting through on the inside entering the stretch, continued the belated rush after coming out in the final eighth and, after getting up drew out fast. FAIRPLAY made the early pace under good railing, racing a trifle wide the last five-sixteenths and weakened after succumbing to the winner but outstayed WISE BARRISTER.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

VISIGOTH, lightly shaken up several times while keeping up in the early stages, rallied strongly to good pressure after reaching the last five-sixteenths, was forced wide entering the stretch and continued well out in the course while drawing out. AL AU FEU, worked his way up gradually and closing resolutely overtook BOW AND ARROW.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and a sixteenth. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

ED BRANDT AND PIRATES BLANK PHILLIES, 8 TO 0

Pittsburgh Hurler Yields Only Five Hits.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 19.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Pirates maintained their slight grip on first place in the heated National league race today when they blanked the Phillies, 8 to 0, behind the five-hit pitching of Southpaw Ed Brandt.

Johnny Rizzo, Pirates rookie, made four hits in four times at bat. He scored four runs. Arky Vaughan, batting behind Rizzo, lined out two triples and a single in three times up, driving home three runs.

REDS BEAT BEES TWICE.

Cincinnati, O., July 19.—(AP)—Cincinnati swept a double-header with Boston today, taking the first game 3 to 1 behind the two-hit hurling of young Whitey Moore, and the second, 7 to 2, with the aid of a trio of fourth inning homers and a single and double, good for six runs. The twin victory returned the Reds to third place.

INDIANAPOLIS PILOT, PLAYERS SUSPENDED, FINED

Columbus, O., July 19.—(AP)—Manager Ray Schalk of the American association Indianapolis Indians was suspended for three days and Coach Wes Griffin and three Indianapolis players were fined today by League President George M. Trautman as the result of a dispute over a home run which gave Minneapolis a victory yesterday. The penalties were imposed on the Indianapolis team members for shoving and verbally abusing Umpire Charles Johnston.

Frolics Win Two Games in Windy City Softball Play

Royal Frolics defeated the Senate Florals, 9 to 7, in the first round of the Windy City softball playoff in Mills stadium last night. Ernie Feltz, Frolics first baseman, hit three doubles and a single. In other first round games Royal Frolics defeated Winkler Motors, 16 to 8, and Senate Florals beat South Water Markets, 5 to 4. Second round play will start in St. Philip stadium tonight.

MOON MULLINS—AT THE FILLING STATION

Rain Washes Our Sox Right Into 5th Place

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 19.—The White Sox looked out upon rain-washed Boston today instead of playing the 72d game on their schedule, but while they were idle mathematics and their late foemen, the Washington Senators, helped make the day something less than dismal. The Senators, who, it will be remembered, were badly treated by the Sox, dealt out a 4 to 3 defeat to the Detroit Tigers and mathematics did the rest—simply boosting the Sox from sixth place over the Tigers into fifth in the American league.

When computations following the completion of the respective efforts of Senators and Tigers had been finished, they showed that the Tigers' percentage had slipped from .469 to .463, while the Sox's had remained stationary at .465.

Tomorrow the White Sox and the Red Sox are supposed to play a double-header arranged before today's washout. The outlook is for another washout. If the teams can't play tomorrow it will be necessary to book a double-header on each of the remaining four days the Chicagoans will be in Boston this year, Thursday and Aug. 25, 26, and 27.

Present plans are for Jack Knott and Thornton Lee to pitch the double-header tomorrow and Yum Yum Whitehead to pitch a single game, or as much of a single game as he can pitch Thursday. This will leave Monty Stratton and Ted Lyons available for the first two games of the four game Yankee series which opens in New York Friday.

Pros Rely on Baugh's Passes to Beat Stars

greatest passing combination in professional history, Arnie Herber to Don Hutson. Yet the All-Star defense checked this combination, although it should be added that when Herber was injured the task of the defense was much easier.

So it may be that once again the pros will be overrated when facing the All-Stars. This will not be so much because Baugh isn't a great player and that the Redskins are not a splendid team as the fact, now proved, that the All-Stars, who are the greatest players in the nation, may be underrated. You'll have a better idea just how strong your All-American squad will be when the national poll to name the starting lineup against the Redskins is completed this week.

In the tabulation of voting released today by THE TRIBUNE and 150 associated newspapers, Chuck Sweeney, Notre Dame end, retains the individual leadership. Sweeney now has polled 354,266 votes and his remarkable total is due to strength in all sections of the country. Naturally South Bend is supporting the Irish end, but he is highly regarded in Western conference centers, in New York and in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Fred Shirey, Nebraska's great tackle, has taken the lead in this group with 294,807 votes. George Delich, Pittsburgh tackle, who lives in Gary, Ind., has spurted in this group while Frank Patrick, another Pitt player from the Calumet region [East Chicago, Ind.] is profiting from the combination of eastern and midwestern support.

The total vote for players today has reached the astounding total of 1,658,952 with the climax several days away.

Fight Decisions

How's It, Fella?

nett's pop up which Durocher deliberately dropped to get Gabby on the bases. Galan doubled to left center and Hartnett, moving as fast as he could, which wasn't very fast, scored. Reynolds and Demaree flied out.

As soon as Camilli singled and Lavagetto walked in the fifth, French vanished. Russell took charge and Durocher forced Lavagetto, Camilli going to third. A passed ball gave Durocher time to sprint down to second. Koy was given a pass and when Shea flied deep to Galan in left, Camilli counted. Tamulis singled again and Durocher scored.

After the fourth, Herman was the first of the few Cubs to reach base. He opened the sixth with a single and, after two were out, Galan walked, but Reynolds flied to center. Hudson fumbled on Jurges in the eighth and after Herman had rolled into a double play, Hack and Garbark singled. Galan then flied to Koy. In the ninth Reynolds singled, Durocher booted Demaree's grounder and Collins singled, scoring Reynolds. Marty popped out for Russell and Jurges ended the affair quickly by bouncing into a double play.

ROOT, BRYANT HURL

There is a shortage of Cub pitchers for today, so old Charley Root will have to take one start and Clay Bryant the other in the double-header with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Brooklyn will rely on Luke Hamlin and Freddy Fitzsimmons.

Tex Carleton was worried yesterday by a lame arm. He thought he remembered something slipping in the shoulder while pitching against the Bees Monday. If the soreness persists today, he'll seek medical attention.

Just to demonstrate that he still has some power, Babe Ruth, now a Dodger coach, stepped to the plate before yesterday's game and slammed a few drives into and over the right field bleacher.

Phil Cavarretta celebrated his birthday yesterday by sitting on the bench, due to the presence of an enemy southpaw pitcher. The record book says Phil is 21, but he claims 22 years.

Indians End Yanks' 7 Game Streak, 5 to 3

New York, July 19.—(AP)—Mel Harder, the Cleveland Indians' veteran right-hander, beat the Yankees, 5 to 3, with six hits today and cut the champions' lead over the Tribe to half a game. The defeat broke a seven game Yankee winning streak and was their first in the stadium since June 8. They had won sixteen straight on their home grounds.

Harder wavered only twice. In the second, George Selkirk dropped a homer into the right field stands and in the ninth, with Tom Henrich on second, Bill Dickey hit his 18th homer of the season.

Lou Gehrig, who discovered Sunday night that he had fractured his thumb in that afternoon's game with the Tigers, took the cast off so he could run his string of consecutive games to 2,045. He went hitless, but made twelve putouts.

K. OF C. GOLFERS HOLD 11TH STATE TOURNEY TODAY

The eleventh annual state golf tournament of the Knights of Columbus will be decided today at Olympia fields. A field of more than 600 will battle for the title over the No. 1, 2, and 3 courses.

Included in today's schedule also will be two well known invitational events, the Kildeer Karnival and the Exmoor Jamboree. Western Springs will conduct its annual Whoopee day and Lincolnshire will inaugurate a mixed event with its first Stag 'n Doe day. The Chicago Women's District Golf association will hold an intra-district event at Flossmoor.

Four man teams from the Chicago Police and Fire Departments will meet for their annual golf championship and the Judge John F. O'Connell silver trophy in conjunction with the K. of C. tournament.

Richard Stahlman, Father of Former Bear Star, Dies

Richard Stahlman, father of Dick Stahlman, former Cleveland Indian pitcher and Chicago Bears' lineman, died yesterday in his home, 5728 North Talman avenue, of a heart attack. He was 65 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the chapel at 5501 North Ashland. In addition to the son, who also played football with the New York Giants and Green Bay Packers and now is a member of the Chicago police department, Mr. Stahlman is survived by his widow and two sisters, Ella Stahlman and Mrs. Margaret Lehman.

Drug Store Observations.

I watched them buy so many things
While waiting in the corner store,
The photo films and magazines—
And packs of cigarettes galore.

They bought perfume and powder, too,
And candy bars of every kind,
Although the store was meant for drugs—
To this most every one seemed blind.

How well do I remember now
The drug store that I used to know,
Where only medicine was sold—
But that was quite a while ago.

So many changes time has wrought
We cannot count them any more,
And not the least of these, I think,
Is found within the corner store.

I think that I have never seen
A pitcher quite like Dizzy Dean.

A braggadocio who's blessed
With stuff to prove his boasts aren't jest.

A guy who, if he had his way,
Would take the mound 'most every day;

And one so colorful in action
That he's baseball's top-notch attraction;

Upon whose arm Cub hopes depend;

Poems like this are often seen,
But there is just one Dizzy Dean.

Helsingfors Is Awarded 1940 Olympic Meet

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 19.—(AP)—The 1940 Olympic games, relinquished by Japan last week, were awarded officially to Finland today. Helsingfors was named the host city.

The invitation was issued by Count Henri de Baillet-Latour of Belgium, president of the international Olympic committee, after he received an official notification from the Japanese ambassador at Brussels of Japan's decision not to hold the games.

Two committees representing the government and civil authorities made plans to entertain the world's greatest athletes. The Finish government has agreed to finance the games. Work has started on plans for a stadium while the deputy of Helsingfors has suggested ocean liners be brought into port and used as floating hotels as a solution of the housing problem.

Kuopio, in the middle of Finland, has offered to arrange for the winter games. While no dates for the summer games have been announced, it is believed they will be moved back to July or August, dates more suitable to the United States and European countries. Had Tokio held the games, they would have been held in September and October.

Finland will hold the competition without the pomp and ceremony that surrounded the 1932 and 1936 games in Los Angeles and Berlin, respectively. Officials plan to model the games more after the 1912 competition in Stockholm.

Meanwhile, spokesman for the Italian Olympic committee said Italy would oppose any attempt of Japan to hold the 1944 games in Tokio.

New Trials Granted 18 Officials.

BY FRED GRAFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., July 19.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone today upheld the conviction of seventeen of forty-six defendants in a government oil conspiracy case. He set aside the verdict and dismissed indictments against eleven. He ordered a new trial for eighteen more. Of the seventeen whose convictions he sustained five are individuals and twelve are corporations.

Henry M. Dawes one of eleven defendants dismissed.

The forty-six defendants were found guilty by a jury six months ago. The trial lasted 111 days. It was known as the "first Madison oil case." The government charged that the companies and their officials had conspired to raise and fix gasoline prices. This was in 1935 and 1936.

It was on a defense motion to set aside this verdict that Judge Stone ruled today. He said he had studied the trial record and that it appeared to him that there were many who had no guilty knowledge of any conspiracy. These he dismissed. Because some of the defendants did not have adequate consideration of their defense they were granted new trials.

Fines Total $65,000.

On those whose convictions he upheld Judge Stone assessed fines. These totaled $65,000. Individuals must pay $1,000 each, the corporations $5,000 each. Court costs will be paid equally by the corporations.

Early last month Judge Stone accepted nolo contendere (no defense) pleas of thirteen major oil companies and eleven of their high officials. They were awaiting trial here on what was known as the "second Madison oil case." He fined them a total of $460,000, plus costs of $25,000. Col. William J. Donovan, chief defense counsel, said this afternoon that an appeal motion for those whose convictions were upheld would be filed soon with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago. No date was set for retrial of the 15 individuals and three corporations to whom Judge Stone granted new trials.

Those Dismissed.

The corporation against which the verdict was set aside and the charges dismissed is the Globe Oil and Refining company of Kansas. The ten individuals freed are:

Arthur V. Bourque, Tulsa, Okla., secretary and treasurer of the Western Petroleum Refiners' association.

Allan Jackson, Chicago, vice president of Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

C. L. Jones, New York City, vice president of Socony-Vacuum Oil company.

Edward G. Seubert, Chicago, president of Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

W. G. Skelly, Tulsa, Okla., president of Skelly Oil company.

Granted New Trials.

H. E. Brandli, New York City, vice president of Cities Service Export Oil company.

Edward J. Bullock, Chicago, vice president, Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Jones Urging Loans as Own Bank Cuts 'Em

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is giving the bankers of America one of the biggest puzzles they have yet encountered.

As head of the government's biggest lending agency Jones has just mailed to the directors and officers of all the banks in the country a letter insisting that the banks make more loans.

"When I made the statement recently that if banking is to remain in private hands it must meet the credit needs of the country, it was a frank observation of the general trend," he says in this letter.

"Many banks have realized changing credit requirements and are endeavoring to meet them, but entirely too many are on the sidelines waiting.

Warns U. S. Will Lend.

"You bankers know that with our great abundance of banking resources it should not be necessary for the government to lend to private industry. You should also know that the government will be forced to lend so long as there is a substantial demand for legitimate credit which is not being met."

Thus speaks Jones as a Washington official and head of the agency which owns 586 million dollars' worth of preferred stocks, notes, and debentures in the country's banks.

But Jones is not only head of a political body which owns a lot of bank stock and bank indebtedness. He is also a banker in his own right as chairman of the board of the National Bank of Commerce of Houston, Tex.

The record of the National Bank of Commerce shows that Jones, the banker, pays no attention to the advice of Jones, the chairman of the RFC.

Jones' Bank on "Sidelines."

If, as the chairman of the RFC inters in his letter, government ownership of the banking system is the alternative to more "liberal" loans by privately owned banks, then the chairman of the National Bank of Commerce is doing what he can to bring about government ownership.

If bankers are waiting on the "sidelines," Chairman Jones of the National Bank of Commerce must accept the scolding of Chairman Jones of the RFC, according to his own bank's published figures. In fact, he stands not far from J. M. [Hundred Per Cent] Nichols of the First National Bank of Englewood.

A comparison of the Houston bank's statement of condition on June 30, 1938, with its statement on December 31, 1937, shows that despite an increase of nearly 1 million dollars in deposits during the last six months, its total loans and discounts have actually been reduced more than 2 million dollars.

Lends Less, Increases Cash.

Instead of lending more money to business men and farmers or investing more money in bonds, the Jones bank has increased its cash from 20 millions to 23 millions during the last six months.

The National Bank of Commerce is a 46 million dollar bank. During the first half of 1938 its loans dropped from $9,723,000 to $7,677,000. Its investments in United States government securities increased slightly. Its holdings of other securities remained about the same. The ratio of its loans to its total deposits dropped from 25 per cent to 20 per cent during the first six months of 1938.

Observing this Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde attitude on the part of the administration's No. 1 banker, officers and directors of other banks say they can't figure out whether they are supposed to do as Jones says or as Jones does.

Has Double Relationship.

Jones has a double relationship even in his own bank. As head of the RFC he is a more important influence than as chairman of the bank's board of directors, because of the Houston bank's 3 million dollars of capital stock, 2 million dollars is preferred stock sold to the RFC in 1934.

Oddly enough, also, the Jones bank's big competitor, the First National Bank in Houston, increased its loans from $13,204,000 to $14,069,000 during the first half of 1938, while the National Bank of Commerce was reducing loans.

INDUSTRY'S TAX LOAD TWICE AS HEAVY AS IN '32

Levies Top Amount Paid to Investors.

[Statistics on taxes paid by 150 companies appear on page 23.]

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

American industry is now carrying double the tax load it had in 1932. Government tax collectors are taking more of the earnings of industrial companies than is going to the millions of investors whose savings are used to finance these enterprises. These facts were disclosed yesterday by the American Federation of Investors, which made an exhaustive investigation of the tax experience of 150 leading industrial corporations from 1932 through 1937.

Among the facts brought to light by the investigation was that industry paid taxes in 1937 amounting to $514 for each employé on its pay rolls. Further, the study showed, the government got a third more in taxes than stockholders [the owners of corporations] got in dividends.

Investors, Employés Compared.

Persons with a proprietary interest [through stock ownership] in the 150 corporations studied outnumbered by more than two to one the number of persons employed by the same companies. It took the capital of 6,490,821 investors to provide jobs for 3,171,250 employés.

Some stockholders, owning shares in more than one company, were counted more than once in calculating the total of 6½ million investors. The large margin by which the total exceeded the number of employés, however, demonstrated diversity of ownership and the vast number of persons with a direct interest in the financial success of the companies aside from the employés.

The average size of holdings amounted to 111 shares per stockholder. More than three-quarters of the stockholders held less than 100 shares each, the study showed.

Tax Bills Shown.

The aggregate tax bills [state and federal] of the 150 companies for the three different years chosen for purpose of comparison were:

| 1937. | 1936. | 1932. |
|---|---|---|
| $1,631,284,094 | $1,258,438,606 | $681,648,286 |

A breakdown of the 1937 tax total showed an average of $2.62 paid in taxes for each share of common stock issued by the companies. Dividends paid per share on the stock amounted to only $1.25. Averaged among the total number of common stock holders the 1937 taxes amounted to $291 each. Applied to the number of persons employed the tax per worker was $514 last year.

The companies included in the study reported combined assets for 1937 of $41,964,055,446 and represented a cross-section of American industry.

One of the big items in the 1937 tax bills of these companies consisted of funds paid out to the federal and state government in old age and unemployment insurance taxes.

These taxes will increase in future years under the provisions of the social security act.

Gen'l Electric June Quarter Profits Drop

Second quarter earnings of the General Electric company were somewhat lower than first quarter profits and were less than half the company's profit in the second quarter of last year. This was indicated yesterday in the semi-annual report by Gerard Swope, president of the company. A number of companies reported higher earnings for the June quarter than in the preceding three months, but a decline as compared with the 1937 June quarter.

General Electric's indicated profit for the three months ended June 30 was $6,101,217, compared with $7,075,739 in the preceding quarter and $14,667,196 in the June, 1937, quarter. Profit in the first six months dropped to $13,176,956 or 46 cents a common share, from $26,293,604 or 91 cents a share in the first half of 1937.

Wrigley Reports Increase.

Companies reporting an increase in profits over the first quarter but a decrease compared with second quarter earnings in 1937 included William Wrigley Jr. company, Beech-Nut Packing company, Continental Steel corporation, and Clark Equipment company, maker of automobile parts.

The Wrigley company's net profit for the second quarter amounted to $1,948,781, or 99 cents a capital share. This compared with profit of $1,433,823, or 73 cents a share in the preceding three months and $2,573,735, or $1.31 a share, in the quarter ended June 30, 1937.

The first twenty-nine industrial companies to report earnings for the second quarter showed a combined increase of 55.8 per cent in profits over the first quarter, but a drop of 73.4 per cent from earnings in the June, 1937, quarter. This was reported yesterday by Dow-Jones and company. The twenty-nine companies had an aggregate profit in the June quarter of $5,059,604 against $3,247,319 in the preceding three months and $14,007,481 in the second quarter of last year.

Everyday Economics

Auto Workers Over 40.

Life may not begin for many men of forty connected with the automobile industry, but their jobs do, according to the Automobile Manufacturers' association. A study made by the organization shows that more than half of all men more than forty who worked in automobile factories in 1937 were past forty when they were hired.

The study, which covers automobile and body plants representing about half the industry, discloses that 73,000 men at least forty years old were on the pay rolls in 1937. Of these, 39,000 had been hired for the first time by their current employers after they had passed their fortieth birthday.

The study shows that average annual wages of men hired at forty or over amounted to $1,400, with average hourly rates ranging from 88 cents to 96 cents.

Maximum earnings, both in terms of hourly rate and annual wage, of men past forty went to those who had the earliest start in the industry, however. Men over forty who started with their present employer at ages between 25 and 30 have done best because of their long experience and familiarity with automobile productive processes. They averaged more than $1.07 an hour and $2,027.75 for the full year during 1937.

Morgan Firm Partner Cuts Stock Holding

George Whitney, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. and brother of Richard Whitney, in May sold about $80,000 of securities in companies in which he is either a director or a trustee. This was disclosed yesterday in the second and final report for May by the Securities and Exchange commission on transactions by officers, directors, and principal stockholders in securities of their own companies.

George Whitney.

Yesterday's summary showed an edge of selling over buying on the whole. Since last October the SEC reports have shown a predominance of sales by the "insiders," although in the March reports and in the first report for May buying and selling were about equal.

Loaned Big Sum to Brother.

George Whitney from 1928 to the end of last year loaned $2,897,000 to his brother, Richard, former president of the New York Stock exchange, who was convicted of misappropriation of customers' securities. This total included a loan of $1,082,000 made last November. The SEC summary includes transactions by persons only if they are directors or officers of the firm involved or hold more than 10 per cent of the stock of the company.

Sales reported by the Morgan partner, made on May 25 and May 26,

Rails, Union Adamant on Cut in Wages

Representatives of the railroad trainmen and of the railroads yesterday continued deadlocked on the proposal of the latter to cut wages 15 per cent. After a meeting lasting from 10 a. m. until 12:55 p. m. at the Stevens hotel spokesmen for both groups asserted they would not budge from their stand.

George M. Harrison.

This afternoon more than 1,000 railroad union officers and delegates under the leadership of George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, will open their conference on the wage cut. They will meet H. A. Enochs, chairman of the carriers' joint conference committee, and the members of his group. The meeting will be held at the Palmer house.

Union Groups Act Separately.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and about 100 members of his organization from various railroads conferred yesterday with Enochs and his committee. The trainmen are acting separately from the other brotherhoods, as Whitney withdrew from the Railway Labor Executives' association in June, 1937, because of differences with the association regarding the railroad retirement act.

Whitney declared at the end of yesterday's meeting that his organization will not accept any reduction in wages. He denied reports of any possibility of a compromise which might result in his union agreeing to give up the 5 per cent wage increase it received on Oct. 1, 1937.

Outlines Rail Positions.

Enochs again briefly outlined the railroads' position to the trainmen and answered questions. He said a false viewpoint is held, in some quarters, that a reduction in railway wages will reduce purchasing power and thereby intensify the depression. He said the railroads spend all the money they take in as fast as they receive it.

The conferences with the trainmen will be carried on in morning meetings at the Stevens hotel and those with the other brotherhoods will be held in the afternoons.

N. Y. CENTRAL RY. TO ABANDON FREE PICKUP, DELIVERY

The New York Central railroad yesterday notified the interstate commission at Washington that it will abandon its free pickup and delivery service for freight. Joining with it in the announcement were a number of other roads, most of them affiliated with the New York Central.

The New York Central stated that it proposed to file changes calling for charges of 5 to 10 cents per 100 pounds for pickup and delivery service. At Chicago the rate will be 10 cents a 100 pounds.

STOCKS SWEEP UPWARD TO NEW PEAKS FOR YEAR

Trading Most Active Since Rise Began.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 19.—The stock market swept forward to new high ground for the year today as domestic and foreign buying orders whirled prices 1 to 6 points higher. Intermitten selling waves were absorbed in good style throughout the session, but served to prevent the rise from getting out of bounds.

Trading was the heaviest since the current advance began last June 20, the day's turnover reaching 2,942,210 shares. This was the largest volume since last October.

So urgent was the demand that the high-speed ticker fell four and six minutes behind at several intervals, again forcing exchange officials to resort to the "flash" system of stating prices of leading issues.

Orders Swamp Floor Brokers.

Bunched buying orders swamped floor crews at the opening and individual issues spurted 1 and 2 points on blocks of 1,000 to 8,000 shares. Following a brief breathing spell a new wave of demand spread over the list and sent prices to new highs.

The buying stemmed from many quarters, according to observers. A large portion of the early demand was attributed to foreigners seeking safety for their money as a result of the increasingly dangerous situation developing in central Europe, emphasized by the collapse of prices on the Berlin boerse.

Better domestic news provided the stimulus for the demand, including reports that steel operations in the Pittsburgh district had expanded and that domestic copper prices will be advanced following the strength in the export price of the red metal.

Resistance Level Pierced.

Piercing of the Dow-Jones industrial average of 140 yesterday, heretofore regarded as the resistance level inspired bullishness among professional traders and stimulated some buying. Short covering also aided in the advance.

Rotating leadership was a highlight of the day's trading. Steels, motors, oils, and merchandising issues

The above Bonds are solely the obligations of the Board of Administrators of the Charity Hospital of Louisiana at New Orleans, a public corporation created by various acts of the Louisiana Legislature and constituting an agency of the State, and are not obligations of the State of Louisiana. These bonds are exclusively secured as to payment of both principal and interest by an irrepealable dedication of the second $400,000 per annum from the levy and collection of the annual franchise tax on corporations levied by the State of Louisiana, and the Board of Administrators of the Charity Hospital has also provided, in accordance with the statute under which these bonds are authorized to be issued, that these bonds shall be a first lien on any surplus of the first $400,000 of the tax remaining after payment of the annual principal and interest charges on the $4,400,000 issue outstanding, dated October 15, 1936. It is further provided by statute that so long as there shall be outstanding and unpaid any bonds or interest thereon said franchise tax on corporations shall continue to be levied and collected. The first $800,000 of the annual collection of such taxes levied and collected are required to be remitted directly by the Secretary of State to the Board of Administrators, to be used by the Hospital for the purpose of paying the principal and interest on the first and second issues respectively. Any balance of said sum, after paying said bonds and the interest thereon as the same shall become due, may be used by said Hospital for its general operation, maintenance and improvement.

Stocks, Bonds

were prominent in the forenoon. In the afternoon, metals, farm implements and public utility issues assumed leadership. Carrier shares became the feature in the closing stages of the session.

Some difficulty was experienced in establishing opening prices for some of the pivotal issues. United States Steel common opened ten minutes late at 61½, up 1 point, on a block of 5,000 shares. The stock continued in demand and closed with a gain of 1⅜ points at 62¼, a new high for the year.

Chrysler gave one of the best performances in some time, soaring 3 points to a new high of 72½ in keen demand. General Motors also reached a new high with a spurt of 1⅜ points.

New York Central and Southern Pacific came forward strongly in the carrier section. The former was the most active issue of the day and closed at 20 for a gain of nearly 1 point.

Leading coppers registered gains ranging between 1 and 2 points. Anaconda, up 1, was the volume leader.

Heavy machinery shares, recent laggards, were brought forward today under the leadership of General Electric and Deere. The former gained 1 point and Deere 1¼ points.

United States Rubber again was leader in its division, spurting 2 points to a new high. Goodyear, up a fraction, and Goodrich, up 1, also made new peaks for the year.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 19.—(AP)—The bond market went over strongly on the recovery side today, with gains of 1 to around 4 points well distributed throughout the list.

Rail issues were in heaviest demand as the volume of sales, largest since June 29, mounted to $10,382,850 face value, compared with $6,166,900 Monday. Traders were heartened by reports of increased freight movements, especially in the agricultural regions. Strength of Nickel Plate issues followed announcement by the management fit would ask holders of the $15,000,000 unsecured 6 per cent notes to assent to a three-year extension of maturity.

On the averages, industrials and utilities reached new highs for the year. Reflecting the optimism over business outlook which prevailed among traders in stocks, related issues in the loan list were likewise in demand at rising prices.

United States government obligations were comparatively quiet and irregular. Gains ranged up to 3-32ds, while losses of as much as 6-32ds were recorded. Foreign loans were mixed.

Bank Stocks.

Investment houses disagreed again yesterday on nominal quotations for several Chicago bank stocks. One dealer quoted Harris Trust and Savings bank shares $5 higher at 295 bid price, but another announced the same stock was unchanged from Monday at $290 bid, $300 ask price. Smaller differences were apparent in quotations on Continental-Illinois National Bank and Trust and Northern Trust shares. Trading volume was small, however, and most issues closed unchanged.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE LISTS AM. TELEPHONE

Goodyear, Wayne Pump Also Approved.

Listing on the Chicago Stock exchange of the capital stock of the world's largest corporation—American Telephone and Telegraph company—was approved yesterday by the exchange's executive committee. This action, together with approval at the same time of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company and Wayne Pump company stock listings, means that a total of more than 24 million shares will be admitted to trading on the exchange within the next thirty days.

The stocks are being listed in accordance with the exchange's invitation to large companies already on the New York exchange to list at Chicago without paying the usual listing fee. The move was made in an effort to bring to Chicago the natural middle western trading market existing for stocks of national companies having stockholders in this area.

11 Big Board Stocks Added.

The approval of the three firms' shares yesterday makes a total of eleven "Big Board" stocks listed since the invitation was issued in April. Two of these, Container corporation and Pressed Steel Car company, have been admitted to trading.

American Telephone, with total assets of more than five billion dollars, has more than 640,000 stockholders owning its 19 million shares. Many of these owners are in this area. La Salle street brokers report that many orders to buy and sell "A. T. & T." originate in Chicago every day.

Stocks Reach New Highs.

Chicago stocks climbed yesterday to new high levels for the year for the third consecutive day. Trading was the broadest of any session this year, with 130 stocks traded, of which 81 advanced, 17 declined and 32 were unchanged. Volume was 56,000 shares, against 35,000 Monday.

Gains ranged from fractions to a point or more. The Tribune average of 20 stocks went at one time to 11.77, highest since Nov. 17, 1937, when 11.94 was reached. The close was 11.60, up 0.15. Twenty-six issues made new 1938 highs. Most stocks, however, closed off from the day's tops.

A total of $12,000 of bonds was traded yesterday on the exchange, largest volume since June 24, 1936. The exchange on Monday put into effect new rules to stimulate bond trading.

WHEAT PRICES TRAIL ADVANCE IN SECURITIES

Strength in securities and an unexpected upturn in Liverpool wheat prices tended to restrict selling of wheat futures yesterday in North American markets. Prices advanced about 1 cent in the early trading, and although they reacted as the result of hedging pressure, closing sales on the Chicago Board of Trade were ⅜ to ½ cent a bushel higher.

Corn showed independent weakness and closed ⅝ to ¾ cent a bushel lower. Reports of a slow export demand and improvement in the outlook for the new crop affected sentiment. Professional traders and cash interests were said to have been the leading sellers.

Price changes in oats, rye, and soy bean futures were largely confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel.

New Trials Granted to 15 Officials.

sales manager of Phillips Petroleum company.

A. G. McGuire, Milwaukee, chairman of the board of directors of Wadhams Oil company.

Noel Robinson, New York City, vice president of Tide Water Oil company.

Edward L. Shea, New York City, president of Tide Water Oil company.

J. W. Warner, Tulsa, Okla., Tidewater Oil company.

O. J. Tuttle, Tulsa, Okla., tank car sales manager for Empire Oil and Refining company.

The companies granted a new trial are Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Barnsdall Refining corporation, and Cities Service company.

The five indiyiduals whom Judge Stone fined are:

Charles E. Arnott, New York City, vice president of Socony-Vacuum Oil company.

H. T. Ashton, St. Louis, manager of Lubrite division, Socony-Vacuum Oil company.

P. E. Lakin, St. Louis, general sales manager, Shell Petroleum corporation.

Robert W. McDowell, Tulsa, Okla., vice president of Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation.

R. H. McElroy Jr., Chicago, tank car sales manager for Pure Oil company.

The companies fined $5,000 are: Socony-Vacuum Oil company, Wadhams Oil company, Pure Oil company, Sinclair Refining company, Shell Petroleum corporation, Skelly Oil company, Continental Oil company, Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, Empire Oil and Refining company, Phillips Petroleum company, Globe Oil and Refining Company of Illinois, Globe Oil and Refining Company of Oklahoma.

Originally 72 Defendants.

The indictment, upon which all of the above companies and officials were found guilty in January, originally listed seventy-two defendants—twenty-three oil companies, three trade publications, and forty-six individuals. During the course of the long trial Judge Stone dismissed sixteen of the individual defendants, seven of the corporation defendants, and all three of the trade publications—the Chicago Journal of Commerce, Platt's Oilgram, and the National Petroleum News. The latter two are published at Cleveland.

The trade publications were accused by the government of conspiring with the oil companies by knowingly publishing the "artificially high and arbitrary" prices on gasoline.

Thus, of the original seventy-two defendants, thirty-seven now have been freed of conspiracy charges, eighteen have won a new trial, and seventeen have been fined and will carry their fight to the United States Court of Appeals.

Delivers Long Opinion.

In the long brief accompanying his rulings today, Judge Stone said that a "careful and thoughtful restudy of the evidence," which was laid before the jury, "shows that the defendants were in varying situations in relation to the acts complained of by the government." There were 12,000 pages of testimony and one thousand exhibits.

"The charges against the defendants are in a field of economic controversy," the judge said. "Violations of anti-trust laws are different from crimes which are mala in se [evil in themselves]. The department of justice has, in each case where it believes a violation has occurred, the choice of a criminal or civil proceeding. It recognizes that the rule of reason, long considered essential in administration of the Sherman anti-trust act, makes sharply defined standards impossible.

Planned to Review Verdict.

In view of those circumstances I concluded to let the case go to the jury as to all defendants and after the verdict to exercise, if necessary, the discretion of the court to prevent any miscarriage of justice.

"Many of the acts were innocent enough on their face, so that a defendant, knowing only what appeared on the surface, might easily have drawn no inference of violation of law.

"The whole activity of a large part of a great industry of the country was involved. Large corporations with a national distribution of gasoline were committed to a course or policy by agents or officials in charge of one department, but it is not at all clear that the responsible executives in charge of the company ever had any knowledge that a small portion of purchases, here complained of, had been made as a result of this conspiracy."

That the jury, which lived apart from the world and sat through nearly four months of complicated and technical testimony, "was in a position to make a complete and critical study of the proof, as it applied to each defendant, is at least doubtful," Judge Stone asserted.

In granting a new trial for eighteen of the defendants, Stone said there was "good reason to believe that certain defendants have not had an adequate separate consideration of their defense" and that "some of the direct evidence of participation was lacking or slight."

After a lengthy résumé of the conspiracy charged by the government, a conspiracy which allegedly fixed artificially high prices on gasoline in ten middlewestern states during 1935 and 1936 through the operation of concerted buying pools in the mid-continent and east Texas oil fields, Stone dismissed the pleas of the remaining defendants as follows:

"I am satisfied that there was ample evidence to sustain the government's contention that the defendants did have the power to control the market and that they did so, as charged."

Eastern Air Lines.

Investors' Guide: Do you have any information on Eastern Air Lines and its financial condition?—B. M. Z.

Answer: Eastern Air Lines, Inc., is one of the most profitable of the air transportation enterprises now operated in the United States. Last year, when most airlines were losing money due to higher costs, Eastern Air Lines operated well in the black. The first quarter of this year also was profitable.

The present Eastern Air Lines, Inc., was organized in Delaware March 28, 1938. Previously, it had been the Eastern Air Lines division of North American Aviation, Inc. Early this year, however, Messrs. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Smith, Barney & Co. bought Eastern from North American Aviation for $3,500,000. A block of Eastern stock later was offered for sale.

Eastern Air Lines transports mail, passengers and express between Newark, N. J., and Miami, Fla.; Atlanta, Ga., Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., and Houston, Tex. A line also is operated between Chicago, Ill., and Miami, Fla. Twenty-one airplanes are owned by the company.

In addition to regular air transport activities, the company charters planes for special flights, services airplanes, rents hangar space, and sells fuel and oil at certain airports.

Recent reports indicate that traffic on the company's lines has been running well ahead of last year. President Rickenbacker reported that the company in May had the greatest revenue for any May in the company's history. Earnings for the first quarter were $124,075, compared with $70,768 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Total operating revenues in 1937 were $4,748,427 and net income was $196,982, or 47 cents a share. This compares with revenues of $3,935,053 and net income of $182,533 or 44 cents a share, in 1936. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1937, showed total assets of $3,170,844. Current assets were $914,290, against current liabilities of $572,170.

Capitalization consists solely of 416,666 shares of $1 par capital stock. No dividends are being paid.

The stock is speculative.
